SCHAFER FLAYS CAPITAL CRIME CRITICS IN TALK

Figures of Other Cities Cited in House Speech as Defense.

LAW ENFORCEMENT HERE CALLED GOOD

Increase of Drunkenness Arrests in Last Eight Years Claimed.

BLEASE AMONG THOSE SCORED IN REMARKS

Washington is "much freer from crime" than many other cities in the country, Representative John Schafer (wet Republican), of Wisconsin, told the House yesterday, and he cited figures and facts to prove his assertion.

On Monday Schafer tried to deliver his speech, but was blocked by Representative Fuller (dry Democrat), of Arkansas. Yesterday he got permission to talk about a section in the Interior appropriation bill dealing with the health of Indians.

In order to keep his speech germane to the bill, Schafer interlarded it with random remarks about the Indians, while other wets laughed heartily.

Hoover Statement Upheld.

"President Hoover," Schafer said, "was absolutely correct when he stated in his message to Congress that law enforcement conditions in Washington are much better than in many other cities. Citizens of America, reading the Congressional Record and excerpts from Washington newspapers incorporated therein, may reach a conclusion that the Nation's Capital is a cesspool of crime, and unsafe for them and their loved ones to visit."

To bear out his contention that Washington is freer of crime than many other cities, Schafer quoted from statistics he has been compiling in the last several weeks.

"The population estimated by the Bureau of the Census for Atlanta, Ga., on July 1, 1928," he said, "is 255,100. The police department of Atlanta, Ga., show 678 drunken drivers arrested during the year 1929."

425 in Omaha.

"The population estimated for Omaha, Nebr. (home town of Senator Howell, author of a dry act for Washington), is 228,805. The police department statistics for Omaha show 425 drunken drivers arrested in 1928.

"The population for Charleston, S. C. (represented by Senator Blease, who says Washington is 'rotten to the core'), is 75,900. The police department statistics show 142 drunken drivers arrested during the year 1928.

"The population for the District of Columbia on July 1 was 552,000. The police department statistics show 415 drunken drivers arrested in 1928.

"Surely the life of an American citizen traversing the highways of the National Capital is in less danger of being snuffed out by an intoxicated automobile driver than it would be in Atlanta, Omaha or Charleston."

Increase in Drinks Claimed.

Schafer cited figures to show that there has been an astounding increase in the number of persons arrested for intoxication in the last eight years.

In Atlanta, Ga., 3,136 drunks were arrested in 1919, and 9,910 in 1928; in Omaha, 1,966 were arrested in 1919, and 5,062 last year; in Charleston, 382 were arrested in 1919, and 1,319 last year; in the District of Columbia,

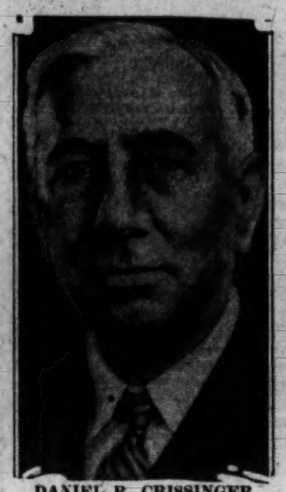
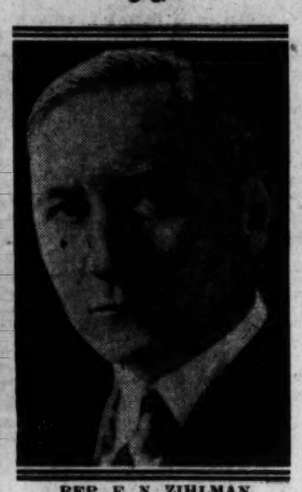
Zihlman Named in Indictment Accusing F. H. Smith Co. Officers

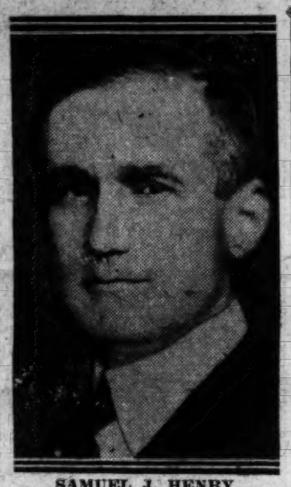
G. BRYAN PITTS.



DANIEL R. CRISSINGER.



REP. F. N. ZIHLMAN.



SAMUEL J. HENRY.

C. ELBERT ANADALE.

Seven Officials of Firm Accused of Using Mails To Defraud.

R. Golden Donaldson Hit in Grand Jury Report to Court.

Representative Frederick N. Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland, who, along with six officials of the F. H. Smith Co., was indicted yesterday for using the mails to defraud, announced last night that he would visit the courthouse this morning and post a $10,000 bond.

Zihlman, who, by virtue of his position as chairman of the House District committee, has been known as the "mayor of Washington," resigned as a director of the F. H. Smith Co. about 10 days ago.

It is understood that the other indicted officials also will post bond today. They are:

Daniel R. Crissinger, former Comptroller of Currency, a director of the Smith Co.; G. Bryan Pitts, chairman of the board; Samuel J. Henry, president of the company; C. Elbert Anadale, secretary; John H. Edwards, jr., vice president, and Henry C. Maddux, of the Hamilton Hotel Co.

House Committee to Meet.

Whether Representative Zihlman is to continue as chairman of the House District committee probably will be decided by the House committee of committees at a meeting tomorrow or Friday. Thus far the District committee has not been organized.

"I know of no wrongdoing on the part of the F. H. Smith Co. while I was a member of the board," Zihlman said yesterday. "I am not familiar with the nature of the charges against me, but whatever they are I am ready and willing to meet them.

"I am not going to try and hide behind Congressional immunity, because I am convinced that I will be vindicated when I have had a chance to present my side of the case."

R. Golden Donaldson, president of the Commercial National Bank and a member of the District of Columbia Bar, while not indicted, was scathingly denounced in a special report filed by the grand jurors. In his case the grand jury recommended that the court investigate the facts and make proper charges.

Donoldson yesterday issued the following statement:

"My transactions with the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co. occurred in the early part of the year 1926, nearly four years ago.

"They were the subject of a written contract between us, and the fact that in this matter, I was acting for the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co. was known to all parties concerned.

"The Boyle-Robertson Construction Co. was a customer of the bank and received only the usual accommodations, all of which they paid in full in the early part of 1927 and have never been indebted to the bank since that time."

Seven Individuals Indicted.

Those indicted are charged with violating section 215 criminal code,

CONVICTS' LEASING DEFENDED BY U. S.

Stories, emanating from Georgia, telling of the reversion to the system of leasing Federal prisoners for road construction, which have been the basis of indignant complaints from colored welfare organizations, were answered yesterday by a statement issued by the Department of Justice describing the new system as "an advanced step in penology."

It was learned by The Post that the colored race felt that discrimination was shown in the belief that only colored prisoners were leased out under contract. Colored organizations drafted strenuous objections to the new system, which they feel is discriminatory.

The root of the controversy is in the contract, executed on October 18, 1929, between the Prison Commission of Georgia and the Federal Government. Under the terms of this agreement, the Government transferred to the prison commission 200 colored prisoners from the Atlanta Penitentiary, who were assigned to labor in the Catham County construction camp.

It was specified in the contract that suitable and sanitary housing facilities be provided, wholesome food and decent clothing be given the convicts and it forbade corporal punishment in disciplining prisoners. It also forbade the use of bloodhounds in pursuit of escaped convicts. Labor time is limited to eight hours. The contract also bans the placing of prisoners in stocks.

While the convicts will be used in construction work by the State or county, the Federal Government does

HEFLIN NOW PLANS FREE BOOK BILL AID

Alabaman's Shift Guarantees Passage of Measure by Senator Capper.

ONCE PREVENTED ACTION

Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, yesterday announced in the Senate that he is strongly in favor of the Capper bill to provide free textbooks to local high students. Thus the passage of that bill is assured.

In the Seventieth Congress the textbooks bill was passed by the House and would have been passed by the Senate had it not been for Heflin. The Alabama senator tacked on an amendment specifying that no books should be used containing anything contrary to the American doctrine of separation of church and state.

While none of the senators was opposed to this doctrine, they didn't like to see Heflin use the bill to stir up a religious issue.

When he arose yesterday, Senator Heflin quoted from The Washington Post a story about the action of the 100 representatives of parent-teacher

SENATE TO ASK BARNES ABOUT ACTS ON GRAIN

Hoover's Prosperity Aid Summoned by Lobby Investigators.

FARM BOARD FIGHT LOOMS IN PICTURE

MISUNDERSTOOD, HIS FRIENDS POINT OUT

Legge Seen as Object of Fire From Market Men Who Conferred Here.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, but more prominent recently as President Hoover's director of prosperity, was yesterday requested to appear before the Senate committee investigating lobbyists.

Senator Caraway, chairman of the committee, said that Barnes would be asked to explain his recent activities in connection with the fight that is waging between the Farm Board and the grain commission men.

The commission men are up in arms against the board because, in their opinion, it plans to put them out of business. Barnes had several of the big grain men here last week and was generally conspicuous in their conferences with Chairman Alexander Legge of the board, and at the White House.

Believed Referred to by Nye.

He is the man believed to have been referred to by Senator Nye, of North Dakota, when he charged in the Senate Monday that following the conferences a certain man had sent out the word that Legge had been checked. From the tone of Legge's speech in Chicago, Monday night, he has not been checked and at the White House yesterday it was said that the President is whole-heartedly behind him.

In the absence of any official statements as to Barnes' part in the fight of the commission men, his friends insisted yesterday that he had been placed in the wrong light, pot that he had not been active, but as to his purpose.

Barnes was trying to placate the commission men, it was said, instead of joining with them in their fight against Legge. Regardless of the fact that he is heavily interested in the grain trade himself, it was contended that his sole purpose now was to help his friend, the President. It was with this end in view that he called three of the biggest grain men here, according to this version of his activity.

Commission Men Backed Hoover.

It is recalled that it was the commission men of the Middle West who

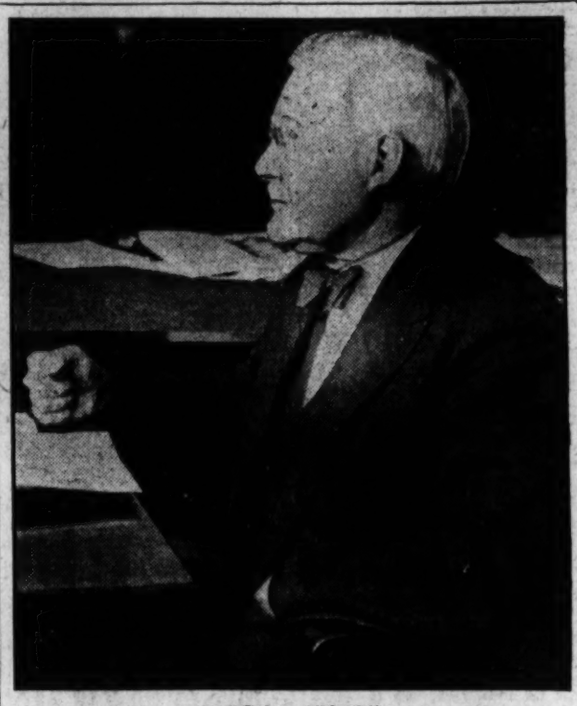
GRUNDY'S SELECTION AS VARE SUBSTITUTE HELD CERTAIN TODAY



JOSEPH L. GRUNDY.

Gov. Fisher, Still Silent, Expected to Name Him to Senate Vacancy.

ATTACK BY CARAWAY SEEN AS ADDED SPUR

Action Will Be Dictated by Executive's 'Owners,' Arkansan Says.

LOBBY COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS ARE READ

Grundy's Purity of Faith in Tariff Matters Doubted by Investigators.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Announcement of the appointment of Joseph R. Grundy as junior senator from Pennsylvania tomorrow morning by Gov. John S. Fisher tonight appeared certain with the return of the governor to the capital.

Gov. Fisher attended the funeral this afternoon at Lancaster for the late Representative W. W. Griest. Maintaining his reticence on the selection the governor did not confer with William S. Vare, who since his rejection by the Senate has said he would be a candidate for reelection next May.

The designation of Grundy to fill the seat denied Vare, according to word from official sources, would be made in spite of the attack made on both the likely appointee and the governor by Senator Caraway on the floor of the Senate today.

Gov. Fisher refused to comment on the Caraway statement. Persons close to the administration said at the capitol, however, that the incident served to strengthen the determination of Fisher to name whom he chooses to represent Pennsylvania and that Grundy was his choice.

Both Are Antagonized.

The chance that Grundy may not accept the post, it also was asserted by followers of the Pennsylvania manufacturer, was eliminated by the charge of the Arkansas senator that Grundy, if named, would be appointed "by the people who bought and paid for the office the Governor of Pennsylvania now occupies."

Both the governor and Grundy were pictured by their friends as antagonized by the statement.

The contemplated appointment of Grundy would act, they said, as an answer to Caraway in the form of a reprisal.

The general belief that formal announcement of the selection of Grundy would be made was shared by Senator David A. Reed, who headed the Pennsylvania congressional delegation at the Griest funeral.

(Associated Press.)

Reporting on the "lobbying activities" of Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, to the Senate, Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee called attention yesterday to the possibility of Grundy's appointment to the Senate in the place of the banished William S. Vare.

Takes Rap at Fisher.

Caraway took note of recent references by Pennsylvania Republican leaders to himself and Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, as "old woman" and in reply referred to Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania.

"Mr. Grundy states that he is undecided whether he will accept a seat in this body or not which it is forecast will be offered him by the Governor of Pennsylvania," he continued. "I want to correct that last statement; not by the Governor of Pennsylvania, but by the people who bought and paid for the office the Governor of Pennsylvania now occupies."

Senator Caraway offered these observations after the six-page printed report of the lobby committee on its investigation into Grundy's activities

UNION LEADERS HELD IN COAL MINE RIOTS

Mines in Illinois Capital Area Guarded as Result of Demonstrations.

INDIANA ARRESTS LOOM

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Two National Union Mine Workers leaders were arrested and reinforcements were thrown about several mines in Springfield and vicinity tonight as the result of a demonstration today in which 50 striking miners and about the same number of women participated.

Those arrested were Roy Jones, secretary of the Springfield subdistrict of the National Miners Union, and Clarence Babb, Spring Valley.

They were seized by city and county police as leaders of a group which sought to induce the miners at the Capitol pits, located within the Springfield city limits, to strike in sympathy with the Taylorville miners.

Benton, Ill., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Armed only with the butts of pool cues, Sheriff James S. Pritchard and a lone deputy dispersed a crowd of some 50 National Miners Union strikers who had congregated at the Old Ben Mine No. 14, at Buckner today, to prevent loyal miners from going to work.

The sheriff said the strikers had caused damage to windshields and headlights of miners' automobiles and had hurled stones and coal at a few of the miners who went to work.

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The National Miners' Union held control in the Taylorville district tonight and was threatening to extend its coal strike over the State and possibly the Nation.

The last of four units in this field, that of the Tovey Mine No. 8, went over to the National Union late today. Immediately afterward a caravan of 100 automobiles, each bearing four to five miners, departed for Springfield.

Sheriff D. L. Dunbar, of Christian County, said he understood the strikers were to make a bid for recruits in the Springfield district before proceeding 60 miles south of here to

RITCHIE SAYS STATE HAS NO DRY AID DUTY

Maryland Governor Informs Boston Audience Burden Is Federal One.

CITY CRIME DATA CITED

Boston, Mass., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, proponent of the "wet" cause and an advocate of the principles of State's rights, tonight said that no State in the Union was under any obligation, legal or moral, to pass a State law to enforce or help enforce National prohibition.

Maryland, which never had a State enforcement law, was better off without one, according to Gov. Ritchie, who cited conditions in his State to support his assertion. He spoke before a large audience under the auspices of the Liberal Civic League which, with other "wet" groups, is behind a movement to repeal the State enforcement law in Massachusetts.

To substantiate his contention "that a State Volstead act is not necessary for an orderly and law-abiding city," Gov. Ritchie offered figures showing that in 1928, Boston, under such a State act, had 5,291 more arrests for drunkenness than Baltimore without a State enforcement act. "We look at other American cities, and we see more crime and more lawlessness under State Volstead acts than we have in Baltimore without one," he said.

Gov. Ritchie said that Baltimore, which has more than half the population of Maryland, has a better record for crime punishments than New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City and Milwaukee. He based his statement on figures compiled by Prof. Raymond Moley, of Columbia University.

Improved morale in the Baltimore police department, absence of crime waves and freedom of the police to devote their time to the detection of crime and the arrest of criminals, were some of the conditions obtaining in Maryland without a State Volstead act, he said.

Gov. Ritchie emphasized that although Maryland has no State pro-

100-Mile Auto Chase Ends in Two Arrests

Pair Is Held and Woman Companion Is Sought After Capital Merchant's Suspicions Are Aroused by Check Transaction.

A hunch strong enough to warrant a 100-mile automobile chase at a speed frequently faster than 70 miles an hour was vindicated Monday when Joseph A. Berberich, prominent Washington merchant, brought about the arrest at Ashland, Va., of two men wanted here for passing bad checks and possible other offenses.

The fact that a woman should make out a check for $89, calling for $44 change from a $45 purchase, aroused Berberich's suspicions Saturday, when one of his sales clerks sought his approval of the transaction. Influenced by the clerk's report on the purchaser's appearance and demeanor, Berberich approved the check and the woman left the store with a coat she had bought and $44 in cash.

On the following day, after thinking it over, he felt a growing conviction that something was wrong. He called at the address given by the woman, a rooming house on Thirteenth street, and learned there that she and two men who purported to be her brothers were transients who had ben there three days and were planning to leave Monday morning.

Arising at 5 o'clock Monday morning, Berberich drove to the Thirteenth street addresses and waited. Almost three hours later his vigil was rewarded when the woman and her two companions drove off in an automobile bearing Florida licenses.

Berberich followed, out along the Richmond road, until his quarry apparently grew suspicious and stepped on the gas, hitting 70 or better. Berberich hung on, and when the fleeing machine turned off on the road to Ashland, he was close behind.

A few miles before Ashland was reached, the Florida car skidded and overturned in a ditch. Its three occupants climbed out and one fled into the woods. Berberich called to some farmers nearby, and explained the situation to them. While they guarded the man and attempted to round up the other, he took the woman in his car and with one of the rustics as supercargo, set off for Ashland to notify the police.

Although Berberich had been careful not to let the woman surmise that he was other than a tourist going to Florida over the same route, she apparently had her own ideas in the matter, Berberich reported, for as soon as they were around a bend of the road she drew a pistol and held it threateningly while he drove.

Reaching the town, where he had told her she could find a wrecker to pull the overturned machine out of the ditch, the woman alighted and waited with the farm lad while Berberich sought the police. When he returned, however, the youth explained that his prisoner had decided to go elsewhere and, begging

Du Pont Pair Sued For $1,000,000 Balm

Former Sister-in-Law Asks Damages; Alienation Is Believed Grounds.

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Suit for $1,000,000 damages against Mrs. Jessie Ball du Pont and her husband, Alfred L. du Pont, was filed in Circuit Court here today by Gordon McCauley, attorney for Mrs. Mary Ball, a former sister-in-law of Mrs. du Pont.

Although the praecipe, as filed in court, does not state the grounds to be brought out in the declaration, it was recalled that in a divorce suit of Thomas Ball, Los Angeles attorney, against his wife, Mrs. Mary Ball, the latter threatened to bring a $1,000,000 suit against Mr. and Mrs. du Pont for alleged alienation of the affections of Ball.

In answer to her husband's divorce suit, made in January, 1928, at Los Angeles, Mrs. Ball said "there is conspiracy on the part of plaintiff's sister to take him away from defendant."

News dispatches from Wilmington, Del., today stated that Mr. du Pont, through his secretary, said he did not know anything about the suit filed here today in behalf of Mrs. Ball.

Baltimore Mayor Injured In City Hall Elevator Drop

Nine Other Passengers, Some Officials, Are Shaken in Fall.

Baltimore, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Mayor William F. Broening and nine other persons, some of them city officials, were severely shaken but not seriously injured when an elevator in the City Hall snapped a cable and fell three floors before being checked by safety appliances this afternoon.

The mayor was the most seriously injured of those in the car, but tonight disregarded orders of two physicians and attended a banquet in honor of the Baltimore Fire Department Football Team. He suffered injuries to his head, ankles and stomach.

Charles F. Goob, city engineer, also a passenger on the elevator, said the main cable snapped as the car started to leave the third floor when the of-

Minnesota Editors' Tariff Plea Causes Tilt in Senate

Post's Page Advertisement Stirs Debate Between Allen and Norris.

(By Associated Press.)

An appeal addressed to members of Congress and a full-page advertisement appearing in The Washington Post, signed by more than 100 editors and publishers of rural newspapers in Minnesota, asking that Congress enact the tariff bill without delay, provoked a brief tilt between Senators Allen (Republican), Kansas, and Norris (Republican, independent), Nebraska, in the course of yesterday's tariff debate.

The appeal said the bill with its "splendid new farm rate schedule" should be passed speedily and not "held up indefinitely to slash existing industrial rates."

Allen read the advertisement into the record and immediately Norris had been read by the reading clerk to the Senate. It related Grundy's actions in helping to raise $700,000 for the Hoover campaign last year and recalled he had been "almost continuously in Washington" since the tariff bill started a year ago.

Influence Belittled.

In conclusion, the report read:

"It was nowhere revealed in the testimony of Mr. Grundy that either he or anyone on his force was in a situation to offer any enlightenment to members of either house on any matters pertinent to the discussion of the tariff bill not available to them on application to the Tariff Commission and other branches of the Government.

"The inference is irresistible that it was believed by him and by those associated with him that by reason of the very substantial aid he had rendered as revenue raiser for political campaigns he would be able to influence the action of his party associates in the Congress."

Discussing Grundy's zeal for the protective tariff which was described as "religious in its intensity," the lobby report said:

"At the same time it can not be overlooked that he has grown rich in the pursuit of a highly protected industry. His product, wool yarn, is protected by a liberal compensatory duty, and on top of that an ad valorem to the amount of from 30 to 40 per cent, the maximum to be increased as the Senate finance committee proposes, to 55 per cent.

Sincerity Is Questioned.

"The purity of his faith is subjected to further suspicion from the fact that, while he says he did not oppose, he gave comfort to those who were asking a duty on manganese, entering into the production of steel, a leading product of the State of Pennsylvania, and more particularly is it impugned by the fact that he interested himself not at all in obtaining raises in the agricultural schedule, though he did not overlook wool, in which he is directly concerned."

The report said that Grundy had referred to numerous States as "backward" and had suggested that their senators "should talk darned small."

"Mr. Grundy," the report said, "was unable to submit any figures to support his assertion in the paragraph quoted from his statement that the States named 'do not pay enough toward the upkeep of the Government to cover the cost of collection,' and the declaration is obviously absurd. It was refuted by figures from the Treasury. He was further obliged to admit that there was no truth in the statement that States like Pennsylvania support what he denominated backward commonwealths, 'and provide them with good roads, their postoffices, their river improvements, etc.' He had, however, a solution for the troubles of the wheat farmer, namely, that he reduce his production of wheat."

hibition act, Baltimore and the counties have local laws governing the subject which allow the measure of enforcement the people of those places want.

NEW STORM LOOMS AS DEAD REACH 184

British Isles Warned Again; Thames Floods Feared in London Vicinity.

OCEAN STEAMERS LATE

London, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Shipping, wracked and scattered by week-long gales, was warned by the air ministry tonight to prepare for a new outburst of wild weather. The ministry said that a new gale probably would strike Ireland tonight and move rapidly over the British Isles.

Experts had scarcely had time to compute the loss of human life and of property by the storms which have lashed the coasts of Great Britain and the continent when this fresh threat developed.

Revised figures show at least 184 persons perished. Most of them died at sea, more than 69 ships having sunk, been wrecked or badly damaged.

Incomplete figures in Paris showed that 52 lives have been lost on the French coast or in the interior.

The stormy waters of the channel and the ocean lost some of their fury this afternoon, but still another ship sent an S O S. This was the British steamer Londonderry, in danger 10 miles northeast of Calais, France.

Thames Floods Chief Worry.

England's principal worry for the moment was over floods on the Thames and other rivers which were flooded far beyond ordinary marks.

At high tide tonight the waters of the Thames were within half a foot of the level during the disastrous flood in 1928.

Floods in the valley of the Thames have caused a serious situation. The river still is rising with its flow already twice the normal rate. The discharging capacity of the Thames when flowing bank full is 4,500,000,000 gallons daily, whereas today at Teddington the flow was 9,000,000,000 gallons.

In some places the Thames is two miles wide where in normal days the river resembles only a good-sized creek in the United States.

Pilots Kept to Ships.

Pilots of big liners were given unexpected free trips to foreign lands by the violence of the storm. The Holland-American liner Statendam, en route for New York, was prevented by rough weather from dropping her Southampton pilot at the Isle of Wight. The pilot will make the trip to New York.

Four other pilots are getting free trips to Maderia, Bremen, Cherbourg and London for the same reason.

Crippled vessels still are creeping slowly into port. The British liner Ada was one that limped into Cobh today with a makeshift steering arrangement.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Terrific gales which have caused heavy loss of life and property along the English coast have extended far out into the Atlantic and delayed from one to three days the arrival of passenger liners in New York, reports to ships' owners tonight showed.

The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, which holds the record for transatlantic crossings today was reported three days late. Radio advices from the ship today said she did not expect to reach Ambrose light ship, the entrance to New York Harbor, until Friday morning and reported heavy seas and storms were being encountered.

ESTATE OF WARREN IS PUT AT $6,742,449

Widow and Son Are Chief Beneficiaries Under Will Filed for Probate.

PERSHING LEFT $30,000

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The will of the late United States Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, in which the senator estimated the total value of the estate at $6,742,449 at the time it was drawn, March 4 last, was filed for probate here today. The widow, Mrs. Clara A. Warren, and a son, Frederick E. Warren, are the principal beneficiaries and are named as executers.

Gen. John J. Pershing, a son-in-law, was left $30,000 in stock of the Warren Live Stock Co. and the F. E. Warren Mercantile Co.

Large blocks of stock of the United States Rubber Co. and the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana were listed in the bequests to the widow, in addition to stock in several companies operated by Senator Warren in Wyoming. Market values of the stock at the time the will was drawn were used by the senator in the estimate of $6,742,449 as the total value of his estate. Francis E. Warren 2d, a grandson, and a granddaughter, Mary Helen Warren, were among relatives receiving substantial bequests. Several employes received $1,000 each.

The two largest bequests were $4,000,000 in United States Rubber Co. preferred shares and $1,875,000 in stock of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. Both were bequeathed to Mrs. Warren.

Senator Warren owned a miniature empire of which his holdings in Cheyenne were the center. His ranch and land holdings extended West into Albany County, East into Nebraska, South into Colorado and North as far as Goshen County.

SLAIN GIRL'S FIANCE ADMITS BETROTHAL

Floridian Tells of Receiving Present From Teacher Killed in Illinois.

MYSTERY BALKS POLICE

Tarpon Springs, Fla., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Glen Wiseman, vice president of a grapefruit canning company here, today admitted he was engaged to marry Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, Rockford, Ill., schoolteacher, who was found beaten to death in her apartment Sunday.

Wiseman said the girl planned to visit Tarpon Springs when the Rockford schools closed for the Christmas holidays. He said he received a Christmas present of a gold ring from Miss Gummersheimer Sunday, and before he had opened the package he received a telegram from a friend telling him of her death. He said he had received a letter from her two weeks ago in which she mentioned a tragedy that had taken place and which caused her much worry, but she failed to tell him what it was.

Miss Gummersheimer and Wiseman first met in Porto Rico in 1917.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Unable to piece together the jumbled bits of facts and fancies surrounding the slaying of Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, schoolteacher beaten to death in her apartment, authorities tonight were at a standstill in their search for the slayer and his equally elusive motive.

The only suspect, Dr. Floyd D. Leach, eccentric dentist, was released this afternoon, forestalling habeas corpus proceedings by Stanley Doyle, Chicago lawyer and American Legion enthusiast. Leach, a former soldier, had been seen in the neighborhood of the teacher's home Saturday night, the night of the slaying.

Radio Engineers Here To Hear Static Expert

Secretary Lamont of the Department of Commerce yesterday announced the appointment of Dr. John M. Gries, former chief of the division of building and housing of the Bureau of Standards, as head of the new division to facilitate Federal, State and municipal construction.

Farm Board's Sales Policy Plans Outlined

Plans of the Federal Farm Board for the development of a Nation-wide sales policy for agricultural products were outlined last night to a group of plant experts at a meeting at the Harrington Hotel. C. C. Teague, a member of the Farm Board, told of the proposal to tobacco experts from fourteen tobacco-growing States.

The purpose of the three-day meeting is to coordinate the research work in the State experiment stations and in the Department of Agriculture on problems related to tobacco diseases.

10 KILLED IN BLAZE AT NEW YORK STUDIO

More Than 20 Others of 100 in Building at Time Are Injured.

ALL DEAD ARE IDENTIFIED

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Overcome by smoke and the terrific heat just before they could reach safety, ten persons perished in a fire which today destroyed the old Manhattan Movie Studio in Harlem.

More than 20 others of the 100 persons who were in the building at the time were injured, some of them seriously.

The dead were found by firemen just inside of the main studio entrance, not more than 30 feet from the doorway through which most of the survivers poured in their frantic dash to the street.

Four of the dead were young women, chorus girls from Broadway musical shows, who were "doubling" at the studio during the day time in order to make extra money for Christmas.

List of Identified Dead.

A list of the identified dead follows:

Catharine Porter, 16, dancer; Harold Bischoff, makeup man; Ernest Wilson, bookkeeper; Al Kramer, handyman; Jack Quinn, actor; Robert Mussman, handyman; Edna Burford, 20, show girl (died in hospital); Jola Sparks, 16, dancer; Betty Byrne, 18, dancer; Charles Koerble, 35, Leonia, N. J.

The building was a roaring furnace by the time firemen arrived. With streams of water playing on them, two firemen made their way through the entrance and carried out ten bodies heaped in the hallway in the hope that not all were dead.

Life still lingered in but one of them, a pretty blonde dancing girl, who was carried to a waiting ambulance and rushed to the hospital. She was Edna Burford, 20-year-old showgirl. She died from burns a few hours later.

Fire Comes Without Warning.

The fire broke without warning upon a gay little cabaret scene which had been set upon the studio's stage. Make-believe "butter and egg men" sat laughing at the tables, a few chorus girls danced in the background.

Suddenly there came a shout of "fire." A velvet curtain was smoldering. Some one pulled it down. Its descent revealed a wall of fire blazing in a pile of scenery in the rear of the studio.

Stage hands and prop boys grabbed fire extinguishers. Others attempted to unreel a fire hose. But they could not head off the tongues of flame that licked greedily at the flimsy curtains and papier-mache of the studio furnishings. The heat became unbearable.

All seemed to realize that their only chance to save their lives remained in flight. In a mass they poured from the doorway. Those on the balcony made for the front stairs and added to the rush.

Girls Become Hysterical.

Scantily clad chorus girls—50 of them—stood shivering in the cold street, hysterical as they gazed at the flames leaping from every window of the two-story building that only a few minutes before had been bustling with so much activity.

Richard Stradline, an electrician, said he believed the fire started from a sun-arc light. He saw the light sputter, he said, and a glowing carbon dropped into a velvet drape. There was a tiny flash, and the curtain blazed up.

Studio officials said that if all inside had started for the exits at the first cry of fire there would have been no casualties.

Peter C. Spence, chief of the fire prevention bureau, later issued a statement in which he expressed the opinion that the law had not been violated at the studio. He said he believed the fire was probably due to a surreptitiously smoked cigarette and added that additional legislation should be enacted to take into account changed conditions created by the making of talking motion pictures.

Quizzed by Wife, Man Ends His Life

Army Sergeant Shoots Self When Asked About Two Days' Absence.

"Well, we'll end it all," said Sergt. William Brown, colored, of Fort Myer, as he held the muzzle of an Army .45 automatic pistol to his head and pulled the trigger when his wife berated him early yesterday morning because he had been away from home for two days without an explanation.

Brown, who was 38 years old and had been in the Service Detachment at Fort Myer for about eight years, left his home in South Washington Sunday, without telling his wife where he was going. He did not return until a few minutes before 4 o'clock yesterday morning and when his wife questioned him an argument developed which ended in the suicide.

The wounded soldier was rushed to Fort Myer Hospital, and then to Walter Reed Hospital, where he died shortly after being placed upon the operating table. Policeman John R. Burke, of South Washington, is investigating.

SHIP SENT TO HAITI MAY BE RECALLED

Aircraft Tender Probably Will Stop for Time at Guantanamo Bay.

QUIET REPORTED ON ISLE

(Associated Press.)

The aircraft tender Wright, diverted yesterday from her course toward Haiti with additional marines, probably will stand by at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for a short period and then return to Hampton Roads.

Naval officials, who ordered the vessel to Haiti last week in response to requests for assistance from the American high commissioner, ordered the Wright to put in at Guantanamo Bay after reports from the Haitian Republic indicated conditions were quiet. The probability that the Wright will be recalled within two weeks was seen last night.

The 500 marines aboard may be put off at Guantanamo Bay to await developments, or returned to their home stations at Quantico and Parris Island. It is probable that the Wright will return to be ready to accompany aircraft of the scouting fleet to the Guantanamo Bay area early in January.

Another Cruiser May Be Sent.

If further protection is needed in Haiti, another cruiser may be sent to join the Galveston, which is now at Jacmel. The entire scouting fleet will be concentrated in the Guantanamo Bay area early in January for tactical exercises

The State Department announced that communications from Haiti indicated the situation had improved, and that cities where disturbances recently occurred were quiet.

President Borno commended the American high commissioner at Haiti, Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, in a letter made public yesterday. He praised the measures taken in establishing martial law.

Marine Planes on Way.

The two Marine Corps planes, which are understood to be designed for use in maintaining communications between Port-au-Prince and outlying posts, yesterday were on their way from Havana to Camaguey, Cuba. They were expected to reach the latter point last night.

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The U. S. S. Galveston, which reached Jacmel several days ago with a small body of reinforcements, will leave that port tomorrow for Port-au-Prince, stopping at Aux Cayes, Jeremie and Miragoane en route.

The 108 outposts of the national garde, which have been in constant communication with headquarters, today reported that everything is quiet and that conditions are reassuring. The policy of high commissioner Russell and the brigade commander has been to have the garde function under the command of its own commandant and to assume control of things with the marines held in support at Port-au-Prince and Cape Haiten. It is felt that this responsibility has increased the prestige of the garde.

Aux Cayes Reported Quiet.

Maj. Harold B. Praty of the Marine Corps, who is on service with the Grade de Haiti, returned from a round trip to Aux Cayes and reported that he had found conditions there good. He reported Aquin, Petit Goave and Miragoane quiet with the countryside functioning as usual. He said that Haytian officials at Aux Cayes had told him that agitators had stirred up the peasants with reports of excessive taxation on alcohol and tobacco and that the repluse of the band on Friday night by fire was the only action that could have saved the city.

Haitian government officials and officers of the United States Marine Corps joined this afternoon in declaring the recent strike disorders apparently had been crushed and that the backbone of any movement that may have been planned by the political opposition had been broken.

President Louis Borno told the Associated Press correspondent, "We have little fear for the future. With a continued close watch maintained by the nacional garde in the front line and with Marine support, there is little chance of progress by the strikers."

No More Riots Expected.

Col. Frank Evans, commanding the American military police in this city, said he was confident that there will be no further trouble in the larger communities, although there is a possibility of an outbreak in the interior, where agitators were said to have been inciting the people with stories that the United States and President Borno had combined to enslave them through imposing high taxes on tobacco and coffee.

Martial law was strengthened in the capital by a Marine Corps order for every one to be indoors by 9:00 p. m. Military police continue their general rounds of the city, which otherwise presents a normal aspect.

Ban for Medical Financing Fought

Action of Society Does Not Represent All Doctors, Two Men Assert.

That the action of the District Medical Society in opposition to financing of medical bills did not represent the viewpoint of all the Washington doctors was the assertion yesterday of Henry Kaufman and Philip Rosenfeld, connected with the Medical Finance Association of Washington.

"Medical financing has recently been placed in actual operation in the District of Columbia," they said. "Although a group of doctors have taken an adverse attitude toward such organizations, a larger number of Washington's prominent physicians have already established active business relations with it.

"Such method of doing business is a result of purely voluntary action on both the part of the physician and the patient, and a fee of 25 per cent for financing a medical bill is a nominal and minimum fee, as most physicians are accustomed to paying from 33 to 50 per cent for collection service. Such finance organizations are doing wonderful community work."

Celebration of Christmas Is Prohibited by Soviet

State, Furthering Its Antireligious Campaign, Bans Sale of Yule Trees and Toys; Forbids Artists to Appear in Programs.

Moscow, Dec. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Celebrating Christmas in the Soviet Union will be much more difficult this year than it has ever been before. The authorities have decreed that there shall be no observance of the festival in furtherance of the government's antireligious program.

Orders issued today by the Moscow Soviet prohibit stores selling Christmas trees or Christmas toys and from displaying Yuletide articles in their show windows. The orders state that persons cutting Christmas trees or selling them will be liable to prosecution. The police have been ordered to arrest any one found bringing Christmas trees into the city from the suburbs or offering them for sale here.

Artists and singers who participate in Christmas programs will be expelled from their unions. Workers will have to work the usual hours on Christmas Day.

Russian children, if the authorities have their way, will be taken on Christmas to antireligious movies and to concerts. Bells already have been removed from many churches as part of the anti-Christmas campaign. They are being melted down and their metal will be used for industrial purposes.

Despite the government's declaration against Christmas festivities the religious element in Moscow, preparing for the festival, distributed among the populace today handbills calling upon the people to observe Christmas by attending church services.

Joseph Stalin, Russia's ruler, received a report today from Garlovka, known as a religious center, that 15,000 persons parded there in an antireligious demonstration, collecting 4,000 ikons from local churches and later burned them in the center of the city.

Bureau of Standards Sets New Type of Glorified Girl

Broadway theatrical producers have their own ideas of the measurements for the glorified girl, but Uncle Sam has given the stamp of official approval of certain sizes which will, to say the least, impress the public.

These sizes have been issued by the Bureau of Standards in the course of studies on standardization for dress patterns. They were prepared by a conference of representative manufacturers and merchants and have been given official approval.

The "standard lady" or "thirty-four" should have bust of that measurement, 28-inch waist and 37-inch hips, the third dimension taken seven inches below the waist line.

The famed "perfect thirty-six" of by-gone days, which lost its appeal to the slender boyish type, should have a 31-inch waist and 39-inch hips, according to Uncle Sam.

Other sizes ranging from a 35 to 50 inch bust, with waist ranging from 32 to 44 inches and hips from 41 to 56 inches, were listed as standard.

In cases of "misses" the standards start with 14. A 32-inch bust, 27-inch waist and 36-inch hips are essential to be in this rating.

The ever-popular 16-year-old has a bust of 34 inches, waist of 28 inches and hips of 37 inches; the 18 size, 36, 30 and 39 inches, and the 20 has 38, 32 and 41 inches.

Capper-Zihlman Backers to Meet

"Get-Acquainted" Dinner for Indorsers of Bill Slated Friday.

A "get-acquainted" dinner of citizens' associations and other organizations which have indorsed the Capper-Zihlman bill for the election by popular vote of a Board of Education for the District of Columbia, will be held Friday evening, at 6:30 o'clock, at the Burlington Hotel, Vermont avenue and Thomas circle. Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, will be toastmaster.

Among the speakers who will be heard are Charles I. Stengle, member of the Citizens Advisory Council; Henry C. Clark, vice president of the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers; Maj. Julius I. Peyser, president of the District of Columbia Bar Association; Mrs. Ellis Logan, past president of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs; James G. Yaden, chairman of the committee on education of the Federation of Citizens Associations; Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president of the Congress of Parents and Teachers; Herbert S. Wood, president of the Public School Association; and Oscar S. Brinkman, former clerk of the Senate committee for the District of Columbia.

Lindbergh Lands Here Unannounced

His Falcon Biplane Reveals, in Improvements, Influence of His Wife.

His Falcon biplane revealing a decided feminine influence, Charles A. Lindbergh landed at 11 o'clock yesterday at Bolling Field. He had flown down, unannounced, from Mitchel Field, N. Y., immediately upon landing, he was whisked into the city by Lieut. Elwood R. Quesada, it was said, to confer with officials of the Carnegie Institution here.

The sturdy blue and orange plane, which his admirers have come to know almost as well as the Spirit of St. Louis, has been somewhat altered since it was last at Bolling. Instead of the plain, military-type passenger cockpit, it now has one with more upholstering and better protection from the windstream. Also, the exhaust pipes have been led into a long "stack," carrying the gases behind the passenger. Another step to the rear cockpit also has been added.

It was said at Bolling Field that Lindbergh had not indicated definitely when he would take off on the return trip. He had merely asked that his ship be held in readiness, indicating that his visit to Washington would be brief.

RUBIO, IN NEW YORK, WILL SEE BANKERS

Believes New Loan or a Change in Present Payments Not Necessary.

TELLS POLITICAL AIMS

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio of Mexico came to New York today with the assertion that although he expected to confer with American bankers during his week in the city, he did not believe a new loan to Mexico or any changes in the present plan of payment would be necessary.

There are only two purposes to his visit, he said: First, to weld more closely the friendly relations between his country and the United States; and second, to rest up from his political campaign. He came here from Hot Springs, Ark.

He denied any political significance in his visit and the presence of the Mexican delegation here to welcome former President Plutarco Elias Calles, who will arrive from Europe on the liner Bremen.

Morrow Pays Him Visit.

Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who himself arrived home from Mexico City only yesterday, visited Senor Ortiz Rubio at the latter's hotel this afternoon.

When he leaves New York, Senor Ortiz Rubio said he will go to Washington, where he will be the guest of President Hoover.

The president-elect, who was accompanied by his wife and three children, told newspapermen that his administration would be progressive, that schools would be constructed with all available funds and that American investments would receive all protection necessary.

Calls Mexico Safe Country.

The policy of providing peons with farms that they may raise their standards of living will be intensified, he said, and as to the church and state controversy, he was inclined to dismiss it as a closed issue.

"Have you control of your banditry?" a reporter inquired.

"Do you control yours in Chicago, for example?" he replied with a smile. "Mexico is one of the safest places in the world, even in its most isolated districts. Ask Ambassador Morrow; ask Col. Lindbergh; ask Will Rogers."

Rings Worth $925 Stolen.

Three rings, valued at $925, were reported stolen yesterday by Mrs. Pearl Stein, of 3613 Rock Creek Church road northwest, from a bedroom of her home. Mrs. Stein stated one dinner ring, diamond and sapphire set, valued at $350, and a solitaire diamond ring, valued at $500, were among the loot. She named a suspect.

RUBIO ARRIVAL IN NEW YORK

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT BACKS CONVICTS' LEASING IN GEORGIA

not receive any remuneration for the prisoners. Instead, the Government pays approximately 55 cents a day for the maintenance of each prisoner. It is specified in the contract that only colored prisoners be transferred.

Yesterday afternoon Superintendent of Federal Prisons Sanford Bates, Special Assistant Attorney General Chase and Attorney General Mitchell, after submission of the allegations of discrimination, issued a statement defending the new system.

It was explained that the Department of Justice has been seeking to relieve the overcrowded conditions of the Federal penitentiaries. This condition was blamed as the cause of the disastrous disturbance at Leavenworth last August.

Overcrowding Relieved, Claim.

Department of Justice officials averred that due to this overcrowding there is a condition of idleness. When the proposition was made to the Department of Justice by the Georgia officials, to use the labor of a number of Federal prisoners on road construction, the officials said they saw an opportunity to relieve the crowded condition.

In entering into the contract the officials said that they had no thought whatever of restricting the privilege of working in an honor camp to one race or group of men. It was stressed that the county authorities had only one building and it was not deemed advisable to house white and colored prisoners in the same sleeping quarters, so the move was confined to the colored prisoners, as requested by the Chatham County authorities.

It was emphatically declared by the Department of Justice officials that there is nothing in common between the present arrangement and the old convict leasing system. Under the present contract the men are boarded out. Their board is paid by the Federal Government in the same way that 10,000 other prsoners are boarded, except, that instead of being confined in jails, they are in an honor camp, working on public works.

Humane Care Promised.

Further, the officials said, the Department of Justice proposes to secure for these prisoners nothing but humane and proper treatment. It has a representative in the camp at all times. The officials also insisted, in drawing the agreement, that all rifles, stocks, and corporal punishment, be abolished in the treatment and guarding of prisoners.

Immediately after the contract became effective the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People brought their grievance to the Bureau of Prisons of the Department of Justice. At the invitation of Superintendent Bates, a representative of that body, accompanied him to the camp and made an inspection. Barring a criticism of the food, which was not considered sufficient at that time, there was little fault found by the prisoners, officials said. None has requested to be transferred back to the walled institution. They all seem to prefer their present situation rather than the idleness in the penitentiary, officials said.

New Conference Held.

Last week a further conference was held between the Department of Justice officials and representatives of the colored association. It was the opinion at that time, it was learned, that the men were receiving the proper treatment and that the only objection which could be made was in the fact none but colored prisoners had been transferred. Prison Bureau officials declared at the time that on the completion of a new dormitory, the Department of Justice will be prepared to suggest the transfer of white prisoners as well as colored.

Department of Justice officials are of the opinion that the establishment of this honor camp, to which only the better type of prisoners may be transferred, is a move in the direction of advanced penology. They further avow that the Government is on the alert to see that the terms of the contract are strictly enforced.

U. S. Rests Its Case In Oil Lease Suit

Defense Begins Effort to Show Concessions Were Obtained Legally.

Los Angeles, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The Government rested its case against the Pan-American Petroleum Co. today with the testimony of Lieut. Comdr. I. F. Landis, inspector of naval oil reserves. The Government's suit was brought to cancel leases on 660 acres of land comprising a naval reserve in Kern County, Calif.

The defense began its case by calling T. E. Klipstein, Bakersfield, Calif., oil man, in an effort to prove leases granted the company were obtained legally and not, as the prosecution charges, through fraud engaged in by E. L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior during the Harding administration.

Lieut. Comdr. Landis testified that the leases in question were made despite his report that they were not necessary for the protection of oil against drainage from adjacent drilling operations.

Retired Stock Broker Leaps to His Death

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Frank K. Emmet, 52 years old, a retired stock broker, leaped to his death from his ninth-floor apartment in West 108th street today.

Mrs. Emmet said she knew of no reason why her husband should take his own life. He was in good health, she said, and as far as she knew had suffered no losses in the recent Wall street crash.

ZIHLMAN INDICTED ON FRAUD CHARGE

He and Six Other Officials of F. H. Smith Co. Named by Grand Jury.

which deals with use of the mails to defraud.

Witnesses before the grand jury were Louis Loebl, M. L. Rankin, E. G. Gehman, Miss Emily R. Sexton, E. J. Moyer, Gerald R. Trimbull, Joseph Henry Howard, Charles T. Malone and James Hollingsworth.

The indictment charged that the defendants, from January 1, 1928, to and including October 15, 1929, "did devise and intend to devise a scheme and artifice to defraud M. L. Rankin, of Johnstown, Pa.; E. G. Gehman, of Ephrata, Pa.; Ada Douty, of Loganton, Pa.; Emily R. Sexton, of Bellvue, Pa.; Eleanor Williams, of Tyrone, Pa.; Inez Fenton, of Sharon, Pa.; M. A. Campbell, Excellsion, Pa.; Carolyn L. Arnold, of Adrian, Minn.; Edwin J. Moyer, of Reading, Pa., and a great number of other persons then residing in those said States and in divers other States of the United States and in said District of Columbia, whose respective names and residences because of their great number and for want of information on the part of the grand jurors are not given herein, all of which said persons are hereinafter referred to as persons to be defrauded * * * were in pursuance of said scheme and artifice to be respectively induced by said defendants by means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations and promises to send and pay their moneys and part with their property to the defendants."

Method of Operations Cited.

The indictment charged that the defendants organized several corporations which were controlled and directed by Maddux and persons acting under his direction and control.

These corporations the indictment alleges acquired title to real and personal property which it was charged "would be and was heavily encumbered by deeds of trust and mortgages, would be and was acquired for substantially the amount of the then existing encumbrances thereon; and it was a part of the said scheme and artifice that subsequent, secondary and inferior deeds of trust and mortgages of little worth and effect considering the negligible value of the equity of the respective mortgagors would be and were executed by said several corporations as additional encumbrances on the respective properties so acquired."

These secondary mortgages, the indictment stated, were used by the defendant as purported security for the payment of bonds issued by the corporation for the total of $3,860,000.

These bonds were pledged as securities for the payment of other bonds which were issued by the corporation, the indictment set out. These latter bonds were "by false representation concerning their security and value sold to the said persons to be defrauded at approximately par as secured and safe investments by and through the F. H. Smith Co."

Hamilton Hotel Deal Up.

The defendants, on December 3, 1928, the indictment recites, incorporated the Properties Investment Corporation with Maddux as the president. This company, it is charged, acquired title to various properties, including the Hamilton Hotel, for approximately $1,800,000, which was described as "approximately the amount of the mortgage indebtedness then existing as an incumbrance thereon." The Properties Investment Corporation executed a second mortgage on the Hamilton Hotel to secure an issue of $1,250,000 worth of bonds, which the indictment alleges "were wholly in excess of the true value and worth of the then unincumbered equity of said the Properties Investment Corporation in said Hamilton Hotel, and wholly beyond and in excess of any sum that the Properties Investment Corporation could pay."

The defendants, through the F. H. Smith Co., the indictment continues, issued bonds in the sum of $1,050,000 pledged by the previous issue of the Properties Investment Corporation bonds in the sum of $1,250,000. These bonds also were offered for sale through the mails, the indictment sets out.

These two issues of bonds were made, the grand jury charges, when the defendants "did well know and intend" that the issues "were wholly in excess of the true value of the equity of the Properties Investment Corporation."

Alleged Statements Listed.

The indictment listed a series of what was alleged to be false statements designed to sell the bonds:

"That the Hamilton Hotel was (at the time such representation was made) in successful operation." The indictment charged the hotel with operating at a loss at this time.

"That the purpose and issue of the sale of the bonds of the Properties Investment Corporation was to convert outstanding obligations of that company into long-time financing." The indictment denied the bonds were issued for this purpose.

"That Maddux personally guaranteed the bonds." The indictment alleged that Maddux "was practically worthless, he being a man of small means with a small income and heavily involved financially."

"That 52 per cent of the stock of the Arco Hotel Co., owned by the Properties Investment Corporation, was worth $101,400." The indictment alleged this hotel stock was worth but a minor fraction of that sum, the hotel having operated at a loss from the time it commenced business.

Holds Earnings Overstated.

"That the Arlington and Cairo Hotels of Washington, operated by the Arco Hotel Co., were in successful operation at the time the bonds were issued." The indictment alleges that the Arlington Hotel from February 1, 1928, had had a net profit of less than $1,000 and that the Cairo Hotel had suffered losses.

"That the net annual earnings of the collateral pledged to secure the bonds would be $229,650." The indictment denied this earning.

In addition the indictment charges that Hamilton Hotel had been constructed in 1922 at a cost of approximately $1,000,000 on land that cost about $350,000 and was furnished at a cost of less than $500,000, making the total original cost $1,900,000, and that two corporations had become bankrupt in unsuccessful efforts to operate it.

The defendants also were charged with organizing a corporation known as the Fairfax, Inc., of Pittsburgh, with Maddux as president on May 31, 1928. This company, it was charged, acquired Pittsburgh real estate on June 1, 1928, for approximately the amount of the mortgaged indebtedness. The Fairfax Co., it was alleged, took a second mortgage on this property for the amount of $860,000 to secure bonds issued for that sum. This sum also was said to be "wholly in excess of the true value and worth of the then unencumbered equity" held by the Fairfax Co.

Bond Issue Set Forth.

On January 29, 1929, the defendants incorporated the Washington-Pittsburg Holding Corporation with Maddux as president and on February 1, 1929, issued $960,000 bonds which were held to be secured by a pledge of $689,400 par value of the Fairfax Co. bonds and by a pledge of 1,000 shares of the capital stock of the Fairfax Co. and 1,000 shares of the capital stock of the Glenmore Co., Inc.

"The bonds of the holding company were sold by the F. H. Smith Co., although the defendants well knew and intended that the capital stock of the Fairfax, Inc., Pittsburgh, would be and were wholly worthless by reason of the fact that the liabilities of the said corporation would be and were in excess of its assets," the indictment says.

Regarding R. Golden Donaldson, the grand jurors returned a special report setting out that in the course of its investigation into the affairs of the F. H. Smith Co. it had come to its attention that "one R. Golden Donaldson, of the bar of this court, while acting as a retained attorney of the F. H. Smith Investment Co. (the name of which said corporation was later changed to the F. H. Smith Co.), solicited, obtained and accepted sums of money aggregating approximately $100,000 from the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co., of said city of Washington, in consideration for said Donaldson's influencing his client the said F. H. Smith Investment Co., to award divers contracts for the construction of buildings to said Boyle-Robertson Construction Co.; and this when, as aforesaid, said Donaldson was the retained attorney of said the F. H. Smith Investment Co., and when he was also president of the Commercial National Bank, of Washington, D. C., from which said Boyle-Robertson Construction Co. borrowed large sums of money from time to time during the period when they were so paying said Donaldson to influence his said client, the F. H. Smith Investment Co.

Asks Charges Be Filed.

"Therefore, the grand jury recommends to this court that the facts in connection with this matter be investigated and proper charges filed to the end that this court may know the exact facts in connection herewith and that appropriate action be thereupon taken."

Pitts and Annadale already are under indictment charged with perjury in connection with the Hamilton Hotel bankruptcy.

Coincident with the return of the indictment, Charles E. Bishop, of the Investment Building, Washington, filed suit against the Smith Co seeking to collect $9,138 which he claims is owed to him. Bishop tells the court that he was an officer of certain corporations organized by the Smith Co. to sell bonds, notes and other securities. He alleges that Pitts and Annadale agreed to pay him, but that to date he has been unable to collect the sum mentioned in his suit.

Crissinger Is Reticent On Indictment in Capital

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Daniel R. Crissinger, former comptroller of the currency, declined today to comment on the action of a Federal grand jury in Washington which returned indictments against himself and six other men on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Reached by telephone at the offices of the F. H. Smith Co brokerage house, Mr. Crissinger said, "I have no statement to make at all."

Two Men Rescued In Ditch Collapse

Fire Department Squad Is Able to Extricate Pair in Hour.

Two workmen, Elton Wiser, 22 years old, of East Riverdale, Md., and Pete Redmon, 45 years old, of Brentwood, Md., were digging a ditch for a sewer at Kenilworth and Eastern avenues northeast, when the side of the ditch tumbled in upon them, burying them almost completely.

The Fire Department Rescue Squad, the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad firemen of No. 27 Engine Co., and Eleventh Precince police reserves were summoned and after almost an hour of frantic work, rescued the two.

Wiser declared he was uninjured and declined hospital attention, but Redmon was taken to Casualty Hospital and treated for a possible fracture of the left ankle.

BARNES IS CALLED IN LOBBY INQUIRY

President's Prosperity Aid to Explain Part in Grain Fight.

WILL APPEAR ON FRIDAY

were for Hoover's nomination, whereas the opposition to him came from the farmers. In that bitter political campaign of early 1928 the farmers were the McNary-Haugenites and for Lowden, while the commission men were the conservatives and for Hoover. Minneapolis, one of the biggest grain-marketing centers, was a Hoover stronghold, while the Lowden strength came from out in the country.

Now it is the marketing centers, where the howl against the Farm Board and Hoover is being raised, while the farmers are reported to be jubilant.

It was into this situation that Barnes stepped as the conciliator, it is explained in his behalf. He was trying to placate the grain men, the powerful influences that they are.

Hold Apprehension Unjustified.

The question to be developed, of course, is how far he went toward placating them. From all the information one can get on the subject the only way the grain men can be placated is for the Farm Board to modify its policy. To the extent that it does that the less efficient will Legge's plan of aiding the farmer come.

There is another angle, though, and it may have been that Barnes' activity had to do with that. In administration quarters it is asserted, even the Farm Board insists now in the face of the ruckus that has been stirred up, that the apprehension of the commission men is unjustified. No one expects, it is said, in these quarters, that the board will carry out its plan to the extent of controlling the entire grain crop.

What it will do, it is explained, or rather predicted, in these quarters, is to set up enough cooperatives and enough cooperative-owned elevators to control just enough of the crop to stabilize it and then withdraw.

This would be in line, of course, with the announced purpose to get the Government out of the mess as soon as it had put the farmers on their feet.

Commission Men Not Placated.

But if Barnes had to do with giving such assurances as these, with allaying the commission men's apprehension, the evidence is conclusive that he failed, because the commission men have a vigorous campaign already under way against the board.

They contend that to the extent that the board does go the commission business will be affected. And furthermore, they recall the phrase in the first statement ever issued by the board that the middlemen should be eliminated.

There were unconfirmed reports that as a part of their fight against the board the commission men were sending their agents through the Middle West calling in all elevator loans that they had out unless the beneficiary of the loan was willing to sign a long term contract to deal with the holder of the note. Not much attention was paid to the reports until Senator Nye, of North Dakota, received a telegram from D. D. Tenney, Minneapolis grain man, saying he understood the senator was preparing to make such charges in a speech. Tenney said he had called only one loan and that was for an entirely different purpose and he had heard about the calling of another one.

Caraway Announces Purpose.

In calling Barnes before the lobby committee—he is to appear Friday—Senator Caraway remarked:

"We are going to investigate those seeking to block this grain organization so that the brokers on the Chicago Board of Trade will be entitled to handle the crops as usual.

"If the Farm Board can find some agency for marketing crops they can stop these market slumps. I have confidence in Chairman Legge."

It is a fact that one of the complaints the grain men are making, although the one that has received the most public attention concerns the board's plan of controlling elevators, is that the price set by the board is out of line with the Chicago prices. The price fixing by the board comes when it loans so much on wheat, of course. It has been loaning $1.25 on certain grades and at certain markets.

No Chance to Compete, Claim.

The commission men also complain that they have no chance to compete with the board because of the low rate at which it and the intermediate credit banks loans the money.

As to whether any of the other grain men will be called by the committee following Barnes remains to be determined by the nature of his testimony. Caraway said he was particularly interested in an incendiary letter against the board and Legge, circulated by R. W. Hankinson, vice president of the H. L. Hankinson Co., Minneapolis grain dealers.

Sewer Contract Is Awarded.

Contract for the construction of Stickfoot branch stormwater sewer, southeast, was awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday to Peter D'Adamo Construction Co., low bidder. The bid was $20,738.85.

PARK COMMISSION'S CREATION IS URGED

Senator Ball Asks Fairfax and Arlington Counties to Work for Action.

BUILDING OF ROAD IS HIT

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The residents of Fairfax and Arlington Counties and Alexandria were urged to lend their support to the proposed bill for the creation of a Northern Virginia Park and Planning Commission last night by State Senator Frank Ball at a meeting of the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce at Masonville.

The legislator asked that representaitves of the two counties and the city appoint representatives at once to form plans for effecting the passage of the bill at the next session of the Virginia Assembly, which opens January 8. The Fairfax chamber agreed to name such a group.

The National Park and Planning Commission, of Washington, was criticized by Ball for placing the Mount Vernon boulevard along the river front, where, he said, it might be swept away by a flood. The senator declared that if the residents of the section affected had had such a body as he proposes such a maladjustment would never have resulted.

Nothing can be achieved in the way of systematic planning and zoning, Senator Ball said, until the residents of northern Virginia work together. Such a commission as he suggests would control the parks, roads and zoning in the area and would have equal representation from each county or city.

The Fairfax County Health Unit, which is composed of Dr. R. E. Feagans, Dr. R. W. Moss, dentist, and Mrs. Fannie Lou Seamons, health nurse, who have been examiningall school children in the county, has prepared a list of all who have met the State's five-point requirements, for teeth, eyes, hearing, weight and tonsile.

Pupils who will receive certificates in Miss Annie Troth's room at the Franconia School are Rosetta Ayers, Pauline Shurtz, Edward Gorham, Boyce Rogers, Harry Sisson, William Sisson, Edwar Walker, jr., Winifred Walker and Lynwood Williamson.

In the first, second and third grades, of which Evelyn Brodens is teacher, the five pointers are Robert Kidd, Edward Peverill, Clyde Simms, Donald Walker, Donald Sutherland, William Beavers, Katherine Gorham and Gladys Walls.

In the first and second grades at the Potters Hill School, of which Miss Margaret Wings is teacher, the five pointers are: Hampton Collett, Raymond Hicks, Howard Rodgers, Catherine Shepherd, William Hinton, jr., Logan Roake, Clayton Dawson, Lee Oliver, Jacqueline Cook, Mural Shepherd, and William Pettit.

The five pointers in Miss Nellie Lee Nevitt's room are Doris Hall, Gertrude Liptrop, Aileen Hall, Thelma Liptrop, Exmia Widsor, Edith Hall, William E. Lloyd, Sylvester Widsor, Randolph Hart, Sara A. Nevitt, Wilard Hall, Mary Costello, Alice Ennie, Mary Anna Pearson, Margaret Claid, Douglas Nevitt, Samual Pearson, Elizabeth Ennis, Earl Shepherd, Francis Lee, Jean Dawson, Rosa Lee Dove, William Clair, Jane Dawson, Robert Taylor and Phillip Ward.

The five pointers at the Woodlawn school, Miss Viola Ayres, teacher, are: Dorothy Pettit, Jack Gustafson, Dorris Hinton, Eleanor Grimsley, Lydia Talbot, Juaneta Webb, Margaret Shephard, William Rodgers, Bertha Scott, Cristine Grimsley, Elvan Thorpe, Marjorie Clapp, Edna Morton, Ralph Talbot, Marie Pettit, Mary Monroe.

In the room of Miss Anna M. Rinker the pupils winning five-point certificates are Gerald Badger, Charles Miller., Francis Perry, Raymond Woolfenven, Virginia Clapp, Aleene Young, George Frye, Raymond Morris, Irvin Talbot, Aleck Williams, James Frye, Marjorie Miller and Larue Riley.

The health unit is now at the Lee Jackson School. It expects to announce the five-point winners there within the next few days.

Samuel H. Styles, Democratic committeeman for the Falls Church Precinct, announces that he has appointed Harry Birch registrar, succeeding Clarence M. Sale, who resigned last week. hTe appointment was confirmed by Benjamin Nevitt, clerk of the electoral board of Fairfax County.

There will be an election of the new officers of the Kenmore Council, No. 21, Daughters of America, at Andrew Chapel tomorrow night.

The Andrew Chapel Young People's Missionary Society will hold its meeting tonight.

There will be a meeting of the Lincolnia Parent-Teacher Association in the schoolhouse tomorrow night.

Dr. Arthur J. Bowen, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will speak tonight in the Columbia Baptist Church at Falls Church, using as his subject "The Work Being Done by the South African General Mission." Dr. Bowen is field secretary of this interdenominational mission.

George Shirley was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging felonious assault. It is alleged that George and Jesse Shirley, of Falls Church, went to the home of their uncle, Tilden Shirley, Sunday evening, where they quarreled over a small debt. George was arrested and released on a $500 bond for his appearance before Justice of Peace A. C. Ritchie, at Fairfax, this evening at 7 o'clock. Late yesterday evening the authorities had not apprehended Jesse.

There will be a meeting of the Colvin Run School and Community League in the schoolhouse tonight. Plans will be made for the purchase of a stage curtain.

The Herndon Council of the Fraternal Americans, composed of the Daughters of America and Junior Order of American Mechanics, will present a flag and Bible to the Herndon school this afternoon. Mrs. E. P. Kirby will present the Bible and H. Earlton Hanes the flag.

New Gas Well Brought In Near Clarksburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 10.—Another big gas strike was reported here today from Ritchie County, a well having been brought in with a flow of upward of 2,000,000 cubic feet daily on the H. W. Collins farm in Clay district.

The gas was found in the Big Indian sand at a depth of 1,880 feet.

a ride to the highway, had caught a bus toward Richmond.

Not knowing yet beyond question that the check was "rubber," Berberich hesitated to prefer charges against any of the trio and prevailed upon the Commonwealth attorney to hold the two men on suspicion and upon charges of possession of concealed weapons, a young arsenal having been found in their car.

The men gave their names as A. S. McQueen, 32 years old, of Columbia, S. C., and J. R. Miller, 27, of Lakeland, Fla. Miller gave his occupation as "bootlegger," but when the police told him that was no occupation, said he was a mechanic. The woman's name as signed on the check she gave Berberich was Mrs. J. R. Thomas. Her description was given immediately to the police of Richmond and her arrest is expected momentarily.

Returning to Washington, Berberich communicated with the bank on which the check had been drawn, and found that the woman had opened an account by depositing $225 worth of checks, all of which bounced back uncollected. In the meantime, checks were presented for payment by several other Washington business houses.

Detective sergts. Bernard Thompson and Ira Keck left Washington for Ashland yesterday to bring back the two men on charges of passing bad checks. As they had no owner's license or driver's permit for their car, the police are communicating with Florida authorities on the assumption that the machine was stolen.

CASTLE MADE ENVOY TO JAPAN ON ARMS

Special Ambassador to Stay in Tokyo During London Conference.

MOVE ONE OF COURTESY

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover announced yesterday the rather unusual procedure of sending a special Ambassador to Japan for the duration of the London naval limitation conference and nominated William R. Castle, jr., Assistant Secretary of State, as his envoy.

Thus, while the five leading naval powers are undertaking to reach an agreement at the British capital, the Chief Executive will be represented at Tokyo by a personal friend who is familiar with the limitation question and with the policy of the American Government.

Diplomats generally regarded the move as one of courtesy to the Japanese government, which has indicated its accord with the desires of the United States for as sharp a limitation of auxiliary warcraft as can be agreed upon by the five powers.

Japanese Want More Cruisers.

While holding for limitation, the Japanese are asking for a ratio of cruisers slightly in excess of that it accepted at the Washington conference as regards capital ships. This subject already has been the basis for conversations between Tokyo, Washington and London.

The United States is not now represented at the Japanese capital, Charles MacVeach having retired as Ambassador some months ago at his own request, because he desired to reenter the practice of law.

Castle, who is a career diplomat, has been Assistant Secretary of State for a number of years and was mentioned for the post of undersecretary with the retirement of Reuben Clark, jr. He plans to leave for his new post on Christmas Day and will be accompanied by Mrs. Castle.

Will Stop in Honolulu.

The special ambassador will stop off in Honolulu, where he was born, to spend three days with his father, who now is 81 years old. He will board a fast ship at Honolulu for Japan, arriving early in January, or two weeks before the London conference opens.

Castle will confer first with the Japanese delegation to the London conference, which arrives in Washington from Tokyo on December 16 to remain four days before proceeding to New York to take the steamer for London. He also will confer with members of the American delegation to London now in this country.

These members—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State; Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, and Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, and Reed, of Pennsylvania—are to hold their first and preliminary meeting at the State Department today.

Kidnaping Plot Follows Bomb

Phone Call Hints at Peril to Children of Chicago Stadium Owner.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Threats to kidnap the three children of James Norris, wealthy investment broker and owner of $600,000 worth of stock in the $7,000,000 Chicago Stadium, followed today as an aftermath of Sunday's futile attempt to bomb the Norris home in fashionable Lake Forest.

Both the Norris home and the stadium were under guard of police and private detectives tonight in the belief that the bomb was planted by some one holding Norris responsible for the recent resignation of Patrick T. (Paddy) Harmon as stadium director.

Sidney N. Strotz, also a broker and secretary of the stadium was, with his wife, the guest of the Norris' Sunday, the day the bomb was discovered by a butler. Strotz revealed today that he had received threats of violence in connection with Harmon's withdrawal, but said he did not believe the bomb plot had any connection with operation of the sports theater.

MEDICAL CONGRESS HELD IN PETERSBURG

Dr. Grizzard, of Dreweryvilles, Is Elected President by Southside Group.

STATE CLINIC ADVOCATED

Special to The Washington Post.

Peteraburg, Va., Dec. 10.—The twenty-sixth annual and the 104th quarterly convention of the Southside Virginia Medical Association convened here today and was in session until a late hour tonight. The association is composed of physicians of the counties of Surry, Sussex, Brunswick, Prince George, Greenville, Dinwiddie, Isle of Wight, Lunenburg, Prince Edward, Amelia, Nottoway, Southampton, Mecklenburg, Norfolk and cities of Norfolk, Suffolk, Petersburg and Hopewell. There was a large attendance of delegates.

The address of welcome was made by Paul S. Morton, city manager of Petersburg. At the opening session papers on medical and surgical subjects were read. Drs. J. Morrison Hutchinson, H. G. Grant, T. Nell Barnett, J. B. Dalton and J. Allison Hodges, of Richmond, read papers as did also Dr. A. L. McLean, health officer of Henrico County. The afternoon session disposed of routine business. A report was read by Dr. J. Allison Hodges from a committee of the State recommending that an intensive postgraduate educational committee be set up by the two medical societies of Virginia for the benefit of doctors throughout the State, to be known as the department of clinical education. The association gave unanimous indorsement to this plan and then elected the following officers for the ensuing year.

Hopewell was selected as the place for the next quarterly convention.

BOLLING FIELD HOST TO 48 PHYSICIANS

Doctors Inspect Equipment and Take Air Rides Over Capital.

DUTIES ARE POINTED OUT

Four dozen doctors were guests yesterday of Bolling Field, inspecting the equipment and taking an airplane ride over the city in two big trimotored transport planes. They were piloted on the flights by Lieut. Louis M. Merrick, operations officer, and Lieut. L. S. Stranathan.

The 48 doctors are officers of the Army Medical Corps, who are taking the Medical Corps basic course at Walter Reed Hospital. As a part of their training, the officers spent the afternoon at the field, where they were given an idea of the duties of a flight surgeon.

Upon arriving, they were taken to the officers club, where they were given the welcome of Maj. Howard C. Davidson, commandant. They were then shown through the infirmary, parachute department, meteorological laboratory, shops, and hangars by Maj. Robert A. Hale, flight surgeon at the field.

They received their bigger thrill when the two giant planes were taxied up to the line, and they were issued parachutes. In parties of six, they climbed into the ships and were flown over the city, each flight requiring about 20 minutes.

In all, a total of six flights, three by each plane, was made. The inspection of the field is an annual event at the medical school, according to Maj. Hale.

Gas Truck, Hit by Train, Explodes; Three Perish

Bakersfield, Calif., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—One man was killed outright and two fatally injured when a passenger train, northbound from Los Angeles to Oakland, struck a gasoline tank truck and trailer at Famosa, near here, last night. The truck and trailer exploded, spraying gasoline over the engine and cars, igniting the clothing of the engineer, fireman and mail clerk and setting fire to several of the cars. No passengers were injured.

John H. Christensen, the mail clerk, was killed, and R. Toland, engineer, and Martin Stinson, fireman, died today of their injuries. The driver of the oil truck, John Statler, leaped to safety before the train struck.

Nine Killed, 68 Injured In Belgian Train Wreck

Brussels, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Nine persons were killed and 68 injured today when a workman's train ran off the track near Namur. It was one of the worst accidents in several years in Belgium. The coaches piled up into a heap of wood and iron, from which the cries of the injured and dying were heard at a great distance.

All of the victims were Belgians. Fourteen were seriously hurt and were taken to a military hospital. Five were in a dying condition.

King Albert went to the scene and heard the report of railway officials as to the cause of the crash. Later he visited the injured at Namur Hospital.

Capone Won't Ask Pardon From Prison

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Al Capone, Chicago gangster, will not ask a pardon from his one-year prison sentence in the Eastern State Penitentiary, Francis H. Hoy, jr., secretary of the State Board of Pardons, said today he had been advised by Benjamin M. Golder, counsel for Capone.

Capone recently lost an appeal from his sentence in the Supreme Court and his only apparent source of relief from the sentence appeared in the pardon board. The sentence was imposed in Philadelphia for carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Widow of Month Ends Life at Mate's Grave

Detroit, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Entering Evergreen Cemetery today Mrs. Bernice Polak, 30 years old, asked an attendant to direct her to the grave of her husband who died November 19. The attendant complied and went about his business.

A few minutes later he heard a shot and turned in time to see a revolver slip from Mrs. Polak's hand as she fell across the grave she had sought. When he reached her she was dead.

Mexico Will Free American Woman

Acquittal of Mrs. Rush on Murder Count Upheld by Higher Court.

Mexico City, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Bernice Rush, formerly of Louisville, Ky., said to be the first American woman ever tried for murder in Mexico, will be freed this Christmas after a year in prison since the fatal shooting last Christmas Eve of her common-law husband, a Spaniard named Jenaro Benavente.

The superior court of the federal district today confirmed the verdict of a jury in the Belen criminal court, which had cleared her of the murder charge. Only a formal order from the lower court now is required to give Mrs. Rush her liberty.

Mrs. Rush had been for a number of years in the millinery business here. Benavente was shot down on the street when Mrs. Rush encountered him with another woman. She alleged that he had failed to repay money borrowed from her and that both he and his woman friend attacked her.

Communists and Girl "Comrade" Sentenced

St. Clairsville, Ohio, Dec. 10 (A.P.). Tom Johnson, 30 years old, and Charles Gwynn, 28, self-styled Communists, were sentenced to serve five years at hard labor in Ohio Penitentiary and pay a $5,000 fine on a charge of criminal syndicalism today. With Lil Andrews, 21, the men were found guilty a month ago and their motion for new trials refused yesterday. The girl was sentenced to Marysville Reformatory for an indefinite term not to exceed ten years.

Following sentence each made a speech criticizing the action. The girl recently led a march on the Cleveland City Council as part of the campaign of propaganda for which they were convicted.

Father Says Mate Abandoned Family

Husband and Two Children Seek Aid of New York Welfare Office.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Two children, one 5 and the other 3, were under the care of the Children's Society today, while the superintendent, Vincent J. Pisarra, made unsuccessful attempts to locate their relatives.

The children, Martin and Frances Daneger, were brought to the society's headquarters last Tuesday night by their father, Charles Daneger.

Daneger, Pisarra said, told him the family formerly had lived in Los Angeles, Calif., and more recently in Richmond, Va. He said they had arrived that morning from Richmond and that his wife, Ella, after a quarrel, had hailed a taxicab and departed with all their funds—about $200.

She has not been heard from since Daneger told agents of the society that his father, Albert, lived at 1102 Howard street, Los Angeles, but a telegram sent to that address was not answered.

Soft Blues, Grays, Saffron Tint Exotic New Phone Book

The telephone company is now going in for art and the esthetic niceties.

"The new telephone directory," the company's press agent points out, "has a number of improvements over the previous issue. Among these is a new cover design of soft blue and gray color tones which makes it more attractive than that of former issues."

But the company has not been able to overcome the numerical dominance of the Smith family, which leads with 1,500 listings, or almost twice as many as the Browns, who can boast of but a meager 800. And, strange as it seems, it is not the Jones who are third, but the Johnsons, who have 775 listings to the 630 accorded the Jones family.

The distinction, if any, of leading the list still goes to the A. A. A., while Miss Marjorie A. Zug, of Bowie, Md., brings up the rear, because she happens to be among the "Subscribers Outside of Washington," who are moved back in the new book now being distributed so that they are separated from the Washingtonians by the yellow classified list.

Other changes in the new book include an index on the first page listing the information contained in the directory and an alphabetical list of central offices with the names of the managers.

Bank Robbers Escape Under Vigilante Fire

Richmond, Kans., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Vigilantes exchanged shots with two robbers today as the men drove out of town after robbing the People's National Bank of about $2,000.

Several store windows were shattered by bullets from the weapons of the robbers, but no one was injured. It was not believed either of the holdup men was wounded, although several shots struck the rear of their automobile.

Lowden Revives Equalization Fee

Chief Advocate of Plan Speaks at Meeting of Farm Federation.

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The equalization fee, long the stumbling block in the way of farm relief, was brought to the attention of the American Farm Bureau Federation today by its chief advocate, former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. He departed from a prepared address to restate the views that led him to bolt the Republican convention in Kansas City in 1928.

The militant farm leader also took issue with some speakers who preceded him with statements that the condition of the farmer had changed for the better.

The farm delegates, who will close the eleventh annual meeting tomorrow, also heard Representative Clarence Cannon, of Missouri, who advocated Federal aid for farm-to-market highways.

The 42 voting delegates discussed privately nomination of directors who will be elected tomorrow.

THE REAL ISSUE.

Ambiguous and misleading statements, half-truths and internationalist propaganda have not altogether beclouded the real issue which the Senate will pass upon when the time comes to consider ratification of the world court protocols. Opposition in the Senate will center upon the substitute which the League of Nations has provided for the fifth reservation which the Senate insisted upon as a necessary safeguard when the world court protocol was ratified in January, 1926.

Will the Senate trade an absolute protection against foreign political interference in American affairs for a right to debate this question with the League of Nations and the privilege to withdraw from the league, which privilege America could always exercise irrespective of the league's permission?

This is the issue squarely raised by the action of the League of Nations in setting aside Senate reservation No. 5 and substituting therefor a counter-proposition.

This Senate reservation was conceded to be an absolute guarantee against European political interference in the affairs of America without America's consent. Had the last paragraph of the fifth reservation been framed slightly different there would have been no complaint from the league. But this last paragraph contained an impregnable safeguard for America in the following language:

> Nor shall it (the court) without the consent of the United States entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest.

If the reservation had simply covered cases where the United States "has an interest" the European nations would have accepted it, because the question whether or not America actually had an interest would have been made a subject for debate by the league council, in case it became important for the league to interfere politically in American questions. But the words "or claims an interest" checkmated in advance any plan for interference by the league in the affairs of America. Therefore the league members almost unanimously rejected the Senate reservation.

In its place, the League of Nations now offers a plan whereby advisory opinions may be rendered by the court, without America's consent, on questions in which America has an interest or claims an interest. America is to have an opportunity to debate the question with the league council. When the league decides the time is ripe for European political interference in American affairs, the edifying spectacle would be presented of the United States debating the question, with all foreign nations on the side of the league and against America. This "privilege" of engaging in a hopelessly one-sided debate represents the major part of what the Senate is asked to accept in exchange for the protection of the fifth reservation.

The other privilege extended by the league in exchange for the sacrifice of the safeguarding reservation is the privilege of withdrawing from the court. This, of course, is no privilege at all. America at present is not bound to crave permission of foreign nations to act or refuse to act under any set of circumstances. To say that the league will permit America to withdraw suggests in advance the sort of superstate control which the League of Nations hopes some day to exercise over the destinies of the American people through the tireless and persistent drive of the internationalists who are now urging American entrance into the league court.

But first the Senate must agree to trade real protection for America, as embodied in the fifth reservation, for the league substitute. Why do foreign nations object to the Senate reservation if they do not intend to use the league court for political purposes inimical to the United States?

FARMERS VS. MIDDLEMEN.

One wonders why the agricultural middlemen, the commission merchants and other jobbers did not fight more vigorously against the enactment of the farm relief bill. They were foredoomed to be hurt. The entire measure was built upon the premise that the farmer should be brought closer to the consumer, which is to say that the middleman should be destroyed. The commission merchants were opposed to the bill, but they made no organized onslaught against it, nor were they heard from until they began to be pinched.

The first organized outcry came from Cleveland several months ago. There had been formed in Cuyahoga County a dairymen's cooperative which was granted financial aid by the Farm Board, and which embarked upon a price-cutting war with a national dairying corporation that was distributing its products in Cleveland. On one hand stood the cooperative, plentifully supplied with funds by the Government at cheap interest. On the other stood the large corporation, also amply supplied with capital. In between were the independent distributors, being slowly squeezed to death, and although they cried out nothing was done for their relief.

In the meantime, the Farm Board proceeded with the organization of a grain marketing cooperative that would handle about 30 per cent of the annual crop, enabling the farmer to deal more or less directly with the consumer. There is no question as to the legality of this step, but the commission men, seeming suddenly to realize that their businesses were in danger, rose in wrath, enlisted the aid of Julius H. Barnes, President Hoover's director of prosperity, who was himself a grain commission merchant, and let it be known that they would fight to the finish.

Alexander Legge, head of the Farm Board, promises the farmers that the cooperative movement will not be relaxed. Two influential groups have locked horns. The farmer, in fighting for greater prosperity, is striving to destroy the commission merchant, who has always been the connecting link between producer and consumer. Inasmuch as this is the basis for farm relief as embodied in the legislation enacted, it seems that the critical test is at hand.

MONOPOLY OF COMMUNICATIONS.

Owen D. Young's appearance before the Senate interstate commerce committee in support of the proposal to permit the unification of American cable, radio and telegraph companies marked the inauguration of a campaign for liberalization of the law that will be prosecuted vigorously by the communications interests of the country. Some time ago the Radio Corporation of America, of which Mr. Young is chairman, made an agreement with the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. for a merger when and if the law would permit, and in his statement before the committee Mr. Young intimated that a similar agreement might be made between the I. T. & T. and Western Union. With the machinery for unification already oiled, it need not be doubted that every effort will be made to put it in motion.

It is possible to make an excellent case for unification. Great Britain forced the unification of her communications companies and France has done likewise. Germany is in the process of creating a communications monopoly; Italy has unified control and Japan has her communication services unified under government control. These unified companies compete directly with American cable and radio companies for world communication business, and because they are in a better economic position, so it is said, in that they can make use of whichever service seems best adapted to the purpose, they threaten to stifle the development of the American companies. "I beg of you," said Mr. Young to the committee, "not to put the communications services of the United States, which are essential to the development and extension of our business in time of peace and always essential to the national defense, in a position where others may dictate to us and we are powerless to protect ourselves."

Mr. Young touched upon the matter of unified internal communications. He pointed to the progress that has been made by the telephone companies as contrasted with the progress of the telegraph companies. "Under the competititive system," he said, "our bill for communications is bound to be disastrously large. If we are to add the duplicate services not only of one radio concern, but two or more, to the wire services which exist in telegraphy, and we establish four sets of offices and personnel, the competition will eventually become ruinous, wages will be inadequate, capital will be lost, and, ultimately, services will be demoralized, all to the disadvantage of the people who really want the best communications at the lowest cost."

There is, however, another most important side to the question. Mr. Young recognized it when he said: "Whenever I have spoken about unifying communication services I have always attached the proviso that adequate regulation and control shall be put into the government of such services and the rates to be charged therefor." The law that prevents the unification of communications companies was designed to safeguard the Nation from monopoly, and with the public generally of the opinion that there already exists a radio monopoly, the question of Government regulation, in the event it is held desirable to permit unifications, is of paramount importance. Here is where the communications commission, as sponsored by Senator Couzens, comes in. In many respects it seems that communication is a natural monopoly. If it is to be permitted to develop along monopolistic lines, there must be a Federal communications commission, endowed with broad regulatory powers for the protection of the public interest.

NEWSPRINT PAPER.

American newspaper publishers depend upon Canadian mills for the major portion of their supplies of newsprint paper. There are newsprint mills in certain sections of New England, and cities along the Eastern and Southern seaboards receive relatively small supplies from Sweden, Newfoundland and other foreign points, but fully 65 per cent of the American supply comes from Canada. About 52 per cent of the newsprint made on this continent comes from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Since the war the Canadian newsprint industry has been in a constant state of economic turmoil. An extraordinary demand gave rise to high prices and huge profits which, in turn, stimulated production to such a point that a market glut was in prospect. A year ago, by an agreement that met with the approval of the governments of Ontario and Quebec, the industry undertook to restrict its output to 75 per cent of the combined capacity of the mills. Under the circumstances the industry was fully justified in taking that step. But now it is proposed to raise the price of newsprint, arbitrarily, $5 a ton, and the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, which estimates that a $5 increase will cost American publishers at least $20,000,000 next year, is leading a protest movement.

It has been demonstrated that the present price of newsprint, $55 a ton, is a fair price. It may be true that all mills can not make money upon that basis, but mills making use of modern machinery and facilities, located at convenient shipping points, can make money; and American publishers should not be expected to pay tribute to the millers whose equipment is obsolete, whose capital structure is heavily watered or whose properties are situated at points where they can not ship advantageously. It is significant that the two companies which have already advanced their prices have indicated a willingness to enter into three-year contracts with American publishers upon a $55 basis for the first six months of 1930, the $60 basis to obtain thereafter.

The Canadian newsprint industry operates on a fixed price agreement. There is no price competition, and since the Canadian supply dominates the American market, the Canadian price fixes the general price level. But foreign newsprint mills have been knocking at the door of the American market for years. There is a certain price-point where foreign mills can absorb the greater freightage charges involved in transoceanic shipment, and when this point is reached foreign supplies are bound to enter into direct competition with Canadian supplies. Several years back the quality of foreign newsprint was not as high as the Canadian, but that has been changed.

While Canadian mills, modern and obsolete, are operating at 75 per cent of their capacity there is no excuse for raising the price. The increased price is bound to stimulate production and influence expansion, factors that brought about the industry's original distress. Thus the vicious circle would be resumed.

It may not be worthy of note, but Sam Insull predicted another civil war in the United States on the same day that the women's convention on equal rights assembled.

WHY NOT ADMIRAL BYRD?

Long Beach (Calif.) Sun.

Hail to Commander Byrd. What a man! Never before, in the modern world of business and unromantic details, has it fallen to the lot of one man to accomplish such a correlated series of achievements as a flight across the ocean and flights to both poles. Nor has it merely fallen to the intrepid commander's lot—it is a victory wrought by himself and by his own personal ability—molding a plastic fate by his own iron hands.

Aside from the glory of Commander Byrd's accomplishments, his contributions to scientific and geographical data, and his valuable service to his country in establishing claims of present unknown value, he has performed a distinct service to the youth of this country in creating a hero worthy of emulation and as a stimulus to ambition.

In accord with the spirit of modernism, the youth of today is no longer keenly interested in mythological heroes, or in medieval exploiters glorified by sympathetic historians.

The youth of today look to men of today who have done big, unselfish things, men who are still striving to serve; to heroes who can appeal to them in an exemplary and encouraging way on the radio or through the press or by personal appearance. Here is a man—a hero.

The immediate purpose of this editorial is to suggest that Congress bestow upon Commander Byrd the title of admiral in the United States Navy. Commander Byrd is now an officer of the Navy on the retired list. After his North Pole flight he was promoted from lieutenant commander to commander—perhaps an insufficient recognition at the time.

The new title of admiral and the very slight increase in retired pay incident thereto would, in but a small way, express the Nation's appreciation.

Little that can now be done by others would add much to the glory won by Commander Byrd's outstanding contribution to his country. We recall an impressive occasion when a great man expressed a great thought: "It is rather for us to be here dedicated . . ."

And is it not fitting on this occasion for us to say that the Navy and the Nation would be honored in having such a distinguished man as an admiral—such a sailor, who has fought the barriers of nature, has braved unknown perils over uncharted seas and has piloted his own flagship to victory! Let Congress honor itself by promoting Commander Byrd, and may the commander in chief of the Army and Navy be the first to transmit by radio the thanks of Congress to Admiral Richard E. Byrd, United States Navy!

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

FRIENDSHIP.

One never knows until disaster strikes
Just what in him another loves and likes,
Or is the thing called friendship false or true,
Or built on love or hopes which men pursue.
Hundreds had praised him in his happier days;
Now he has learned how shallow was their praise.
Stripped of his power, all friendship they refuse
Who sought or feared the power which he could use.
Those whom he favored, coldly past him go
Since now he has no favors to bestow.
Those who love riches, him no longer love,
He has no fortune now worth thinking of,
But of the many came to him a few
Who saw in him the same old friend they knew,
The man they'd loved, the man in other days
Who had been quick to smooth their troubled ways;
The self-same kindly spirit, and they stared
Trying their best to show how much they cared.
With tear-filled eyes and voices strangely gruff
They said to him: "Here, take this yellow stuff
And use it. It is all we have, old friend,
To show that we are with you to the end."
And that is friendship—rarer far than gold,
The one thing man can own that can't be sold.

"If You Are Free," Said the Crank, "Prove by Hitting This Man for Me."

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A CERTAIN man named Jones owned a restaurant. For reasons known only to himself he abominated celery, and to make his prejudice fruitful he placed in his window a placard bearing the astonishing declaration: "Celery causes cancer, and we do not serve it."

One day he decided to exhibit his ignorance to a larger audience and offered the local newspapers an advertisement containing the same defamatory statement.

The advertisement was rejected.

"Free press!" snorted Jones. "Bosh! The celery trust has it tied hand and foot. It's afraid to say a word."

And he sincerely believed the newspapers controlled by the celery growers. Why else should they refuse him the right to curse celery?

The truth is the newspapers were controlled by nobody. Given adequate reason, all of them would have denounced celery. But they had been a long while accumulating that greatest of assets called "good will," and they felt no urge to sacrifice a part of it to please an addle-pated crank.

Their labor and honor had made their papers valuable as mediums of publicity, and now Jones wished to utilize that value to satisfy a personal grudge.

He couldn't build up a widely-read medium of publicity, for he hadn't wit enough or honor enough; but he claimed the right to vent his spleen in publications made readable and trustworthy by the wit and honor of better men.

If a farmer has a few spoiled potatoes to sell, has he the right to demand that a neighbor who markets good potatoes shall place his spoiled ones among the good and thus foist them on an unsuspecting broker?

The press need not do dirty work for cranks in order to keep itself free. It need not offer itself as a mouthpiece for those who could not get a hearing on their own merits.

The world contains many bitter cranks who are filled with a passionate desire to denounce certain races or sects or individuals whose rights are equal to their own.

Let them use their tongues and risk their own hides. They have nothing else to lose.

The press, being free, declines to shame itself and sacrifice its dignity by acting as their servant.

The right of freedom presupposes the capacity to enjoy it without abusing it. No individual or institution has a right to the kind of freedom that makes itself a nuisance.

"Number, pleaze?"
"I wish to talk to the Leviathan at sea."
"What numbah, pleaze?"
"I say I wish to talk to the Leviathan at sea."
"The Lehigh A. C.?"
"Lissen . . . Leviathan . . . it's a ship at sea."
"Viaduct six-o-three, did you say?"
"Please central, get this right. It's a ship—S for seafood, H for ham, I for ignorant, and P for potato. Understand?
"You wanna restaurant?"
"No, I don't want a restaurant Lissen. I'm trying to get the Leviathan—L for Louisiana, E for Emil, V for vanilla, I for Isaac, A for applesauce, T for tickle——"
"Fresh! I'll give you information."

* * * *

"Hello. This is information."
"Information, I am trying to get the Leviathan at——"
"Isn't he in the directory, sir?"
"No, and it isn't a he. It's a boat."
"Abbott, yes, what are the initials?"
"Not Abbott—Boat—you know—toot! toot!—All aboard—B-O-A-T—Boat. Get it?"
"Oh, a vessel?"
"Yes, ma'am. It's called the Leviathan. You know, it runs between this country and Europe."
"I understand you now, sir. Hold the wire."
"Hello."
"Hello. Is this the Leviathan?"
"Levi who "
"The Leviathan."
"There's nobody by that name here."
"What name?"
"Levi Nathan."
"I didn't say anything about Levi Nathan. Am I connected with the big liner?"
"Who's a big liar?"
"You misunderstand me, sir. Is this the steamship?"
"No. If you want a cream whip call the ice cream store."
(Violent jiggling of the hook.)
"Hello."
"Am I connected with the steamship . . . ."
"Steve who?"
"Aw, what's the use?"

THE ROCKING CHAIR.

Is the rocking chair to fall by the way, a victim of the fleeting whims of fashion? asks the Lebanon Reporter. One alleged authority on home decoration insists that the "ensemble idea" is now the thing and that the rocking chair simply will not "fit in" with any grouping of furniture. Will we yet come to the time when the courts will recognize a valid reason for divorce in the fact that the husband simply will not "fit in" with the fashion of the furniture, or the color scheme of the parlor decorations, or some other requirements of the fashions of the day in household matters? What every man knows—and most women, if they will but admit the truth—is that there is no seat more grateful to the tired human frame than an intelligently modeled rocking chair. By that we mean a rocking chair built in complete forgetfulness that there is any such thing as "fashion" in chairs; we mean chairs that are made to sit in instead of to admire. Style has robbed us of a lot of things and we haven't done much protesting. But we'll be doggone if we don't propose to have something to say before we'll give up the good old-fashioned rocking chair.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mexican Immigration Into the United States Can Be Made Self-Controlling.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your otherwise fine editorial, "Aliens Over the Border," missed the head of the nail when hitting at the Mexican side of the problem.

The writer has been in contact with Mexican laborers for 30 years and knows well their psychology and likings. The Mexican of the medium and lower classes is not adventurous, nor likes to move too far from his home region, even in Mexico, itself. When they go away into a neighboring state they ever long to return to the one where they were born. They are highly provincial. It is the ruinous condition of their own country, where there are at present about 600,000 jobless men, according to official Mexican statistics, that forces the Mexican laborers to come to the United States in search of work; in order to live and procure a livelihood for their families, many of whom remain down in Mexico and carry on, thanks to the savings sent to them by the immigrants who come to work in this country.

Mexico is losing its best workers, because the immigrants are the more ambitious and more energetic, naturally. It will continue to lose what remains there of this type, because agriculture and industry are dying, due to radical legislation, overtaxation, lack of protection to capital, &c., coupled with administrative inefficiency, graft and dishonesty as the general rule in official circles.

Those intolerable conditions will exist in that unfortunate country until the best class of the Mexicans, the honest, sane and educated men, is allowed to establish a civilized form of government. As long as Mexico is ruled by immoral hypocrites, there can be no hope for its salvation. Foreign influences should not continue to support men who preach distribution of land to the poor, while they grab the best farms and become big land owners; who preach distribution of wealth and become millionaires overnight through graft or plunder. If such support were withdrawn, the real patriotic Mexicans might try to change things in Mexico, organizing an honest and efficient government. Immigration of Mexican labor into the United States would then automatically stop and most of the 2,000,000 Mexicans who have come to this country fleeing from the "benefits" created for them by their present rulers will certainly be happy to return and work in Mexico.

FADRINO.

Greatest River in the Universe Made of Stars—Free Sight for Everybody.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is a starry river in the firmament—a river sparkling southward from where the bright planet Jupiter shines in Taurus; a river beginning near brilliant Rigel of Orion. Yellow Cursa, a third-magnitude sun, glimmers at the commencement of this starry stream. Cursa is bedimmed by the splendor of Orion. From Cursa, or Beta, this firmamental river, known as Eridanus, flows westwardly and then meanders southwardly. "Meanders" is very descriptive. Eridanus disappears below the southern horizon and meanders some more.

Between the constellations of Cetus and Argo, past very brilliant Canopus, this starry river flows. It ends with the bright sun-jewel Achernar, a white sun. Achernar is the ninth most brilliant sun of night. It is situated about 32 degrees from the South Pole. Achernar, or Alpha of Eridanus, was named from Al Ahir al Nahr, "the End of the River." It approximates 66 years for its light to reach us. From Cursa to Achernar the course of starry Eridanus is certainly long and winding.

Representative Schafer Says a Good Word for Washington and Wins Gratitude.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: In the list of friends of the National Capital write the name of Representative Schafer, of Wisconsin. As readers of The Post are aware, last Monday, for want of unanimous consent, he failed to get in a talk showing, as he afterward explained, that liquor consumption is as high in the home State of some dry crusaders as it is in Washington. Although he didn't get the floor, the effect of his effort in calling attention to the persistent unfairness of maligners of "the Nation's city," will do as much good as his proposed remarks might have done if printed in the Record. Mr. Schafer may rest assured that his vote of thanks, unrecorded but hearty, includes nearly all of the hundreds of thousands of dry-drinking as well as wet government workers and others who make up the District's population.

FEDERALIST.

They're Not Starlings, But Ghosts of Lobbyists, Statesmen and Gamblers Who Haunt Shoomaker's Vanished Bar.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
Not for the latest news alone
The fluttering starlings roost
In crowded blocks upon the trees
Near by the newsy Post.
The feathery thousands gathered there,
Though bird-like in their looks,
Are not at all the kind of birds
You read about in books.
There's method in their roosting choice.
Get me? Those birds are spooks.
They incarnate the ghosts of men
Who made this spot their own,
Blithe gamblers, statesmen, lobbyists
Ere Volstead was full-grown,
Absorbing at Shoomaker's bar
The kick that now is flown.
They, live or dead, were not the sports
To leave strong drink alone.
So here to quench their ghostly thirst
They come in feathered guise,
Drawn by the ghostly lure of pre-Volsteadian memories.
Here, in a ghostly Shoomaker's,
They guzzle ghostly booze,
On ghostly topics of the past
Exchanging ghostly views,
With ghostly wisecracks interspersed,
As well as ghostly news.

CHINESE CENSORSHIP VEILS REBEL MOVES

American Flotilla Expected at Shanghai Tomorrow to Aid U. S. Citizens.

CANTON MAY FALL, HINT

Shanghai, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The Nationalist government today concealed with a wall of censorship the activities of rebels in several provinces of the Yangtze Valley, but British and Japanese warships steamed up the river to protect their nationals and an American flotilla is expected here Thursday with like intent.

As is usual in China when important events impend, censorship was clamped on tightly. No news came through concerning the rebels who for several days have threatened Nanking and against whom the government has been concentrating 75,000 men; there was silence regarding the mutiny of fourth division troops who defeated loyal forces at Changchow, 100 miles from Shanghai, Sunday, and nothing was divulged of the activities of Tang Seng-Chi, Nationalist general who revolted and was reported yesterday to be mobilizing 50,000 men in Honan province against the government.

On the contrary, foreign naval reports said that all was quiet up the Yangtze River and that foreigners were returning to Ichang, from which they fled when the city was reported yesterday in danger of capture by rebels. Nationalist troops having returned to Nanking, the capital, conditions were reported improved there. Several foreign families and leading officials decided to remain in the city from which numerous foreigners departed the past few days.

But in Canton, South China, the roar of rebel artillery was heard as the Ironsides division rebels pressed closer to the city. They were reported to have broken the government lines on a wide front and the fall of Canton was reported to be imminent.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:30 o'clock to noon today.

Received the nomination of William R. Castle, jr., Assistant Secretary of State, to be Ambassador to Japan.

Confirmed the nomination of Frank W. Donaldson to be collector of internal revenue for Tennessee.

Continued consideration of tariff bill, and voted to retain the present 24 cents a pound duty on carbonized wool oils.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, pointed to an exhibi of wool products, and said it was another "Grundy Piggly Wiggly store."

Chairman Caraway, of the lobby investigating committee, made a report on the lobbying activities of Joseph R. Grundy and called attention to the possibility of Grundy being appointed as a senator from Pennsylvania.

Republican leaders predicted that the tax resolution would be adopted by Saturday.

Interstate commerce committee, seeking to find out what part President Wilson played in the formation of the Radio Corporation of America, questioned Admiral Cary T. Grayson, the war President's physician.

H. C. Larkin, president of the Cuba company, told the lobby committee that Edwin P. Shattuck was employed by the company because he was a close friend of President Hoover.

Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, introduced bills to reorganize Federal prison system and to provide two new prisons.

Adopted resolution to adjourn over the holidays from December 21 to January 6.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:40 to noon today.

Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, declared that Washington is freer from crime than many other cities of comparable size.

Ways and means committee made a favorable report on the Hawley bill to provide settlement of the French debt.

Representative Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, introduced a bill to abolish the Farm Loan Board and transfer its functions to the Federal Farm Board.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

THERE is no accounting for salaries paid in this lobby game, if you want to believe the testimony before Senator Caraway's committee. Here is one man who just talked to Senator Moses. That was well worth $4,500 a month, and a retainer of $10,000, his employer stated. But here was another man who knew President Hoover intimately, and was on cordial terms with Senator Smoot, of the Senate finance committee. He only rated about half as much salary.

The man who knew Hoover and Smoot so well was Edwin P. Shattuck, while the man who just talked to Senator Moses was Col. John H. Carroll, of Queen Marie fame. Mr. H. C. Lakin, who employed them both, and in whom such implicit confidence was placed by the president of the National City Bank, of New York, seemed to be perfectly satisfied with the results they had obtained.

The whole picture, of course, is absurd. Mr. Shattuck is a sugar expert as well as a distinguished lawyer, albeit one of the poorest defenders of his own actions recently seen on the committee grill. Col. Carroll has a knowledge of what makes the wheels go round and why in Washington, which the big corporations which pay him more than $150,000 a year in aggregate have thought well worth having on their side.

* * * *

BUT if one listened to the testimony the impression was as stated. Maybe the inquisitors on the Caraway committee are trying to make the picture so ridiculous no one will believe anything any of the witnesses said. But a curious factor is that four of the five members of the Caraway committee are on the low tariff side of the fight, while the fifth, Senator Robinson, has no patience with these big lobby fees, yet the witnesses who were paid for talking to Senator Moses and for knowing Hoover and Smoot were fighting on the low tariff side of the sugar battle.

In another committee room at almost the same time an even stranger battle was being conducted. Owen D. Young, one of the two men most talked of at the moment for the Democratic nomination in 1932, was on the stand and was being terribly heckled by Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa.

* * * *

NO one suspected Brookhart, as a Republican enthusiast, of trying to demolish a Democratic candidate in advance. He viewed Young as the personification and embodiment of everything that is wicked and oppressive about the big interests which are crushing the downtrodden poor in general and the farmers in particular.

Once when Mr. Young had stated his opposition to Government ownership, Mr. Brookhart insisted this was a declaration that Young had no faith in the United States Government.

Senator Wagner, of New York, who may be a member of the delegation that presents Young's name to the next Democratic convention, rushed to Young's defense, as did Senator Pittman, always a wheelhorse in Democratic campaigns. But Brookhart was not to be deterred. The viciousness of the power trust had to be exposed, and he had no more thought of paying any attention to objections by other members of the Democratic-progressive coalition than he had of concealing liquor law violations by his host at a dinner party.

Wilson Upheld Air Monopoly, Says Aid

War President Approved Young Combine Idea, Grayson Avers.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, naval aid and physician to President Wilson, in direct testimony before the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday, gave complete support to the statement of Owen D. Young that President Wilson in 1919 had suggested retention by American interests of the Alexanderson radio patent—a suggestion which it had been inferred, led to the formation of the Radio Corporation of America.

The committee, in its questioning of Young again yesterday in connection with proposed legislation for unified regulation of communications, succeeded in obtaining an elaboration of his views as to what turn that regulation should take. The witness emphasized the necessity of unification of the radio, wire and cable services to put the United States on a parity with other nations in the field of international communications.

If Congress repealed the antimerger section of radio law, the witness said, the radio corporation was ready to go through with a tentative agreement to sell its communications services to the International Telephone & Telegraph Co., the Mackey interests. The final unification, as Young has outlined it, contemplates the taking in of the Western Union Telegraph Co.

Rhineland Evacuation Nears End.

London, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The parliamentary secretary of the war office told the House of Commons today that it was hoped British evacuation of the Rhineland would be completed by the end of this week. A small party winding up affairs will leave early next week.

Capitol Slander Curb Requested

Fort Resolution Counsels Censure for Character Killers of Congress.

(Associated Press.)

The prospect of holding members of Congress accountable for utterances on the floor of the House of Representatives was set forth yesterday in a resolution introduced by Representative Fort (Republican), New Jersey.

Under the resolution, a committee of five would be authorized to recommend censure or discipline for a member whose words on the floor were found slanderous.

Fort said his resolution was not occasioned by the belief that members of the House alone were at fault in the abuse of congressional immunity, but that in his opinion every legislative group should have rules to curb "assassination of reputations" under the protection of the Constitution. He explained that the measure applied to no specific case, but was offered simply with a view to the future.

HOUSE BODY FAVORS FRENCH DEBT BILL

Committee Urges Payment of $4,025,000,000 Over 62-Year Period.

EARLY ACTION IS SOUGHT

(Associated Press.)

A favorable report on the Hawley bill to provide settlement of the French debt as requested by President Hoover in his annual message was recommended yesterday by the House ways and means committee.

The Senate Finance Committee has before it a companion measure introduced by Chairman Smoot.

Chairman Hawley, of the House group, said he would seek early action there and Smoot has said he would call the measure up in the Senate as soon as possible

Mills Explains Plan.

The House committee vote followed quickly the testimony of Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury, who explained details of the settlement providing payment of $4,025,000,000 over a period of 62 years.

Hawley declined to make the roll call public, but opposition was indicated during the hearing by Representatives Garner, of Texas, the minority leader, and Rainey (Democrat), Illinois. Representative Crisp (Democrat), Georgia, a member of the American debt commission which negotiated the settlement, repeated his views that the sum represented every cent America could hope to get from the French.

Not "Blood Money," Says Crisp.

Mills said the French financial situation was "infinitely better" than in 1926 when the plan was drawn, adding that the commission had foreseen stabilization of the franc when considering the debtor country's ability to pay. The narrow margin of eight votes by which the French Chamber of Deputies ratified the agreement last summer was singled out as evidence that the figure named represented a sum beyond which that nation would refuse to go.

Mills agreed with Crisp that in effect the settlement was for nothing more than the money loaned to France since the armistice. The Georgian said he wanted this recorded, as an answer to allegations made by some, he said, that America sought to extort "blood money" from one of its allies during the World War.

INDUSTRY IS SOUND, SCHWAB DECLARES

Business to Grow Without Artificial Stimulation, Magnate Asserts.

GOOD MARKET FORESEEN

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Charles M. Schwab tapped on the chest of American industry tonight and pronounced it sound.

The steel magnate, in an address broadcast by radio from the annual meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers Association, cast a backward glance at the "Wall street affair" and the subsequent conferences of President Hoover with the Nation's business leaders, and then looked forward toward a "wholesome expansion of business without the evils of artificial stimulation."

Schwab declared that steel's three biggest customers—the automobile, railroad and building industries—seem to justify a healthy outlook. Besides the country's normal growth, which he believes the stock market depression could not seriously retard, he saw in the replacement factor in these primary industries alone a very substantial market for themselves and for steel.

"Industry generally, the machinery of production," he said, "is better equipped and more intelligently managed than at any time in the past.

"Owing to long continued good railroad service and the ability of manufacturers to get their needs promptly filled and their products promptly distributed, there are no disturbing stocks of goods or raw materials, and management in the meanwhile has become increasingly better able to adjust production to current demands. * * *

"Moreover—and this is the most important aspect—there is today a greater and more widespread recognition on the part of all concerned, stockholders, management, labor and government, that our high standards of living constitute the bulwark of our prosperity and that the purchasing power of the people who buy our goods and services must be maintained."

Production of steel this year, Schwab said, will probably exceed the 1928 production by 10 per cent.

Roumania Denies Carol Entry.

Bucharest, Roumania, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—An application of Prince Carol, former Crown Prince of Roumania, to return to his native land was rejected by the government today. The decree of Ferdinand, late King of Roumania, banishes the errant son until 1936, it was said. Carol is father of the boy King Michael.

DEFENDS CITY

JOHN C. SCHAFER.

SCHAFER DEFENDS CAPITAL CONDITIONS

6,650 were arrested in 1919, and 13,796 last year.

Population in these cities also increased, of course, but the percentage of increase in intoxication arrests is far greater than the percentage of increase in population, he declared.

"In the face of these facts," Schafer said, "the dry crusaders continue to tell the American people in legislative halls and other places that the Federal prohibition laws result in temperance."

Senator Blease, of South Carolina, who has frequently denounced the Capital as a crime-ridden city, was the target of a portion of Schafer's speech though he was not mentioned by name because of congressional rules.

Reading a news report from Columbia, S. C., concerning a case in which the jury drank up the liquor evidence, the Wisconsin legislator declared: "I would suggest that the dry crusaders turn their oratorical guns from the District of Columbia to the State of South Carolina and request such a State to make it a felony with penalties, not less than the Jones law, in the case of jurors who highjack and consume the evidence brought before them in prohibition cases.

He also criticised the practice among certain senators to have news stories of crime conditions in Washington incorporated in the Congressional Record. The record has "become a file for Washington newspapers," he said, "at a considerable expense to the American taxpayers."

ROOSEVELT VISIONS DEMOCRATIC GAINS

Party Future Looks Bright, New York Governor Says at Chicago Meeting.

DERIDES GRUNDY'S SLAM

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, visioned a brighter future today for the Democratic party in 1930 and left with party leaders in Chicago and Illinois renewed hopes of success in the coming congressional elections.

The smiling New York governor, who hobbled from one group of leaders to another with the aid of a New York State trooper, addressed a luncheon assemblage of several thousand Democrats, called by Thomas F. Donovan, Illinois national committeeman, to honor Gov. Roosevelt as a presidential possibility in 1932.

The governor sailed through several subjects in his address and dwelt upon public utility and the water power fight in New York, the farm problem, the Pennsylvania senatorial situation and ended in an appeal to Democratic organizations in every State to work continually, from now until November next, for the success of their party.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, dwelt primarily upon what he termed the failure of the Republican party to enact a tariff measure.

Pouncing on what he called "the Grundy episode," Gov. Roosevelt said: "Probably I should speak as a partisan Democrat and thank God for Joseph Grundy, for he has done much to aid the Democratic cause. But instead, I speak as an American citizen and I hope that the rumors are not true that the Governor of Pennsylvania is going to appoint Grundy to the United States Senate."

Deriding the reference to "backward States" made by Grundy in his recent testimony before a congressional committee, the New York Governor called these "backward States" the "backbone of American civilization."

Gov. Roosevelt planned to return to Albany tonight following a banquet at which he was the principal speaker.

King May Attend Wedding.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Rumors have been received here that King Boris had decided to attend the marriage in Rome of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, which will be celebrated next month. Further palace rumors were that the king possibly would take advantage of the occasion to announce his own engagement to Princess Giovanna.

Senator Gives Views on Art In Discussion

Mr. Cutting Also Flays Censorship Project at Dinner.

By JEAN ELIOT.

SPEAKING informally on art, letters and the tariff and paying his respects in passing to censorship, Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, delighted a receptive audience at the Arts Club last evening. He was the guest of honor at the club's weekly dinner, for which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Russell were hosts.

It will be remembered that Senator Cutting is conducting the fight on the proposed tightening of the censorship, which came up at the extra session of Congress but was lost in the shuffle when the discussion of the tariff got well under way. The question will be fought out in the present session, but Senator Reed Smoot is threatening to insist upon discussion in executive session, presumably that he may read excerpts from banned books to his colleagues—a picture which has amazing as well as amusing aspects.

A newspaper owner and publisher, Senator Cutting feels that the question of censorship is vital in its relation to the freedom of the press. And, having a keen sense of humor, he delights in taking a "fall" out of regulations which ban certain books painted in a foreign language, while the same volumes, in English, may be freely purchased in this country.

Although he comes from the great open spaces, home of the "sons of wild jackasses," the senator from New Mexico is a scion of a distinguished New York family and a graduate of Harvard. He is a first rate speaker, with a gift for seasoning food for thought with salty humor.

Variety marks the entertainments at the Arts Club, where members of Washington's artistic, literary and musical groups foregather. Tomorrow evening Miss Maud Sewall, well known as a musician and a lecturer on musical subjects, will give a talk. Her subject will be "What Some of the Modernists Say About Themselves," and she will discuss Ornstein, Schoenberg, Stravinsky, Casella, Cowell and John Powell. Miss Sewall's talk will be illustrated by Mrs. Mildred Kolb Schulze, one of Washington's foremost modernist interpreters. Mrs. Ralph P. Barnard will be the club's hostess for the evening.

J. C. Hanbury-Williamses Have Twin Daughters.

Twin daughters were born December 9 in London to Mrs. J. C. Hanbury-Williams, great-granddaughter of the late President Ulysses S. Grant and daughter of Prince Cantacuzene, aid de camp to the late Grand Duke Nicholas, of Russia. Her mother, Princess Michael Cantacuzene-Speransky, was Miss Julia Dent Grant, daughter of the late Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, of New York, and niece of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago.

The marriage of Princess Zenaida Cantacuzene to Mr. John Colbrook Hanbury-Williams on November 1, 1928, in St. John's Church was one of the brilliant events of the Washington season and was attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge and by official and diplomatic society and notables from all parts of the world.

Mr. Hanbury-Williams is the son of Maj. Gen. John Hanbury-Williams, marshal of the Diplomatic Corps in London.

The new Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley will be the honor guests at a dinner given by Maj. and Mrs. Leonard T. Gerow, preceding the Army dance at the Willard next Wednesday, December 18.

Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the Chief Justice, will be the guest of honor at the luncheon given by Mrs. Lucy Wilder Morris, on Thursday, December 19, at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Pratt Resumes Social Activities.

Mrs. Pratt, wife of Representative H. J. Pratt, of New York, is resuming her part in society following convalescence from an automobile accident sustained December 1, en route to this city from her home at Highland, N. Y. Representative and Mrs. Pratt are at the Mayflower.

Representative and Mrs. Adam Wyant will entertain at a buffet supper in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel on New Year's Eve for their daughter, Miss Anne Wyant, and her cousin, Miss Polly Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cooke. Following the supper Miss Wyant and her guests will attend the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Cooke will give in their home at 2409 Wyoming avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Backus entertained a party of twenty at luncheon yesterday at The Carlton. Their guests were the Minister from Switzerland and Mrs. Marc Peter, Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Shone, Mrs. Louise Willard Rogers, Col. and Mrs. Oscar T. Cusby, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey G. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. L. Corrin Strong, Mr. and Mrs. William Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Poole, Dr. David Jayne Hill, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Mrs. Locke, Mr. Chauncey Parker, jr., and Canon William L. De Vries.

Miss Janet Sheppard, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard, who is a student at the University of Texas, will come to Washington to spend the Christmas holidays with Senator and Mrs. Sheppard.

Mrs. Thomas Sterling, wife of former Senator Sterling, of South Dakota, entertained at luncheon yesterday, followed by bridge, for Mrs. J. M. Atkinson, of Hampton, Va. The other guests were Mrs. Frank Crowther, Mrs. Theodore Wrisley, Mrs. Edward Hays, Mrs. E. R. Woodson, Mrs. James H. Underwood, Mrs. Leora Parks and Mrs. Algernon Bailey.

Mr. Walter E. Hope, who has recently been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given today by the Princeton Alumni Association of the District of Columbia at the Army and Navy Club. Mr. Hope is a graduate of Princeton University, class of 1901, and he will be greeted at the luncheon by numerous of his classmates as well as members of late Princeton classes.

Luncheons to Follow Morning Concert.

Among those who will give luncheons today following Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's morning concert at the Mayflower are Mrs. James Couzens, Mrs. James S. Parker, Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, Mrs. McKee Dunn, Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Mrs. Thomas H. C. Reed, the Misses Cullen, and Mrs. Joe Crail.

Former Representative and Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, jr., will entertain at a dance in their home on Sixteenth street, on January 18, for their daughter, Miss Katherine Phillips, who is a debutante this season. Miss Phillips was presented at a large dance at the Phillips' home in Butler Hill, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will entertain at a small dinner for their daughter before the Junior League Fete de Nuit on Friday evening.

Gov. George F. Shafer, of North Dakota, entertained at a breakfast party in the crystal room at the Willard yesterday, his guests being members of the rivers and harbors congress and members of the North Dakota delegation in Congress.

Last evening members of the Minnesota delegation in Congress were guests of honor at a dinner given by the Minneapolis delegation to the Rivers and Harbors Congress in the cabinet room at the Willard.

Mrs. Compton Entertains For Miss Culbertson.

Miss Junia Culbertson, debutante daughter of the United States Ambassador to Chile, and Mrs. William S. Culbertson, was the guest for whom Mrs. Wilson Compton entertained at luncheon yesterday. Miss Mary Evelyn Compton, of Princeton, niece of the hostess, shared honors with Miss Culbertson. The other guests were: Miss Katherine Lowman, Miss Mildred Huston, Miss Marion Jardine, Miss Barbara Vandenberg, Miss Betty Thorpe, Miss Katherine Berry, Miss Clara Bolling, Miss Starr Eaton, Miss Eunice Lee Evans, Miss Katherine Fechet, Miss Engracia Freyer, Miss Mary Ingraham Henry, Miss Katherine Phillips, Miss Helen Walker, Miss Frances Brooks and Miss Jean Hoch.

Capt. and Mrs. Freyer Are Hosts at Daughter's Presentation.

Capt. and Mrs. Frank B. Freyer entertained at a reception yesterday afternoon to present their daughter, Miss Engracia Freyer, to society. Capt. Freyer, who is in command of the U. S. S. Trenton, came to Washington from Philadelphia, the present home port of the ship, for the fete. With her mother, Miss Freyer spent the summer and autumn months aboard, returning just in time for the round of festivities for the debutantes.

The reception yesterday was given at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Freyer at 1771 Massachusetts avenue, a house which is a veritable museum of fine old Peruvian pieces collected while Capt. Freyer was on a naval mission at Lima. The drawing rooms were abloom with flowers sent the debutante. After the tea Capt. and Mrs. Freyer entertained at a buffet supper and small dance for the group of seventeen pretty girls, most of them debutantes, who assisted the young hostess through the afternoon hours. A few other guests joined the company for the dancing. This party in the evening was arranged in compliment to Miss Helen Walker, Miss Caroline Sanderson and Miss Mary Caroline Henry.

Mrs. Freyer had a distinguished group of ladies presiding in turn at her flower decked tea table. The list included Senora de Alfaro, Mrs. George Sutherland, Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Samuel Jordan Graham, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, Mrs Francis Walker, Mrs. Francis Whitten, Mrs. Victor Kauffmann, Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, Mrs. Richard Leigh and Mrs. Edward J. Dorn.

Others assisting the hostess were Mrs. Reeve Lewis, Mrs. Karl Klemm, Mrs. Robert Imbrie, Mrs. B. F. Cheatham, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, Mrs. Dudley Knox, Mrs. Barry Mohun, Mrs. William A. Hill, Mrs. Henry Winfield Watson, Mrs. Goodloe Falconer, Mrs. Francis H. Pope, Mrs. Walter B Woodson and Mrs. Thomas Kurtz.

Miss Freyer wore a white satin gown—a true white rather than the eggshell tone so much worn this season. It was made on modified princess lines, with the long skirt forming a train, and had long close fitting sleeves. She carried an armful of red roses. Mrs. Freyer's gown was of black tulle and lace, its skirt long and full in the new mode.

Baroness Korff has with her as guests until after the Christmas holidays her son and daughter-in-law, Baron and Baroness Serge Alexander Korff, in the home of her mother, Mrs. William K. Van Reypen, 2308 California street.

Mrs. Ralph Richards will entertain at a tea dance for her subdebutante daughter, Miss Jean Richards, on Christmas Day in the Palm Court of the Mayflower. Beginning December 23 and continuing until January 4 tea dances will be given daily in the palm court of the hotel instead of Wednesday and Saturday only as has been done since these functions were resumed several weeks ago.

Mrs. Williams to Give Tea for Mrs. Sanger.

Mrs. Charles Redding Williams, 1661 Crescent Place, has sent out cards for a small tea in honor of Mrs. Margaret Sanger and her sister-in-law, Mrs Hugh de Haven, of New York, this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Dr. and Mrs. James Alexander Lyon will entertain at a dinner on January 17, at their home, Glenview Farm, near Rockville, Md. They will later attend the Friday Evening Dancing Class, at the Willard, with their guests.

Mr. and Mme. Stefan Poradzewski have sent out cards for a tea on Sunday from 5 until 7 o'clock in their apartment on Fifteenth street.

Mrs. Stobbs Returns To Capital for Visit.

Mrs. George R. Stobbs, of Worcester, Mass., has joined Representative Stobbs in Washington at the Mayflower for a short visit. They will open their apartment at the Mayflower the first of January.

Mrs. W. R. Van Buren, wife of Commander Van Buren, U. S. N., will give a tea at the Willard on December 21 in honor of her daughter, Miss Nancy Elizabeth Van Buren, a student at Mount Holyoke, and her niece, Miss Betty Elam. Mrs. Van Buren is a cousin of Gov.-elect John Pariand of Virginia.

Mrs. Kellogg Mann and her children have returned to their home in Buffalo, N. Y., after passing several weeks with her parents, the Assistant to the Attorney General and Mrs. John Lord O'Brian, in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Thomas W. Symons has come from Buffalo to spend the winter in Washington, her old home, and has taken an apartment at the Carlton.

Mrs. Warren Jackson Haines has returned to Washington after a month in Paris, where she left her daughter, Miss Elizabeth J. Haines, who will spend a year abroad in study and travel.

Belgian Couple Here on U. S. Tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Francois Saey, of Brussels, Belgium, are in Washington in their tour of the United States and have taken a suite at the Ambassador for a week or two.

Among the guests who will be present at the "medical night" dinner this evening at 6:30 o'clock, given by the business and professional section of the Women's City Club, are Miss J. Beatrice Bowman, Maj. Julia C. Stimson, Dr. Mary O'Malley, Mrs. Mary A. Hickey, Miss Lucy Minnigerode, Mrs. Agnes H. Stewart, Miss Gertrude Bowling, Dr. A. Frances Foye, Dr. Edith Seville Coale, Dr. Louise T. Jones and Dr. S. R. Karpeles. Miss Jessie Dell will be hostess and will preside.

Reservations have been made by Judge Mary O'Toole, Miss Pearl M. McCall, Mrs. Lawton Miller, Mrs. Anna Farrar, Miss Amy Clement Leavitt, Miss Blanch Brown, Miss E. Heilman, Mrs. Henry Seymour, Miss Mary McKenny, Mrs. John T. Murphy, Mrs. J. Garfield Riley, Miss Elve McNamara, Miss Gladys Newman, Miss Julia Bannigan, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Lewis, Mrs. G. F. Stewart, Miss Kensett Vail, Dr. Edith Louise Allen, Miss Helen Hawley, Miss Dorothy Williamson, Mrs. Anne R. McGuire, Miss Florence E. Packer, Mrs. B. A. Singer, Mrs. Anna B. Harlan, Miss V. S. Benjamin, Miss C. Virginia Diedel, Miss Helen O'Neil and Miss Eunice Wright. Members of the section will be assisting hostesses.

Cadet Troup Miller, jr., first class, United States Military Academy, will spend the Christmas holidays with his parents, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Troup Miller, at the Army War College. Cadet Miller will have as his guests during the holidays two of his classmates, Cadet F. F. Wing, jr., and Cadet R. C. Parker.

Mrs. Bertie Eriebacher has moved from the Hotel Roosevelt to an apartment at Woodley Park Towers.

Tea-Dance Planned At War College.

There will be a tea dance at the Officers Club, the Army War College, on Thursday, December 26, from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock, in honor of the young people of the Army and Navy residing in or near the District of Columbia and the Cadets and Midshipmen visiting the city on Christmas leave.

Mrs. Charles C. Bailey, of Topeka, Kans., is at the Dodge Hotel for several days.

North Carolina Group Will Meet Tonight.

Among the guests of honor at the meeting of the North Carolina Society of Washington this evening will be Assistant Secretary of the Interior Joseph M. Dixon, a native of North Carolina, who moved to Montana after completing his education in the Old North State.

Another prominent guest will be Senator William E. Brock, new senator from Tennessee, a native and former resident of North Carolina.

The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the National Press Building. Mr. William MacDougall, distinguished psychologist, of Duke University, Durham, N. C., will make an address.

Mrs. Edith Hainsworth and her two daughters, Miss Edith O. Hainsworth and Miss Mildred M. Hainsworth, who make their home at the Cavalier Hotel, have just returned from a two weeks' trip to Long Island, New York City, and through New Jersey.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

THE new mode today expresses itself in exquisite fabrics and an entirely new silhouette.

The smartly dressed woman wins the admiring praise of the world. How splendid! One need have no fear of not being admired because she isn't beautiful. No, indeed! The requisite of beauty today is a smart appearance.

Individuality is first step to smartness. No wonder so many women are making part of their wardrobe. Even on a modest budget, it's quite possible to wear Paris frocks, for they can be copied exactly. The shops offer the most exclusive fabrics at a nominal sum.

For instance, take Style No. 8225, a new interpretation of Princess silhouette, straight from Paris, can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust.

It combines plain blending tone transparent velvet with print in tempting burgundy tones. The plain velvet used for shawl collar of bodice in open French V is carried down in circular godet at center-front of skirt to give the figure length. A knot of the velvet indicates normal waistline. Vestee of plain velvet has becoming round neckline. The sleeves with flaring cuffs repeat the plain velvet.

It can be copied exactly with 2¾ yards of 35-inch printed velvet with 2¼ yards of 35-inch plain for the woman of average figure.

Made of black velvet with vestee of beige sheer metal cloth is very attractive.

Black wool crepe with vest of eggshell silk crepe, dark plum shade in faille silk crepe, marron glace crepe satin with shawl collar, vest, godet, and flaring cuffs of sleeves made of the reverse of crepe and featherweight tweed in beige and brown check with cuffs, collar and godet cut on the bias, are decidedly wearable and chic.

For a pattern of today's style, fill out coupon, writing very clearly, and be sure to state number and size of pattern. Send coupon with 15 cents (stamps or coin) to Fashion Bureau, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

All our styles are created in Paris or New York. Every pattern contains full directions. No experience necessary. Very easy to use and guaranteed to fit perfectly.

Silver Years

"After the golden years of youth, come those of fine silver."

By GERTRUDE S. TROWBRIDGE.

Life would seem so much longer and deeper if, half the time, we realized that we are alive. But, when we are children, we are always feeling that youth has no importance; that, when we grow up, we shall begin to live. When we are middle-aged, we dream of what we would do if we had a million or are so obsessed by what our children are doing (especially in America) that we fail to appreciate vitally our own opportunities that slip by us because of inattention.

If adults could show children their privileges by some such suggestion as this: "If I did what you do, rush shouting along the streets, climb every possible height, and turn handsprings when nothing else attracts, I would be put in an insane asylum;" they would give children an idea of the joys which are theirs alone. They could be told further that they are free to do any wild thing that occurs to them without being locked up and that the freedom of youth should be appreciated because all too soon they will be expected to show dignity.

If middle-aged parents would stop saying things like: "I devoted my life to my children" and realize that they mean "a third of my life" (because they rarely have children before 26 years old, and children go off to work or to school at 15) they would not sponge from consciousness as unimportant all the years that lie before and after the reign of children in the home.

If an old person would stop dreaming of, and glorying exclusively in, the past, he would realize just what experience is meant to teach and plan his days according to his present possibilities, leaving remorse and futile dreaming to those who enjoy a good cry.

Until he watches his abstract thoughts, no one realizes how time-absorbing and useless many of them are. Replacing them with actuality and brave, clear vision, clears decks for action and adds surprisingly to mental power.

Garment Workers Urge Support of Socialists

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Support of the Socialist party by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union was urged at the closing session of the annual convention of the organization here today by Morris Hillquit, of New York City, a leader in the Socialist movement.

Delegates at the convention decided to elect officers by referendum, giving each member an opportunity to vote rather than by the convention system in vogue until this year. President Hoover's appointment of Jesse Herff, New York manufacturer of children's coats, to the President's business conference, was protested by the delegates on the ground that Herff's company operated allegedly under sweatshop conditions.

Double-Edged Appeal Of Snook Before Court

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The State supreme court tonight had before it for consideration the two-way appeal of Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State University professor, from a sentence of death in the electric chair for the murder of Miss Theora K. Hix last June 13.

Arguments were submitted today and defense counsel asked that the former professor be granted a new trial on the grounds that he did not receive a fair and impartial trial in Franklin County and that Prosecutor John J. Chester, jr., used unwarranted brutality in obtaining a confession.

Naval Parity Is Topic Of Lions' Club Speaker

Maj. Charles J. Ferris, U. S. A., retired, will be the principal speaker at today's meeting of the Washington Lions Club in the Hotel Mayflower. His subject is "Naval Parity and Parity Piffle." Maj. Ferris was widely acclaimed as an entertainer during the World War in France.

Plans are to be made at the luncheon meeting today for Christmas activities of the club among deserving families.

Value of Good Estate Placed at $300,000

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Assets of $300,000, nearly double the total estimated with the filing of the will, were revealed today with the recording of an inventory of the estate of the late Secretary of War James W. Good, who died November 18. Mr. Good left his entire estate to his widow to be divided between his two sons at Mrs. Good's death.

Plan for Christmas Lights Gets Hearty Indorsement

All Sections of Capital Respond to Program Sponsored by Post-Electric League for Brilliant Illumination During Holiday Season.

Plans for a "Brighter Community Christmas," as sponsored by The Washington Post and the Electric League of Washington, are being spread to every section of the city, and by the end of the week there will be few residents who have not learned the details of this great program of lighting the Capital during the holidays.

Citizens associations everywhere are hearing speakers furnished by the Electric League, committes are being appointed to see that the community is well decorated, and pamphlets issued by associations are filled with suggestions for making homes and sections more beautiful than ever this season.

Dr. George R. Ellis, of 1324 Lawrence street northwest, is chairman of the "Brighter Community Christmas" committee of the Brookland Citizens Association, which indorsed the movement heartily after M. C. Clay, manager of the Electric League, had explained what is necessary to aid in the program.

The next issue of the Rhode Island Avenue Press will contain details of this idea for circulation in Brookland, Langdon, Dahlgren, Michigan Park and Woodridge. Enlightened Homes, a magazine distributed to 50,000 Washington homes, this month devotes two pages to describing the outdoor lighting plans of the league and The Post.

A typical demonstration of how homes, lawns and verandas may be made beautiful through use of colored lights will be given Friday evening at a meeting of the District Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations at the Burlington Hotel. Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman of the sponsoring committee for the program, will act as toastmaster.

The Business Men's Association of Rockville is planning an outdoor lighting program under the guidance of H. W. Talbot, but at this time their arrangements have not been completed.

A splendid list of prizes has been offered for the best decorated individual homes in the District and within 3 miles of the District boundaries, while a silver loving cup will be awarded the community which has the largest percentage of its homes artistically lighted.

Harrison Tells Coolidge Not to Run for Senate

(Associated Press).

A "friendly tip" was offered to Calvin Coolidge by Senator Harrison (Democrat) Mississippi, in the Senate yesterday not to "fall in with the conspiracy" of Republicans associated with President Hoover to run for the Senate in the Massachusetts election next year.

Harrison suggested the "conspiracy" was to "bury" Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, and Coolidge in the Senate. He said those anxious about the renomination of President Hoover regarded these two men as the "serious contenders for his post.

"Flying Representative" Does Movie Maneuvers

Representative Melvin J. Maas, of Minnesota, the "flying representative," yesterday starred briefly for the talkies. In a tiny Hawk pursuit plane he went aloft at Bolling Field and performed acrobatic maneuvers before a talkie camera.

According to Maas, who is a captain in the Marine Corps Reserve, the pictures were being taken to complete a feature newsreel for which he has performed at intervals since July. The pictures taken yesterday will be shown at a local theater next week, he said, and will then be added to scenes already taken to make a complete reel.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

It is hard to believe that ignorance accounts for the liberties some drivers take with the amber light. The law seems too simple for that.

In Washington, the amber is an intersection clearing signal; nothing more. When it shows after the green light, all moving traffic must stop unless it can clear the intersection before the red flashes. In the meantime, all traffic waiting on the cross street is required to remain standing until the amber changes to green.

Example: A driver is within 60 feet of an intersection when the amber light flashes in front of him. He drives on but fails to clear the intersection before the red shows. He has violated the regulations. In the meantime another driver on the cross street enters the intersection while the amber still is showing. He also has violated the regulations and both are subject to arrest.

Chinese Envoy Leaves To Resume Rail Parley

Harbin, Manchuria, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Tasi Yun-Sheng, Manchurian's chief negotiator, left today for Khabarovsk, Siberia, to resume the parley with Simavski, Russian representative, for settlement of the conflict over the Chinese Railway operation.

Trains are reported already operating between Manchuli and Khailar in western Manchuria. Tracks damaged in military activities are being repaired by Soviet troops, which are said to continue the occupation of the two towns with the view of accelerating the present Chinese-Soviet negotiations.

organizations indorsing the Capper bill. He then explained his position.

"I offered an amendment," he said "providing that no book contrary to the principle of the American doctrine of separation of church and state should be used.

"Later on I went to Senator Capper and told him that I would not insist upon my amendment, but would withdraw it and would introduce it as a separate bill.

"On several occasions since then it has been stated that I killed the bill.

"I want to say that I am in favor of the measure and would like to see the children of the District have these free books."

LIBRARY TO SECURE SCHOLARS' SERVICES

Dr. Putnam Tells Congress of $75,000 Gift for Experiment.

EXPERTS ARE SELECTED

Plans for elaborating experiments now in progress toward the establishment of a group of specialists who, without administrative responsibility, may render valuable aid to the Library of Congress in developing its collections and expert aid to the public in using them, are outlined in the annual report of Dr. Herbert Putnam, librarian, submitted to Congress yesterday.

A pioneer fund of $75,000 has been provided by the General Education Board for a demonstration of the plan during a brief period, and should this prove successful it is hoped, Dr. Putnam says, that substantial and permanent funds for its continuance will be provided. Dr. Putnam contends that fifteen such consultants should be the minimum instead of the six provided for in the pioneer fund.

Experts to Be Employed.

The plan contemplates the employment of scholars of high repute, including men who are ready to hand over to their younger colleagues the active conduct of an academic position but who still retain their accumulated experience, knowledge and understanding of their specialties.

The experiment begins with the employment for the present year or part of it, of the following: European history, Dr. Henry E. Bourne, hitherto professor of history in the graduate school of Western Reserve University; philosophy, Dr. Willian A. Hammond, retiring dean of the Cornell University faculty and coeditor of the Philosophical Review; economics, Dr. Victor S. Clark, labor authority; classical literature, Dr. Harold North Fowler, late professor of Greek in the College for Women, Western Reserve University; church history and religion, Dr. Charles S. Lane, late of Hartford Theological Seminary; English and American literature, Dr. M. A. De Wolfe Howe, biographer, late with the Atlantic Monthly; science, Prof. Alfred Church Lane, of the department of geology and mineralogy of Tufts College.

Hispanic Specialist Selected.

To these, the report continues, should be added the names of Dr. Ernest C. Richardson, library director emeritus of Princeton University, and Senor Don Juan Riano, for the past three years consultant in Hispanic literature on the Archer M. Huntington foundation.

Completely realized, Dr. Putnam says this project of a "faculty" of specialists and corps of consultants would equip the library with an aid to its development and use such as exists in no other library in the world. It would serve to energize and vitalize the huge mass of literature (now 4,000,000 printed volumes in addition to the manuscripts, maps, music and prints) otherwise inert, in spite of apparatus in the way of cataloguing and classification.

Monetary gifts in excess of $416,000, acquisition of 180,802 books and governmental appropriations which include provision for additional accommodation for the collections and service, combined to make 1929 a record year for the library, Dr. Putnam's report shows.

TARIFF PUBLICITY STIRS SENATE TILT

jumped to his feet and demanded that the lobby committee call the signers before it to determine who paid for it. He said he wanted the farmers of Minnesota to know for what their papers, which were "pretending" to be the farmers' friends, were spending their money.

Allen replied he had been informed that the Minnesota editors and publishers mentioned had paid for the advertisement themselves and resented Norris' characterization of them as "so-called country editors."

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, observed that the appeal came from one of the "backward" States which Joseph R. Grundy had told the lobby committee were "not entitled to representation in the Senate," while Senator Schall (Republican, independent), Minnesota, said he "wondered what Eastern money is being shot into the State of Minnesota to purchase our newspapers."

An editorial entitled "The Farmers of Minnesota" from the Minneapolis Tribune, was placed in the record by Senator Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, and that ended the advertisement discussion.

Chairman Caraway, of the lobby committee, said, off the floor, that he would try to find out definitely who paid for the advertisement, if Norris wanted him to.

MAYOR IS INJURED IN ELEVATOR FALL

ficials were quitting their offices for the day. The car dropped to the first floor before being halted by its safety catch, and then rebounded half way to the second floor, being held there and jamming shut the doors.

Firemen forced the doors and all of the passengers except the mayor were able to crawl out without assistance. He had to be carried to his office for medical treatment.

Walter G. Hammond, city buildings engineer, expressed the belief that the elevator was overloaded, snapping the cable. He said an investigation would be conducted.

Matrons Sought For Schools Here

Parent-Teacher Association of B. W. Murch School Makes Request.

Placing of matrons in all elementary schools of the District was asked of the Board of Education yesterday in a resolution adopted by the Parent-Teacher Association of the new B. W. Murch School.

The association urges the Board of Education to petition Congress to authorize appropriation of the necessary funds for the employment of matrons in elementary schools. The association points out there are matrons in the junior and high schools of the District but that in the elementary schools the parents are required to pay for employment of matrons.

The association also adopted a resolution petitioning Maj. Pratt, superintendent of metropolitan police, to detail a regular policeman to the corner of Davenport street and Connecticut avenue, where the new Ben W. Murch School is being built.

TWO WITH POOL CUES ROUT MINE STRIKERS

picket Peabody Mine No. 10 in the Nokomis Field.

The National Miners' Union is a new organization springing from factional strife within the United Mine Workers of America. With acquisition of the Tovey unit today, a report came also that the Pittsburgh, Pa., local of the union would strike if the Illinois movement spread. Approximately 3,000 men were on strike in the Taylorville district.

Andy Keirs, president of the United Mine Workers local at Kincaid, was ejected from a hall by 1,000 men and women when he attempted to hold them under the United banners. Other officials of the United Mine Workers absented themselves from the meetings.

Approximately 700 of the strikers were listed as still loyal to the United Mine Workers, but refusing to work under National Guard protection.

Freeman Thompson, of Springfield, who organized the National Miners Union, was under military arrest for disturbing the peace. Two others were arrested on similar charges yesterday.

A six-hour day and a five-day week, minimum wage of $35 a week and abolition of the check-off system, by which operators pay the dues of miners direct to the union, compose the strikers' demands.

Maj. C. J. McMackin, of Salem, Ill., in command of the National Guard troops here, said he anticipated no trouble in the Taylorville district.

Warrants Issued for 64.

Boonville, Ind., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Recent disturbances at Warrick County coal mines and threats of further disorders led today to issuance of warrants for the arrest of 64 persons on riot charges.

Two deputy sheriffs were on duty at each of four mines in the vicinity and an appeal has been sent to Gov. Harry G. Leslie for aid. County authorities requested additional deputies to maintain order at the mines, which are being operated cooperatively and, United Mine Workers say, in violation of the union wage agreement.

The governor's office indicated the situation would be investigated. The shafts were reported as operating quietly today.

1,400 Children Will See Mission Yuletide Fete

Approximately 1,400 children are expected to attend the tenth annual Christmas "Kiddie Bag Party" of the Central Union Mission at the National Theater at noon on December 24, it is announced.

The bags have been made by women from the churches represented by the mission, and already approximately 1,000 of them are assured of being filled. They will be given to children who are unlikely to have Christmas trees of their own.

STOKOWSKI'S MUSIC PLEASES AUDIENCE

Philadelphia Orchestra, Under Old Director, Surpasses Even Itself.

PLAYS 'THE NEW WORLD'

The magic baton of Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, yesterday at the second concert of the season by that organization in Constitution Hall, evoked a wealth of harmony and symphonic beauties in a concert of classic and modern music.

Once more it was borne home to the representative audience that the Philadelphia Orchestra reaches its highest heights when under the direction of its own leader. For it responded to his slightest command in a manner which should make yesterday's concert live in the memories of all fortunate enough to hear it.

In the ballad suite by Gluck the orchestral coloring was of unique and gorgeous loveliness, in the four selections from "Iphigenie en Aulide," "Orphee" and "Armide," on which it was based. Again and again a superbly fused string tone was developed which contrasted with the mellow strains of horns and occasional woodwind passages in an unforgettable manner. Stokowski proved himself complete master of the score, without having it before him, in the inimitable way in which he led this opening suite.

Then, as if to show the ability of the orchestra to transfer its mood quickly from one composer to another, the magnificent Bach Prelude in B minor aroused the audience to renewed enthusiasm. Then followed Handel's "Overture in D Minor," another number in which the orchestra and leader won prolonged and well-merited applause.

After the intermission Dvorak's enchanting "Symphony No. 5 in E Minor" from "The New World," with its four diversified movements engaged the attention of these master musicians. The charm of Dvorak's genius was pictured in every measure. The largo with its haunting native melodies, the adagio, with every note measured to its full tonal sweetness, the gay scherzo, with its trio in waltz time, and the final summing up in the finale all spoke enchantingly of the lasting virtue of this symphony which embodies the unique musical qualities of America in its themes.

The concert was given under the local management of T. Arthur Smith.

Washington will eagerly await the coming of the Philadelphia Orchestra again later in the season.

Man Hurt Fleeing Fire.

Attempting to escape from a second-story rear window when a fire broke out early yesterday morning at his home, 412 I street northwest, David Carroll, colored, 29 years old, fell to the ground and was seriously hurt. Taken to Freedmen's Hospital, he was treated for a fractured pelvis. The blaze resulted in damage of $50 to the premises.

At the Cross-Roads of Health

SSS has meant a new day to many a person

A CLEAR SKIN comes from within

Lack of appetite, loss of strength, skin eruptions, that "tired feeling" and other human ills may be due to a lack of red-cells in your blood.

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

"My despair was so great I could have cried. The good cheer and merry happiness of others only mocked at my condition. I had begun to wonder why life could be so cruel. No appetite. No strength. Skin blemishes always embarrassed me. Aches and pains coursed through my body. I wanted to restore my health and live. What was I to do? . . . happily the day came and I found the right road to Health when a friend recommended S.S.S."

You may be one of the thousands with a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run-down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments.

Did you know that every cubic millimeter of the normal, healthy person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles? They are the tiny red particles which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to the cells of the body. Rich, red blood wards off disease. It is very dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S. S. S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs, gathered at the proper season of the year. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

HOOVER GROUP GETS TEXTILE PROPOSALS

Business Committee Will Study Suggestions to Better Industry.

HOUR CUT PACT SOUGHT

Boston, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Suggestions offered to President Hoover by Henry T. Kendall, of Boston, textile manufacturer, for changes designed to improve operating and production conditions in the textile industry, have been referred to the committee formed by the President to help in the stabilization of business. Word to this effect was received today from Secretary of Commerce Lamont, to whom the suggestions were referred.

Kendall, who is at the head of textile plants in New England and of five plants in North and South Carolina, submitted his proposals to the President with the suggestion that the present offered opportunity for him to "very materially improve the conditions of the textile industry, which, as you know, have been very bad for a number of years."

Kendall said the industry is suffering from overproduction, due to three influences, style changes, substitution of rayon for cotton, and increase in productive capacity "due to operating cotton mills in States which permit the working of women and minors at night."

Agreement Is Sought.

After suggesting that the President add to his committee a man of recognized standing familiar with textile conditions in the North and South, Kendall said:

"The action, I would suggest, would be to secure by mutual consent an agreement to permanently reduce the working hours per week in all textile mills to not over 50; to pay the same weekly wage for 50 hours that was paid for 54, 55 or 60, whatever schedule the individual mills operated on; and in mills that operated day and night to replace, just as far as possible, vacancies appearing among women workers on the night shift, with men."

He suggested it might be inopportune at present to endeavor to eliminate night running in cotton mils, as it might temporarily throw employees out of work, but that perhaps such a move could be arirved at later.

Mills Have 55-Hour Week.

Kendall said that his five mills in the South are compelled, for competitive reasons, to operate day and night and 55 hours a week on each shift.

"We have eliminated women entirely from one shift and successfully," he wrote the President, "and are filling vacancies in women's positions on the day shift with women from the night shift, and are employing no new women on night shifts. We have found this entirely practical. We are opposed to night operation of women and minors as being socially unsound, and night operation, taking the industry as a whole, as economically unsound."

He said the South has been under criticism for its long hours "and justly so, but through lack of leadership, in which the South differs in no respect from the North, they have not been able to bring about these reforms by concerted action."

Roadhouse Proprietor Convicted of Slaying

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 10.—A second degree murder verdict was returned here this afternoon by a jury against Michael Muniz, 24, proprietor of the Crow's Nest, a nearby hillside roadhouse, for the death of Burt Lambert, Grafton young man, as the result of head blows received in an altercation there late at night.

The verdict carries a penalty of 5 to 18 years in the penitentiary.

STATE COOPERATION IN TAXES IS SOUGHT

Alexandria City Council to Ask Aid in Collection From Auto Owners.

GRAND JURY CONCLUDES

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

At a called meeting of the city council yesterday, the matter of city automobile taxes was thoroughly gone into, and the only positive action taken was the adoption of a resolution introduced by Mayor William Albert Smoot, to the effect that the city council will address a communication to the State senator, the local delegate to the House of Delegates, and to the League of Virginia Municipalities, asking that the State of Virginia be urged to cooperate with the city of Alexandria in the collection of taxes and license taxes on automobiles to the same extent that Maryland is now understood to cooperate.

This was explained by the mayor as his understanding that the Maryland law provides that as a prerequisite to the issuance of a license tag for an automobile the State taxes on personal property shall have been paid. This is taken to mean that the Maryland law requires that the State personal tax on the automobile, aside from any other personal property taxes, shall have been paid. Further information on this point, however, is being sought. The situation in Virginia seems to be somewhat different, in that the personal property tax on automobiles is grouped with other personal property taxes, and there is a question as to whether the personal property tax on an automobile could be collected as a prerequisite to issuing a city license tag, without collecting the other personal property taxes.

Lower Truck Fee Asked.

As the situation now stands, Alexandria automobile owners are paying a State license tax, a gasoline tax of 5 cents for each gallon of gasoline used, a city personal property tax based on the value of the car, and a city license tag tax based on the weight of the machine. The mayor is of the opinion that the city has the right to levy only one tax on the machine directly.

John Barton Phillips addressed the council at length in opposition to the continuance of the city license tax. L. A. Spiess, representing the Washington Bakers Association, asked that the council amend section 11 of ordinance No. 64, which imposes a tax of $100 on nonresident bakers' trucks, while the city tax for resident bakers' trucks is only $40 a year. He stated that the tax on nonresident trucks is too high and, in his opinion, contrary to law. This matter was also taken under consideration.

Request Road Opened.

Among those appearing at the meeting yesterday were John Barton Phillips, Fred C. Goodnow, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Harry Hammond, J. Frank Myers, W. H. Thomas, Robert G. Carter, J. Kent White, Howard T. Colvin, Carl Budweskey, city attorney; Richard L. Ruffner, James T. Preston, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Walter S. Smith, W. L. Norford, L. H. Dudley, Leslie Lane, Richard B. English, Courtland H. Davis, Roger C. Sullivan, city treasurer; and L. A. Spiss, of Washington.

Councilman Timberman offered a resolution, which was passed, to the effect that the State Highway Commission be requested to remove the present barrier on the River road until the work of improving that section of roadway is actually started. It was explained that the road has been blocked for several days, while there is apparently no work in progress, and that traffic generally has been handicapped by the unnecessary signs placed by the commission.

Christmas carols were featured at the meeting of the local Business and Professional Women's Club last night at the George Mason Hotel, with the following members of the Music Club as the singers: Mrs. Albert M. Briggs, Mrs Orlando Kirk, Mrs. Francis Drischler Mrs. David C. Book and Mrs. Harry B. Caton, accompanied by Mrs. George E Warfield.

The club reversed the usual order and the president, Mrs. Mary W. Troth, presented the business first, with the entertainment program following.

Miss Alice H. Whitton, chairman of the recent Red Cross roll call reported Alexandria subscribing $1,054.15 to date and memberships still being given in, with the hope of reaching the quota of $1,500. The club voted to assist the local Girl Scout troop, which is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, by providing kits for the 33 girls. A charter subscription of $100 will be sent prior to January 1 toward the Lena Madesin Phillips building fund, of the national organization. Mrs. Helen Springman tendered her resignation as educational chairman for the club, and Miss Winnie Cox accepted this office, in turn resigning the membership chairmanship, which was accepted by Miss Adelyn Apperson.

The program committee, composed of Miss Bertha Allison, Mrs. Mary W. Troth, Miss Ida Hill, Mrs. Clarence Wells, Mrs. Rowlette and Miss Adelyn Apperson, had arranged a setting of Christmas in the north end of the room, with a large chimney, fireplace with Yule log effect, and to one side a tree trimmed with lights and tinsel, under which the club members deposited the gifts they brought to be given to the inmates of the Alexandria Day Nursery and Children's Home and the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged. A comedy skit was put on by Mrs. J. Randall Caton and Miss Corinne T. Reardon. It was a travesty of "The Night Before Christmas," and was participated in by the following club members wearing nightgowns, nightcaps and bearing candles: Miss Eleanor Watkins, Mrs. Mary G. Hullings, Miss Winnie Cox, Mrs Helen Springman, Miss Bertha M. Allison, Miss Alice H Whitton, Miss Catherine Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Ramey, Miss Margaret Germond, Miss Alice Norford, Miss Nellie Michelbach, Miss Mary Monroe, Mrs. Mary W. Troth, Mrs. Helen V. Reed and Mrs Dolly P. Shepperson.

The Alexandria Rotary Club yesterday went on record as opposing the recent action of the State Highway Commission in the allocation of Funds for the widening of the Richmond-Washington highway, between Alexandria and Washington. The commission originally allocated $80,000 for the work of widening this road between the present corporate limits of Alexandria and a point just south of the Highway Bridge, the work to be started immediately after July 1, but later the commission changed its allocation and awarded a contract for the improvement of the road only between Four Mile Run and the southern limits of the District of Columbia.

This new allocation covered only approximately 2 miles of roadway, while the original allocation covered 4 miles, and the amended decision of the highway commission leaves Alexandria with the moral obligation to improve 2 miles of roadway, which it was understood the highway commission would improve. At the price of the contract given out by the highway commission, this will obligate Alexandria to spend approximately $80,000 to match the improvement by the highway commission.

A resolution drafted by the Rotary Club sets forth that the action of the State Highway Commission in failing to carry out its original project of widening the highway from the present city limits of Alexandria to Washington was prejudicial to the best interests of Alexandria, and requests that the highway commission appoint a time for the citizens of Alexandria to appear before them, and that plans for the original allocation be carried out.

The mayor, assisted by the chamber of commerce, has taken a great interest in the improvement of what is known as the River Road, between here and Washington, and, after several years of endeavor, finally succeeded in having Chairman Shirley, of the highway commission, make a personal survey of the situation. Shirley agreed with Smoot that it is necessary to widen the road between Alexandria and Washington, which carries an abnormal amount of traffic, both local and through, and, as a result of that agreement, the commission made the allocation of $80,000 to widen the road from a point a half mile south of the Highway Bridge to the present city limits of Alexandria, a distance of four miles.

Meantime, however, Alexandria instituted a suit against Arlington County for th eannexation of a portion of its territory. The work on the Alexandria-Washington highway was supposed, according to the official allocation, to begin immediately after July 1, 1929. In the meantime, the suit of Alexandria against Arlington County for annexation was favorably passed upon by the courts, placing the northern limits of the corporation of Alexandria, after the annexation should have become effective, at Four Mile Run, just two miles north of the present corporate limits. The work on the widening of the road was unaccountably delayed until quite recently, a contract was let by the highway commission for the reconstruction of the road from the southern limits of the District of Columbia to the corporate limits of Alexandria as such would exist after January 1, 1930, or Four Mile Run, cutting just in half the extent of the road improvement originally contemplated. The peculiar part of the new contract, to Alexandria officials, is the fact that the money involved in the improvement of two miles of roadway is almost the identical sum originally allocated for the improvement of four miles. Unless the decision of the highway commission is changed Alexandria will now be obligated to spend an equal amount.

The funeral of Thomas Emlen Franklin, aged 51 years, of this city, who died on Monday in the University Hospital, Charlottesville, after an illness of less than a week, was held yesterday from the home of his sister, Mrs. Edgar M. Young, in Fredericksburg, Va., and burial was in the family lot at that place. The deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lola Ashton Franklin and two young children, of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Young and Mrs. Lawler R. Wilcox, of Fredericksburg; and a brother, Walter Franklin, of New York.

The grand jury in the corporation court, Judge William P. Woolls, presiding, completed its duties at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, with the issuance of the following true bills: Charles Poss, Henry Poss and Albert Poss, assault on Dr. W. Clyde West; Charles W. Frazier, alias Joe Frazier, one being under the name of Clarence Frazier, charged with forgery, and Charles W. Haynes, charged with grand larceny.

Bridge Play Over Radio Is Described

Brilliant and Very Useful Maneuver Figures in Fourth Game of Series on WRC. Contestants All Widely Known.

The millions of bridge players who listen weekly to Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge Games learned a brilliant and very useful maneuver in the fourth game of the season, which went on the air at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Station WRC.

The experts who played the hand were Miss Annie Blanche Shelby, of Portland, Oreg., a well-known teacher of all the games of the whist family since the days of duplicate whist; Mrs. Murray A. Campbell, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Chicago, Ill., widely known as teacher, player, writer and lecturer; Ralph J. Leibenderfer, Esq., of New York City, who has a national reputation as an expert player and analyst; and Charles S. Thurston, of Saranac Lake, N. Y., who has been known as a star player ever since the whist match between Yale and Harvard in 1895.

The hands were: Miss Shelby, South, dealer: Spades, Q, 6, 5; Hearts, K, 8, 4, 3, 2; Diamonds, Q, J, 10, 8; Clubs, 10. Mr. Leibenderfer, West: Spades, K, 10; Hearts, A, Q, 7, 6, 5; Diamonds, A, K, 4, 3; Clubs, 4, 2. Mr. Thurston, North: Spades, A, 9, 8, 7; Hearts, J, 10, 9; Diamonds, 9, 7; Clubs, J, 9, 7, 6. Mrs. Campbell, East: Spades, J, 4, 3, 2; Hearts, none; Diamonds, 6, 5, 2; Clubs, A, K, Q, 8, 5, 3.

Opening the Auction, as of the first deal of a rubber, Miss Shelby, South, dealer, was obliged to pass, since she lacked two quick tricks. Mr. Leibenderfer, West, said one Heart. Mr. Leibenderfer had the high-card strength for a No Trump, but with a biddable five-card major, one suit barely stopped, and one suit defenseless, his suit bid was much sounder. Mr. Thurston, North, passed; and Mrs. Campbell, East, bid two Clubs, both as a denial of her partner's Hearts, and because she had strength in Clubs.

Miss Shelby, South, passed again; and Mr. Leibenderfer gladly bid two No Trumps. The worthless Club doubleton which kept him from bidding a No Trump originally, was no longer a menace. Mr. Thurston, North, passed. Mrs. Campbell, East, then had a troublesome choice between passing and rebidding her Clubs. Ordinarily, with a blank suit and a six-card suit, even a minor it is wiser to rebid over partner's No Trump; but in this case there was nothing to fear because the blank suit was the partner's original bid. The indications from East's viewpoint were that West named the Heart originally instead of No Trump because of Club weakness; and East's Clubs furnished ideal assistance for the No Trump. Mrs. Campbell felt that if she went to three Clubs, West would drop the No Trump fearing that the Clubs were not headed by the Ace and could not be run by a No Trump Declarer. East consequently passed, and so did South, giving Mr. Leibenderfer, West, the bid for two No Trumps.

Mr. Thurston, North, led the 7 of Spades, the fourth-best card of the stronger of his four-card suits. Mrs. Campbell's hand went down for Dummy, and from it Mr. Leibenderfer played the deuce; South played the Queen; and Declarer won with the King.

Planning his campaign, Mr. Leibenderfer noted that he had won the King of Spades and was sure of the Ace of Hearts two Diamonds and three Clubs . . . seven tricks. In addition, the Spade ten or Dummy's Jack would win a trick. But he would still be one trick short of game. If the outstanding Clubs were divided 3-2, he could take six Club tricks instead of three. With a 3-2 Club division, a Spade lead by Declarer to trick 2 would give him a total of eleven tricks; but if either of the adversaries had four Clubs that play might leave Declarer one trick short of game.

At this point in his summing up of the situation, Mr. Leibenderfer decided to make the play that was the big feature of the game . . . and one that will be remembered by every listener who in a similar situation has shut himself out of a long suit in Dummy. Mr. Leibenderfer determined to insure his game by giving up the thought of winning six Club tricks, and by making practically sure of five. To trick 2 he led the 4 of Clubs from his own hand. North played the 6, and from Dummy Declarer played the 8. South, of course, played the 10, and Declarer's maneuver to win five Clubs by losing this first Club trick had succeeded.

To South, the best chance of saving game seemed to be in the Diamond suit, so South led the Queen of Diamonds. West false-carded with the Ace. North played the 7, and Dummy the deuce.

Declarer then led the 10 of Spades. North went up with the Ace, Dummy played the 3 and South the 5. North led the 9 of Diamonds, Dummy played the 5, South the 10 and Declarer won with the King. Declarer then took his Ace of Hearts, and led to Dummy's Clubs, cashing five Club tricks and the Jack of Spades in Dummy. The thirteenth trick was won by North with the Spade 9. In all Declarer won four odd . . . a score of 40 for tricks and 30 for Aces.

Mr. Work, whose comments followed the game, found only one point about the bidding to discuss. That was whether East, on her last turn, should have bid three Clubs instead of passing. The danger connected with her pass was that her partner might have bid the No Trump with good Hearts and Spades, but without a stopper in Diamonds. However, Mr. Work considered that that was a chance that East did right in taking, as she had little hope of winning game in Clubs, and there was an excellent chance of doing so at No Trump, the probabilities being that her partner, even if he did not have Diamonds stopped, would have at least three cards in the suit, and that the adversaries would not be able to win more than four Diamond tricks.

Mr. Work praised Mr. Leibenderfer's handling of the Clubs, and his disregarding of the fact that the chances greatly favored a 3-2 rather than a 4-1 division of the adverse Clubs. With either division, surrendering a Club ensured game; winning the first three Club tricks probably would gain a trick immaterial, but possibly would forfeit game . . . a chance the expert will not take even to try for a slam, much less for a trick immaterial. As the cards actually lay, game would have been lost by the experiment.

As for the Contract bidding of the hand, Mr. Work said it would run similar to that at Auction. South would start by passing; West would name the Hearts as in Auction, but in Contract he would bid two, to show his six-trick hand (Heart Ace, and Diamond Ace-King, three sure high-card tricks; Queen of Hearts and guarded King of Spades, together, one highly probable high-card trick; and two low-card tricks allowed for two of the low cards in his five-card Heart suit.) Three high-card and three low-card tricks are accounted sufficient for an original bid of two; this requirement Mr. Leibenderfer bettered a little by having four high-card and two low-card tricks. Naturally, a bid of two warrants an assist for partner with a weaker holding than would an original one-bid.

North would pass, and East would bid three Clubs. She would not bid four, although her hand was strong enough, because a four bid would make it impossible for her partner to bid three No Trumps, which he might want to do after the announcement of East's Club strength. A minor game is hard to reach, and East should not take a step that would shut-out a possible three No Trumps by West. After South's pass, West of course would bid three No Trumps, the final declaration at Contract. The play would be the same as at Auction.

Labor Chief Speaks Over Air Tonight

Green, of A. F. of L., Will Talk on "Worker and His Money"—Mendelssohn Glee Club 8:30. Post Brevities at 8:15.

How the American laborer will contribute to President Hoover's business expansion program will be told by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address to be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co. from its Washington studios at 9 o'clock tonight. Mr. Green will speak during the Halsey, Stuart program and his subject will be "The Worker and His Money."

The speaker has been president of the American Federation of Labor since 1924, having been elected successor to Samuel Gompers, who was the first president. He is considered one of the most forceful speakers in the country today.

The Mendelssohn Glee Club, one of the country's oldest male singing societies, will be featured during the program at 8:30 o'clock from WRC. The broadcast will mark the club's first radio appearance since it was organized in 1866. In fact, its first public appearance, all previous concerts, with the exception of those occasions when the members sang for charity, being private. The singing will be conducted by Ralph L. Baldwin, famous male chorus director, and will be accompanied in one number by an orchestra under the direction of Frank Black. Several of the songs on the program were written by members, as tributes to Edward A. MacDowell, famed American composer who was the Mendelssohn conductor in the late nineties.

Gustave Haenschen directs the Palmolive Hour ensemble through a fast moving radio spectacle, presenting Olive Palmer, soprano; Elizabeth Lennox, contralto; Paul Oliver, tenor; the Revelers, and an orchestra at 9:30 o'clock from WRC. Miss Palmer has selected "A Fairy Story by the Fire," while Mr. Oliver will sing "Just a Memory" and "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby."

Percy Grainger, the Australian-born American pianist-composer, will be guest soloist in a program composed principally of his own works to be broadcast in the concert at 8 o'clock from WRC. The program follows:

First movement from "Tschaikowsky Piano Concerto," and the "Londonderry Air," arranged by Mr. Grainger, orchestra; "Country Gardens," his own composition played as a piano solo; "Danse des Mirlitons" and "Trepak," Tschaikowsky, orchestra.

Floyd Gibbons, the headline hunter, will be heard at 10:30 o'clock through WRC in his regular Wednesday evening adventure story.

The Slumber Music program to be heard from WJZ and WLW at 11 o'clock will include the overture to "L'Italiana in Algeria," Rossini; selection from "Rigoletto," Verdi; "Ballet Egyptien," Luigini; "Nilfluten," Strauss; "Orientale," Cui; "Eastern Romance," Powell, and "Berceuse," Iljinski.

Ohio's Christmas festival on the grounds of the State capital at Columbus will become a Nation-wide party through the broadcast by WLW of the half-hour from 6:30 to 7 o'clock tonight.

Radio Joe and His Budget Boys have planned a shop early and mail early program for tonight at 7:30 o'clock from WMAL. It will be dedicated to the thousands of salespeople who will bear the burden of waiting on customers between now and Christmas, as well as an attempt at cooperation with the Postoffice Department to get people to mail early.

Nino Martini, tenor, will be the featured soloist on the grand opera concert to be broadcast at 8 o'clock and is to sing "Bianca Al Par" from "Les Huguenots." Mr. Martini will also be heard as one of the quartet to sing "Tu Se Ernani" from Verdi's work, "Ernani."

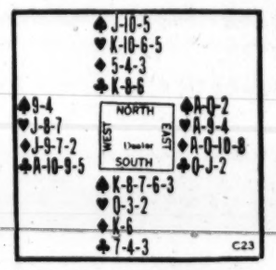
Hank Simmons and his troupe aboard the Show Boat Maybelle will offer Jerold Shepard's "The Senator's Daughter," a four-act comedy drama, at 11 o'clock, via WMAL.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Post will be presented through Station WOL at 8:15 o'clock this morning, with the Musical Clock as another of the regular morning offerings.

A song recital, under the direction of Estelle Wentworth, has been arranged for 4 o'clock this afternoon, to be followed by Terry White, whistler, and the tea time music.

WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



THE above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. After three passes, East bid No Trump. If it had been played at Contract, East's bid after three passes would have been two No Trumps, and West would have jumped to three.

In the play South led a small Spade which East won with the Queen. Declarer then finessed his Clubs, leading the Queen from the East hand. North won with the King and returned the Spades. East ducked and South's King won; then South led a third round of Spades, won by East's Ace. Declarer then took in three Clubs tricks and had a total of five tricks up to that point. Needing the Diamonds to make game and being in Dummy, he naturally led the Jack of Diamonds and finessed. When the finesse lost, South cashed his two established Spades so the adversaries made three Spades, the King of Diamonds and the King of Clubs—saving game.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Winning the first trick, the Declarer should have seen the possibility of losing game if he tried his Club and Diamond finesses and had the hard luck to lose both. Of course if both finesses win, Declarer makes eleven tricks—four Clubs, four Diamonds, two Spades and one Heart; but game would not be there if both finesses lost, and Declarer has a way to play for a sure game.

After winning the first trick, East should lead the Ace of Diamonds to trick 2 and follow with another Diamond to trick 3. If North holds the King of Diamonds, this will cost a trick; but if South holds the King of Diamonds, the play will take the entry from the hand with the long Spades. After the King of Diamonds won, Declarer would pass one Spade and then try his Club finesse; if it lost, North would not have a Spade to lead unless the original division had been 4-4, and in that case only one Spade would remain to be cashed. In either event, Declarer would make three-odd if the Club finesse loses, four-odd if it wins.

Paris, Dec. 10.

A PERIOD of fashion change such as we are going through rather simplifies things for the women who must squeeze along on a limited dress allowance, for with the present array of long skirts and short skirts, high waistlines and low, slanting hemlines and straight, it is difficult to say just what is in style and what is not.

As a result, you should be able to look over your last season's wardrobe and with a few clever touches here and there, aided by the hints we give you from day to day, bring it right up to the minute.

• • • •

For instance, a very popular model at the moment features a sort of three-quarter length tunic and below this a skirt of contrasting color, often pleated.

Suppose, then, that you were to take last season's frock and raise the waistline, letting the bodice blouse over, then cut enough off the skirt to make a tunic of it, and wear this with a pleated skirt which starts its fullness between hips and knees. Who would ever guess that it was of an earlier season?

• • • •

Another big help for the woman who must consider such things is the present popularity of the two-tone frock, which uses two contrasting shades of a color, such as beige and brown, gray and black, light and dark blue, pale and deep green, or the like.

This makes it possible for you to skillfully alter a frock, raising the waistline, lengthening the skirt and giving it increased fullness—and if you use little touches of the contrasting material, such as a belt and collar and cuffs, it will not have the slightest "patched up" look.

• • • •

You can, too, color photographs! No, I don't mean that you have to be an artist, either. We just bet you a . . . well, a Christmas card that if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for our specific directions, you can tint your Christmas photographs in a most professional way. Better send for it. Some day you may want to color some photographs, even if you don't right this minute!

• • • •

The occasional gown of a collection that is startling by virtue of its silhouette and its effective material is the one the clever woman spots as being something she wants to have in her wardrobe . . . for she feels the occasion will arise when she wants just that gown and no other.

And such a dress I illustrated for you today. It is not to be construed as of weighty style importance; it is just what it is . . . a lovely and distinctive "occasion" gown.

• • • •

It was such a toss-up—whether the back or front should be used, they were both so distinguished and unusual—so we just decided to sketch one for you today and the other tomorrow.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

DECEMBER 11, 1929.
"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:15 a. m. to 11:50 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m.

The astrological conditions for this date are indicative of good "luck." The light of day will shine through your perplexities, and better days are ahead of you. New ideas will be born, which should be nursed to maturity.

The child born on this December 11 is destined to meet with sudden flairs of good fortune and with equally sudden reverses. It will be strong of character, however, and will be able to cope with misfortunes. Its natural optimism will prove a blessing.

December 11 people belong to the "silent" tribe of human beings. No matter how enthusiastic you may be—and you are capable of deep emotions—nor how distressed you may be, you carefully conceal your thoughts and feelings from the world. You seldom make first advances, although you can, with effort, be drawn out of your shell. Once you are started in a conversation, you are not difficult, and you are found to be both interesting and in possession of good judgment. You are not in the least lonely, but your immediate associates may suffer through your silence. You enjoy the luxury of your mental rests, but others may not.

You are rather inclined to follow the crowd and you seldom take a line of your own. You are not willing to take many chances, and your "safety first" policy doubtlessly protects you in many ways. The most luscious fruits, however, do not grow along the beaten highways. You will leave no decided mark on the world; it is those who are different who do that. Your desires or longings are not fantastic or unobtainable, and you will probably be able to carry out most of your ambitions.

You are reliable, and everything you do is well done. You are a very good judge of character, and can usually size up persons when you see them. You are not strongly drawn to the opposite sex, and most of your friends are among those of your own kind.

Successful people born December 11:
1—Hiram Paulding—Naval officer.
2—George David Cummins—Founder of the Reformed Episcopal Church.
3—Benjamin S. Lyman—Geologist.
4—Henry Morton—Scientist, first president Stevens Institute.
5—Gerrit Smith—Composer.
6—G. Coleman duPont—Powder manufacturer.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

DECEMBER 11.

ELLEN KEY, of Sweden, one of the most advanced thinkers of modern times, was born this day, 1849. She died in 1926. Her liberal theories on love and marriage caused her to be a storm center for the 20-year period between 1890 and 1910. She began her career as a school teacher. Later she wrote for newspapers and lectured in many foreign countries. Her books on her social theories have been translated into many foreign languages.

Annie Jump Cannon, American astronomer, was born this day, 1863. She has been curator of astronomical photographs at Harvard since 1911. She compiled a bibliography of variable stars containing 75,000 references; and a catalogue of 225,000 stellar spectra. In the course of her photographic work she has discovered more than 200 stars.

Other noted women born this day includes Louise Comstock, president of Radcliffe College, 1876; Sarah Palfray, American kindergarten expert, 1823, and Mary Sherman, parliamentarian, 1862.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

CLAYTON HAMILTON, eminent author and lecturer on the drama, hied himself to this sanctum sanctorum yesterday under the chaperonage of Beauvais Fox, president of the Theatrical Press Representatives of America and personal representative of George C. Tyler, the producer.

It seems that George Tyler is up to his old tricks again: bringing back the great stars of yesterday in plays worth while. This time it is William Gillette in his celebrated characterization, "Sherlock Holmes."

So great has been this revival that the mammoth New Amsterday Theater in New York, a place usually reserved for the caperings of the Flo Ziegfeld girls, has been packed to the rafters ever since the opening, several weeks ago. In fact, what was destined as a three-weeks' run turns out to be a two months' habitat.

Washington, fortunately, will be the first city outside of the metropolis to see the 74-year-old star in "Sherlock Holmes." Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Fox are thrilled and filled with stories of the grand reception accorded the return of Mr. Gillette to the boards. After some twelve years in hiding, the stage originator of Conan Doyle's fictional character finds his old audience has not forsaken him; that, along with the old-timers, even the youngsters are pouring into the theater to have a look at what thrilled the folks two generations ago.

'Twill be shortly after the New Year when William Gillette steps again on the stage of the National; boards he has not trod since the long, long ago. From all indications that will be a gala night in the theater. The booking has been definitely placed for the week of January 4.

• • • •

AS ONE who deplores the passing of the old theater, and the spirit that permeated it—though, of course, the old theater has not definitely passed yet—Mr. Clayton Hamilton has many words of tribute for his friend, William Gillette. It seems that the folk who go to see and hear Gillette are the gentry. There is none of that newer movement in the stalls when the grand old man of theatricals steps before the footlights. Somehow a hush descends upon the assemblage and people realize they are again in the temple of Thespis, worshipping at the shrine. That's the way it was before the rowdy-dowdy period of theatricals came in, on the crest of the crime wave.

CERTAINLY something has happened in the American theater. The flavor of the old days has gone. There is not that fine old air about it, the atmosphere of veneration that once characterized what was truthfully called The Land of Make Believe. Somebody must have told the theatergoers "There ain't no Santa Claus." Perhaps the press agents did it, by inadvertently shattering idols. At any rate, only one or two personages of the theater remain free from the calcium of the spotlight—the publicity that destroys. These are Maude Adams and William Gillette.

In the same class should be placed George Tyler. His love for the theater has never abated. His reverence for real drama amounts almost to religion. Hence, in a career that was extended over a period of 50 years or thereabouts he has never sponsored a production that was not in every way true to the faith within him. George Tyler is in himself an inspiration.

• • • •

THERE will not be much to annoy the Christmas shoppers in Washington theaterdom. It looks as if everybody connected with the local theater can have plenty of time to select gifts. The National has nothing booked for the week of December 15, nor has Poli's. The Belasco, as the town knows, is out of the running, which leads to the latest news: Mr. L. Stoddard Taylor, erstwhile manager of the old Lafayette playhouse, is back in town after a sojourn to New York. It seems he is to be the custodian of the Belasco property, even in its idle days, and as a part of his job will take over the duties of Edward Cassen, former "count-up man" at Poli's, who has gone to New York. A "count-up man," in the vernacular, is the man who listens with great glee to the jingle of the coin on the box office tile.

Fine Arts Commission Will Meet Tomorrow

Problems relative to the design and structure of several bridges to be constructed as part of the Mount Vernon highway are to be taken up for discussion by the Fine Arts Commission at its meeting tomorrow at the Interior Department Building. The commission also will consider the sculptural designs to be placed at the east end of Arlington Memorial Bridge and the design for a statue of Henry Clay to be erected at Caracas, Venezuela.

Work on the Mount Vernon highway, which will connect the Arlington Bridge with Mount Vernon, has already been started and is expected to be completed in 1932. Members of the commission tomorrow will visit the proposed site of the highway bridges to familiarize themselves with the locations.

Early morning— An energetic mind— and the morning paper

During the Vita-Minutes energy runs high, new ideas get quick attention, decisions are made easily. And it is during the Vita-Minutes that the morning paper is read.

HOW an early-morning message does lodge in the mind! Vita-Minutes are action-minutes.

Later in the day, you see, messages pile up—all sorts of messages, by telephone, by word of mouth, by written and printed words—all the day long. But during the Vita-Minutes, before the stream of demands upon people starts, there's only the household—and the morning paper.

It may not be your practice to mark an ad in the morning Post which carries a "buy-this" message to you; perhaps you don't even make a memorandum of an advertiser's suggestion which interests you; but every Post reader knows the habit of making mental notes of purchases suggested by morning Post ads. And those Vita-Minute suggestions get action.

Most Post families (and practically all of the Posts printed go to families) see no other paper during the Vita-Minutes. While the day's program is being made, while shopping lists are being written, there are just two other activities before them: breakfast, and The Post. The merchant who makes wise use of that opportunity is making the best use of his newspaper advertising.

The Post has extensive and accurate information about Post homes in this rich "Washington market," and about merchandising plans which have been successful in its territory. Facts have been collected, collated, compared, and are kept up to date. This wealth of information is, of course, at the disposal of any advertiser who wants to study the situation and act advisedly in his message to energetic minds which act fastest during the Vita-Minutes.

The Washington Post.

THE CAPITAL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

YOUNG'S PLAN SENDS RADIO STOCK RISING

Shares Gain 6 Points as Monopoly Suggestion Becomes Known.

WESTERN UNION CLIMBS

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Stock prices pitched and tossed nervously as trading slackened up sharply in today's market, and professional operators felt about for a trend. Bolstered by bullish demonstrations in selected issues, the list finally ended the day with substantial advances along a broad front.

The abrupt decline late yesterday appeared to have inspired caution anew, and many traders were inclined to lighten accounts or stick to the sidelines. Total sales were but 3,647,480 shares, compared to 5,018,050 yesterday.

Radio came forward as a leader for the first time since September, rising about 6 points in turnover of more than 340,000 shares. This stock was given a whirl on the basis of Owen D. Young's recommendations before the Senate interstate commerce committee for a radiotelegraph communications monopoly.

U. S. Steel Gains 4½ Points.

The fluctuations of U. S. Steel common, however, continued to guide market sentiment. Rumors that any bullish announcement would be forthcoming from the regular meeting of the finance committee after the close of the market had been largely discredited, but the unfilled tonnage report at midday, showing the moderate increases of 38,783 tons during November, was greeted with some enthusiasm. The stock sold up 4½ points, but the gain was reduced to 1½ points at the close.

Funds remained plentiful in the money market. Call loans held officially at 4½ per cent, but the undertone was a little easier, some loans being placed at 4 per cent in the outside market. Time money, on the other hand, was slightly firmer, quoted at 5 per cent, against 4¾ to 5 yesterday. Foreign exchange rates still indicated early exports of gold, probably with fast steamship sailings late this week.

The Federal Reserve's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks was rather disappointing, showing no reduction in loans against securities, although brokers loans declined $58,000,000 in the corresponding period. This was the more striking, in view of the fact that commercial loans were reduced by $160,000,000, and it tended to bear out the New York Federal Reserve agent's recent analysis showing that banks throughout the country are struggling with about as heavy loans on securities as ever, despite the sharp reductions in brokers borrowings.

Dividend Statements.

Dividend announcements were not so uniformally favorable as they have been recently. Norfolk & Southern Railway and Seiberling Rubber passed the dividends due on their common stocks at this time. Directors of Public Service of New Jersey, however, announced an 80-cent special payment and an increase in the annual rate from $2.60 to $3.40 next year. Adolph Zukor indicated that Paramount would be put on a $4 basis next April, compared to $3 now. Singer Manufacturing declared an extra of $3.50.

Western Union appeared to be stimulated by Young's recommendations in Washington, although the part it might take in a communications merger has never been disclosed. The stock mounted nearly 10 points, and closed near the top. American Can American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Bendix Aviation, the St. Paul issues, Columbian Carbon, Anaconda, Du Pont, Hudson Motor, International Telephone, Johns Manville, New Haven, Simmons and Westinghouse Electric closed 2 to 5 points higher. General Electric sagged a few points during the morning, then rebounded for a net gain of over 8 points. Motors continued firm. Chrysler and General Motors closing about a point higher.

Fire Hurls Pathe Stock.

National Biscuit, Chesapeake & Ohio, Fox Film A, Lambert, Gillette, First National Stores, Otis Elevator, and Stone & Webster lost 2 to 4 points. Pathe exchange sagged ½ point to within a fraction of its low, on news of the fire and loss of life in its Manhattan studio.

Commodities were steady to firm. Cotton futures closed 65 to 95 cents a bale higher, largely on short covering. Wheat advanced ½ cent and more, reflecting a decrease in the world visible supply, and higher Argentine freight rates. Corn closed practically unchanged.

Sterling cables held at $4.88⅛, and the German mark touched 23.93 cents, a new 1929 high.

ALUMNI MEMBERS OF G. U. ATHLETIC BOARD RESIGN

SCOTT RIVALS FULTON AS PLUNGER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — Judging from the written accounts of the debut of Art Shires, the first baseman of the White Sox, as a professional pugilist, the 5,000 customers who congregated in a small fight club in Chicago had a much more enjoyable time than the 20,000 who attended the swooning of Fainting Philip Scott in the New Garden here on the same evening. Mr. Shires came out of his corner full of belligerency, and the other young man, Mr. Dangerous Dan Daly, who was making his professional debut, too, met him in the same mood. Within 21 seconds the Dangerous Daly had been rendered quite innocuous and Mr. Shires was launched on his career with a professional record of one consecutive knockout and average of 1,000.

Fainting Philip, on the other hand, answered the bell with an expression of alarm in his bottle green eyes and spent most of round one searching the ropes for some gate or turnstile leading outward. Then in round two he ascended high in the air, poised an instant like some great graceful bird and dipped to the canvas in a perfect three-point landing, claiming to have been grievously fouled by Otto Von Porat.

Swoon Worthy of Best English Heavies.

It was a beautiful swoon, worthy of the best traditions of the English heavyweights except that he took off claiming foul, which, of course, interfered with the customers' enjoyment of the performance. If Fainting Philip had succumbed to a crushing left jab to the shoulder, the demonstration would have been acknowledged by one and all as the greatest since the days of Failing Fred Fulton, who attained such artistry in swooning to the resin that some citizens of a new oil town in the Shreveport field, wishing to do honor to a hero of the hour, named their community Smackover, Ber—

The Chicago customers were well pleased with the work of Dangerous Daly, even though it appears that he simply flopped down in a loose, ungraceful posture, but the New York customers felt, as customers always do in such cases, that Philip still owed them a swoon. However, the customers have long since given up all hope of collecting from the prize fighters who are in debt to them one way or another, so there is no point in dwelling on this slight flaw in an otherwise ideal demonstration of the old English heavyweight folk-rite—the jackknife dry dive.

The Chicago customers paid $13,000, the New York customers more than $90,000. It seems to be very much a gamble, after all, this matter of investing in prize fight tickets, and inasmuch as gambling is held to be contrary to good morals, that may be the reason why pugilism is held to be morally indistinguishable from the more orthodox forms of larceny in the basic laws of 47 American States.

It would be business to bring Mr. Shires to New York without delay and match him with Mr. Leo P. Flynn's Ethiopian gladiator, Mr. Bunker Hill, who has belonged to the grand army of the unemployed so long now that he must rank as a major general by the law of seniority.

Flynn is Fearless in Matching His Fighter.

Mr. Flynn, who is virtually fearless in such matters, says he would not be afraid to match Bunker Hill with any pugilist in the world and inasmuch as Mr. Shires has had only one business fight to date, Mr. Flynn's bigger man, who is very docile, suggests himself as an advantageous match for all concerned. Mr. Shires probably would be able to beat him thus extending his professional record to two consecutive knockouts, Bunker Hill would earn some resources and Mr. Flynn would make some progress in his efforts to get Bunker Hill off his cuff.

At last reports, Bunker Hill was on Mr. Flynn's cuff almost up to the shoulder, what with small loans, ball money and one thing and another, and almost any little sum of money would be a gain worth making in the worthy work of getting Bunker off Mr. Flynn's cuff.

It would not be advisable to match Mr. Shires with a pugilist of any extended experience unless his managers, whoever they may be, make specific arrangements with his opponent to treat him with every consideration, as is not infrequently done.

In fact this practice has received the highest sanction, having been resorted to in the advancement of more than one champion in recent years, including one of the most virtuous of all the champions, who need not be named by name as this description will identify him to one and all, including himself.

I read that Mr. Fat Meade, the

Scott Spurns 2d Bout With Von Porat

Sails Abroad Despite Foe's Offer to Fight for Nothing.

Jack Dempsey Erred as Referee, Is General Opinion.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Whatever happened in that ring at Madison Square Garden last night is so much water under the bridge, as far as Phil Scott is concerned, for Blighty and the Christmas holidays are calling.

The leaning tower of London has put behind him all thoughts of the foul that spoiled a good fight, caused Jack Dempsey his first major headache as a referee, and ruined for the time being Otto von Porat's bid for heavyweight recognition.

"Our Philip," as he is known to his managerial forces, will sail December 14 for England to return when business picks up again in the knuckle industry.

Von Porat, the heavy-hitting Norwegian, made a desperate effort today to make amends for the low left swing that dropped Phil in agony so acutely portrayed that even part of the front row customers at the Christmas fund charity show seemed to suffer with him. Otto offered to fight Scott for nothing, but the defy was refused.

Elimination of Scott Is Probability.

Despite the efforts of Tom McArdle, matchmaker at the Garden, to bring the heavyweight pair together in another match either here or on the card at Miami, Fla., next February, there seemed little likelihood of another such bout. Scott now is satisfied that his next opponent must be Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailorman, and he is not eager to box the New Englander in the South.

The difficulties thus presented may result in a four-cornered elimination series between Von Porat, Tuffy Griffith, Johnny Risko and Victorio Campolo, with the winner chosen as Sharkey's rival in the second annual battle of the palms. There is also a possibility that Max Schmeling, the Teuton ace, may return here in time to settle his differences with the New York State Athletic Commission and enter the elimination round.

Strangely enough the latest "foul" controversy among the heavyweights is not of the "was it or wasn't it" kind. Ringside critics and spectators alike agreed that Scott had been struck low but differed as to the magnitude of the injury. The general opinion was that Scott, despite his apparent agony could have continued but would have been unwise in doing so after an admitted foul had sapped his strength almost at the start of a match in which much was at stake.

Dempsey's Refereeing Evokes Discussion.

Principal discussion revolved about the trying situation in which Dempsey, refereeing his first major heavyweight go, in an effort to aid a worthwhile charity, found himself when the foul was committed. The old man mauler made an effort to convince Scott that he could continue, but gave up the effort when Jimmy Johnston, manager of the Briton, jumped into the ring to protest.

The general opinion was that Dempsey "booted one" when the manager leaped into the ring, a foul in New York State that calls for disqualification of the fighter thus reinforced.

Kid Chocolate Scores One-Round Knockout

Red Grange Managing Teammate as Boxer

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Red Grange, the once "galloping ghost" of college football, has turned to managing fighters. He has ta'en over the affairs of George Trafton, giant center of the Chicago Bears, professional football team, and has directed Trafton's first challenge at Arthur (the Great) Shires.

Jarman Rolls 434 Set In Church Pin League

Ray Jarman, of the Douglas No. 2 Team, of the East Washington Church League, last night rolled the highest individual duckpin set recorded in league competition this season in the District when he toppled 434 pins in three games at Convention Hall. His games were 138, 133 and 163.

His marks included 9 spares and 6 strikes. Three of his strikes came in succession in his big final game.

His set fell 20 pins short of the District record held by Charley Phillips, of Masonic League, made last year. His mark goes in the league books as an all-time record.

1930 Game in East Is Sought by Oregon

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Capt John J. McEwan, head footbal coach of the University of Oregon, is looking for an intersectional game in the East next year.

Here for the meeting of national football coaches late this month, McEwan said today he was whiling away the time with negotiations for an intersectional game, preferably in New York. He would not say with what college the negotiations were being carried on.

McEwan is to leave Oregon with the expiration of his contract after the 1930 season, as to his plans for 1931 and thereafter McEwan refused to comment.

Charity Head Seeks Services of Dempsey

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—An effort to have Jack Dempsey reenter the ring and fight six rounds for charity against Hein Mueller, German heavyweight, was being made today by Chris Paschen, heading the Christmas fund for the poor. The charity boxing card is to be held December 21.

Among those on the fund committee are Samuel Insull, Mrs. Jacob Bauer and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick.

EAST'S TEAM COMPLETED BY KERR

15 Shools Identified With Squad Which Will Play West.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 10 (A.P.). Andy Kerr, of Colgate, announcing that he had completed the round-up of stars for the team that will represent the East in the Shriners Hospital fund game at San Francisco New Year's Day, tonight gave out a list of 22 players that reads like a "who's who" of football.

Fifteen schools in the East, Middle West and South are represented in the roster, which includes nine backs, four tackles, three guards, four ends and two centers, and about half of these have been named for a number of all-American selections.

Squad Due Monday at Northwestern.

The squad, Kerr said, had been ordered to report at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., next Monday. Equipment will be issued then and the men will be sent through one practice under Kerr and Dick Hanley, Northwestern Coach, before proceeding that night to San Francisco. The players are due on the coast December 18 and will pitch their camp at Stanford University.

The complete list of the East team follows:

BACKS — Holm, Alabama; Edwards, Brown; Yablok and Dowler, Colgate; Glasrow, Iowa; Peters, Illinois; Calderwood, Northwestern; Nesbit, Drake, and Brazil, Detroit.

TACKLES—Nagurski, Minnesota; Gordon, Illinois; Twomey, Notre Dame; Mooney, Georgetown.

GUARDS—Cannon, Notre Dame; Anderson, Northwestern; Masal, Pennsylvania.

CENTERS — Cox, Colgate; Erickson, Northwestern.

ENDS—Booma, Dartmouth; Stahley, Penn State; Tanner, Minnesota; Seacrist, Washington and Jefferson.

Jim Mooney, Georgetown football captain and tackle, was granted permission by the school authorities yesterday to join the squad of Eastern players scheduled to compete against a Western team in a charity game New Year's Day at San Francisco.

Tom Zachary Injured In Automobile Wreck

Newbern, N. C., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Tom Zachary, New York Yankee hurler, and three companions were bruised and received minor cuts from broken glass in an automobile wreck near here late today. The four were returning from a hunting trip when their car crashed into the rear of a lumber truck.

Army on Defensive Drilling for Stanford

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 10 (A.P.)—Coach Biff Jones kept his Army team on the defensive through a 45-minute scrimmage today as the Cadets settled down to hard work for the game with Stanford at Palo Alto, Calif., December 28.

The first team, with Miller, center; Hillsinger and Humber, guards; Perry and Price, tackles; Mesainger and Carlmark, ends; Carver, quarterback; Cagle and Hutchinson, half backs, and Murel, full back, was pitted against the strong Plebe eleven which went through the season unbeaten.

The Plebe attack developed great strength and had Coach Jones permitted the plays to advance beyond the development stage the first year men conceivably might have scored several touchdowns. Running plays used by Stanford last year were put on by the Plebes with great success but Coach Jones expects the varsity will be able to offer a better defense within the next few days.

Pupils Strike to Boost Grid Coach's Contract

Williamsport, Pa., Dec. 10 (A.P.). Four hundred Williamsport high school students went on a strike today, refusing to return to their studies unless Sol Wolf, head football coach, was offered a contract more acceptable than the one he has rejected.

The school board presented Coach Wolf with a one-year contract yesterday under the same terms as stipulated in his previous one, but the mentor refused to sign it, requesting at least a two-year agreement. When the students were informed of his refusal they walked out of the school and paraded through the city.

Wolf has just completed his fourth season as coach at Williamsport High. During his regime Williamsport teams have won 40 games, lost 3 and tied 2, claiming the mythical championship in 1927 and tying Altoona for the Central Pennsylvania Interscholastic Conference title during the past season.

Two Night Grid Games For C. U. Next Season

Catholic University will play two night football games next fall. Arrangements have just been completed for the appearance of the Cardinals against Duquesne University's Eleven in Pittsburgh on the night of Friday, October 24, while several weeks ago the Brookland school closed for a nocturnal contest with Manhattan College in New York City on Friday night, November 7.

Jack Malevich, Catholic full back and captain the past season, was chosen on the Boston College all-opponent team, it was announced yesterday. With Malevich were named the following: Radick, Marquette, and Alzernini, Holy Cross, ends; Gallagher, Canisius and Fitzgerald, Holy Cross, tackles; Wisniewski, Fordham, and Hillen, Villanova, guards; Siano, Fordham, center; Morgan, Villanova, quarter back, and Gillespie, Villanova, and Sisk, Marquette, half backs.

Greenleaf, Rudolph, Natalie Cue Winners

Detroit, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Ralph Greenleaf, New York, defeated Spencer Livsey, Los Angeles, 125 to 106 in a 40-inning game in the world's championship pocket billiard tournamen tonight.

Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, and Pasquale Natalie, of Detroit, were the winners in the two games played in the afternoon. Rudolph defeated Onofric Lauri, of Brooklyn, 125 to 51 in ten innings, and Natalie turned back Joseph J. McCann, of Jacksonville, Fla., 125 to 38 in fifteen innings.

Rudolph and Natalie and Greenleaf now are in a quadruple deadlock for first place, with Marcel Camp, of Detroit, who defeated Frank Taberski, the defending champion, in the opening game of the tourney last night.

Rudolph played brilliantly, requiring about one hour and a quarter, the fastest game to date. He also made a run of 63, the highest in the tournament thus far. Lauri was leading by 35 to minus two, Rudolph having scratched twice, when Rudolph took his turn at the table in the third inning. With the balls in good position he scored rapidly and collected 63 before missing.

OXFORD WINS AT RUGBY.

London, Dec. 10 (A.P.). — Oxford University defeated Cambridge in their fifty-fourth annual rugby intervarsity game at Twickenham today, 9 to 0. It was Oxford's first victory since 1924.

Major-Minor Alliances Watched

Landis Demands a Check-Up on Purchases of Clubs.

September 28 Closing Date Favored by National League.

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN.

NEW YORK, Dec 10 (A.P.).—The first skirmishes of the annual midwinter baseball battles were decided today with all indications pointing to an early closing date for 1930 and to a closer check of activities of clubs which acquire control of franchises in smaller leagues. Commissioner K. M. Landis, active opponent of chain-store baseball as it is operated by the Cardinals and other clubs, brought the question of an official check-up before the opening sessions of the two leagues in the Commodore today.

National League club owners favored the commissioner's plan to require major and minor clubs to file official notification with baseball authorities upon acquiring control of a smaller baseball property. The commissioner's recommendation pointed out that in the case of the purchase of an individual player any club was required to notify duly constituted authorities, and that it was only reasonable to ask as much when an entire team was purchased.

Consideration Preliminary To Vote.

The National League's consideration of the Landis recommendation was purely preliminary to a vote which will decide the question at the joint meeting Thursday. The American League expressed itself as of the opinion that the matter of chain-store ownership could be better solved by restoring the universal draft, indicating that the Barnard circuit may vote adversely upon the question in the joint session. The favor of the National League and the commissioner's own vote, cast only in case of tie, apparently assured success of the plan, however, regardless of American League action.

The commissioner would require major league clubs purchasing minor franchises to notify not only the office of the commissioner, but also the two major league offices and the headquarters of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, the minor league governing body.

The National League also favors the reduction of the playing season to 169 days, with a closing date on September 28, indicating the success of this measure in the same way as Commissioner Landis is known to oppose an extended schedule. The American League did not make known its deliberations upon this question.

No Action on Suggested Ban On Radio.

The question of broadcasting major league games was not decided by either league today, and the chances seemed to be that the matter would be dealt with only in the joint meeting.

National League magnates adopted a memorial resolution expressing the thanks of the circuit to the late Maj. A. G. Mills for his services in laying the foundation of the structure upon which the league has been reared. Maj. Mills served as the third president of the National League in 1883 and 1884. He died last August at his summer home on Cape Cod.

The National League also announced the purchase of Umpire Ted McGrew from the American Association. Cullen Cain was elected press representative for three more years.

Both circuits tacitly admitted the use of a lively ball by considering the question of one. The National League felt that its present policy of having the umpires remove the gloss from the balls was sufficient to control the situation. It was pointed out that after the adoption of this plan, the senior circuit's home run crop was reduced by 45 per cent. The American league arrived at no conclusion on the matter.

Brooklyn Club's Feud Is Discussed.

President John A Heydler's report to National League Club owners carried a hint toward the solution of the vexing question of the armed neutrality observed by the rival factions of the Brooklyn Club. This was the only allusion to the feud between the McKeever interests and the Ebbets heirs. Mr. Heydler assured his club-owners that he would do everything in his power to "get the two factions to meet." After the meeting he said this was the

LAYDEN OF DUQUESNE BEING CONSIDERED AS LITTLE'S SUCCESSOR

MAY COACH G. U.

Former Notre Dame Star Announced as Possible Coach.

Resignation of Alum Laid to Differences With University.

By JACK ESPEY.

THREE important developments in the athletic situation at Georgetown University were learned yesterday by The Post. They are:

1—That the alumni members of the athletic board have resigned.

2—That Georgetown has arranged for 1930 its hardest football schedule in six years, which The Post herewith appends.

3—That Elmer Layden, head coach at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, the full back in Notre Dame's famous "Four Horsemen" of 1924, is the only man officially announced as considered for the past recently resigned by Lou Little.

Resignation of the four alumni members of the athletic board was made yesterday in written form. The Post was reliably informed. Those who severed connections are Joan Saul, Austin Canfield, Frederick Stohlman and Joseph Carey, all of whom served actively and continuously since 1924, the year Lou Little came to Georgetown as football coach.

Departure of Little Not Cause.

Details of the reason for the resignations were not given, but it was intimated that differences have existed between the board and the university administration for the past year. The departure of Lou Little to Columbia had nothing to do with the action of the alumni.

Georgetown officials could not be reached last night for a statement. Prior to yesterday there had been no intimation by their them or the alumni that anything but harmony existed. Fathern O'Brien, faculty advisor of athletica and a member of the board, had stated only last Tuesday that the board would soon meet to consider the appointment of a graduate manager of athletics and a head coach to succeeed Little.

Mrs. Phil Scott Marvels At Many Foul Victories

London, England, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Philip Scott, wife of the British heavyweight, who defeated Otto von Porat on a foul in New York last night, thinks Phil "can beat them all without low punches," but likewise marvels at the number of fights her husband has won that way.

"I knew Phil would win and he can beat the best of them," Mrs. Scott was quoted as saying today in the London Press. "It doesn't matter what Phil does, he has been winning all his fights, but yet he never seems to please everybody. I'm sorry a foul gave him the decision over Von Porat. It is remarkable how many fouls have won Phil his fights. He can beat all of them without low punches."

Uncommon Gold Wins Handily at Jeff Park

Jefferson Park Race Track, La., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Over a drying-out track, C. Morris' Uncommon Gold, making his first appearance since the Fairmount meeting, made good by trimming a fast lot of sprinters in the Tulane Handicap here today. There were five starters with Extreme, 9-10 favorite. The big crowd bet on Extreme heavily, but he was not in the money. Gold Mint broke rapidly and went to the front. Extreme ran into second place, with Uncommon Gold third.

At the far turn, Uncommon Gold was rushed up on the inside, squeezed through and took the lead. He drew away from Gold Mint and held his advantage to the finish, winning by a length and a half. Bramabiau came with a rush and took the place by a head over Gold Mint, with Extreme four lengths back.

WOLVERINES TO DRILL.

The Wolverine Eleven will practice tonight at 6 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, to prepare for their game with the National Press Building Cardinals Sunday at 3 o'clock on No. 3 Potomac Park Field. The Wolverines wish to book a strong 135-pound foe for December 22. Call Lincoln 5324-W.

Education Board Backs Iowa State President

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Dec. 10 (A.P.) The State board of education in a resolution unanimously adopted today pledged its faith in President Walter A. Jessup and the University of Iowa board of control in athletics, despite Iowa's ouster from the Western Conference.

Sam Levy Will Lead 1930 Business Eleven

Sam Levy, tackle of the Business High School Football Team during the last season, was elected captain of the 1930 Steng eleven by the members of his team yesterday. Although only a sophomore, Levy has played on the Business team for two seasons.

Possessing an unlimited amount of fighting spirit, Levy more than once provided inspiration for his luckless mates this year and will no doubt justify the confidence placed in him yesterday.

1930 GRID SCHEDULE OF GEORGETOWN U.

The 1930 Georgetown football schedule calls for ten games, two of which are with teams never before engaged by Hilltop teams. They are:

Mount St. Mary's, at Washington.
Michigan State, at Washington.
West Virginia Wesleyan, at Washington.
West Virginia University, at Washington.
Western Maryland, at Washington or Baltimore.
New York University, at New York.
Villanova, at Philadelphia.
Loyola, at Chicago.
Boston College, at Boston.
Detroit University, at Detroit.

The Post was informed of the list by reliable but unofficial sources. The exact arrangement of the dates was not learned. Michigan State and Loyola are the newcomers to the schedule.

NEW CHARGES IN BIG TEN ARE MADE AND DENIED

Northwestern Ohio State Involved

Subsidizing of Baker, Marek Charged to Colleges.

Previous Investigation Cleared Stars, Says Griffith.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The first of an expected series of countercharges of subsidization of athletes in Western Conference schools, following in the wake of Iowa's failure to gain reinstatement in that athletic circle, were made and quickly denied today.

Two affidavits were published in the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Gazette-Republican, purporting to show that Frank Baker, star Northwestern University end, and Elmer Marek, former Ohio State half back, were given financial aid directly or indirectly by their respective schools.

Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the conference, said he had been given the charges several months ago and that the faculty committee had ruled both players and both institutions were not guilty of violating conference rules.

Marek's Father Denies Statement.

In the Marek case, the Cedar Rapids newspaper published an affidavit by Jess Blake, railroad company official, who charged that Marek's father had informed him that his son "held out for the most money" in selecting a school and that his father said his son had "received the best offer from Ohio State, expecting to get $200 a month." Alongside the affidavit was a denial of such statements by the elder Marek.

Maj. Griffith said an investigation indicated Marek had been promised financial aid by certain Ohio State alumni if he would come to their school, but that after he enrolled he received nothing and was forced to work his way through school.

The second affidavit, bringing up the Baker case, was made by Charles D. Hadlock, of Chicago, who said Baker had boasted to him that he was given free meals by an Evanston restaurant. He would get checks like other patrons, Hadlock said Baker told him, but turned them in without paying, for them.

Maj. Griffith said Baker's statement had been investigated and that it was found he was working for his meals in the restaurant and that he was unquestionably boasting.

Charges Referred to Faculty Committee.

"All the charges against these two men have been passed by me over to the conference faculty committee," Maj. Griffith explained. "I have nothing to do with deciding the guilt or innocence of any athletes or schools in the conference. The faculty committee does that and its decision is final."

The threatened revolt of Iowa alumni against the present administration of the University of Iowa for its handling of the Hawkeye campaign to gain reinstatement appeared to have lost out today. The State board of education unanimously adopted a resolution pledging its faith in President Walter A. Jessup and the university board in control of athletics.

Superior Court Judge M. L. McKinley, of Chicago, former head of the Hawkeye Alumni Association, yesterday requested the State board to investigate "causes of discord that has existed in the university not only in the athletic department but in others as well." His charges were not presented to the board at its meeting today, however.

MY OWN'S GET IN TRAINING AT BENNING

The brown colt pictured above at left with an exercise boy astride, will be one of the first of My Own's breeding to be seen under colors. Foaled by Belle Artiste, he is one of the highly regarded yearlings of Admiral Cary T. Grayson's Salubris stable at Benning. At right is a bay colt by High Time-Rock Pocket, a half brother of the Prince of Wales, who also will be ready for Maryland racing in the spring. He is owned by the Dixiana Stable and trained by Preston Burch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE SOUTHERNER, $8.80, $3.40, $2.30; SIMON KENTON, $2.60, $2.50; BRILLANTE, $2.50.

THE SOUTHERNER broke slow, worked his way up on outside and, closing gamely in stretch, won handily. SIMON KENTON had good speed, but weakened fast in final furlong. BRILLANTE was rushed up to a contending position, but stopped. LITTLE COLONEL showed early speed. COCKRILL was running strong at the end. KIND WORDS had speed for three furlongs.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RASULI, $4.30, $3.80, $2.50; QUEER QUILL, $13.90, $3.90; WILLIAM PENN, $2.60.

RASULI is in good form. He broke fast, rushed to the front, was under stout restraint all the way and drew away in stretch to win easily. QUEER QUILL was well up all the way and made a game effort. WILLIAM PENN, outrun first seven furlongs, moved up very fast at end and was going strongly. ZELMA O'NEAL was in the deep going all the way. BUNTHORNE had early speed. JUNIOR C. ran a good race. FIRE OPAL was outrun.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Tulane Handicap. For all ages. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:23½. Winner, C. Morris' b. g. (3), by Gold Enamel—Maudie. Trained by N. W. Burkes. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:16 2-5.

HAM, away fast, showed good speed and held on gamely at end. TEMPTER saved ground on turn, drew out into a good lead, but tired suddenly in last sixteenth. ISOARD closed gamely. RUFE M'CLAIN closed a big gap. NICODEMUS was running strong at end. FENLIGHT quit badly. ROCK ABBEY had early speed.

PLAY FOR TITLE.

The Northeast Temples and the Northeast Trojans will meet on Monument lot No. 1, Sunday, at 11 o'clock for the 115-pound championship of the city. Neither team has tasted defeat, with the Temples scoring eight wins and the Trojans six.

SEEK COURT GAMES.

Games with fast basket ball teams are sought by the First Brethren Basketers, who have obtained the use of the Eastern High Gym for Thursday nights from 7 to 8 o'clock. Ivan Munch, Atlantic 2761-J, is making the schedule.

Emerson Five Trims Y.M.C.A. College, 36-13

Emerson Institute's basket ball team made its bow last night on the Central Y Gym floor by trimming the Y. M. C. A. College Quintet, 36 to 13. It was also the first game for the losers, who held the schoolboys on even terms for the first period at 9-all.

Forney's all-around play for Emerson stood out. He received good support from Lewis and Cabell. Guichilla and Bartoo performed well for the Y Team.

Whirlwinds Defeat Drakes in Opener

Accurate shooting by Sanders and Self, forwards, enabled Walter's Whirlwinds to defeat Calvary Drakes, 25 to 17, in the opening game of the Community Center unlimited league last night in the Eastern High Gymnasium. It was the seventh straight victory for the Whirlwinds, who have been competing in unorganized ranks heretofore. Tomorrow night the Whirlwnids will meet Potomac Boat Club at Central High, starting at 9 o'clock.

As the matter stands, Wilbert Robinson can not be defeated for president of the Brooklyn Club, but can be ousted as manager. He probably will not be tossed out, however, as his own vote could block the election of a new field general.

The National League elected a directorate composed of Barney Dreyfuss, of Pittsburgh, Charles A Stoneham, of New York William Veeck, of Chicago, and Emil E Fuchs, of Boston.

The automatic shift of American League directors under the Constitution sent into office Jacob Ruppert, of New York, Robert Quinn, of Boston; Alva Bradley, of Cleveland, and Charles Comiskey, of Chicago.

The meeting of the American League today, 24 hours ahead of the scheduled time, was due to a change in plans. Both circuits will convene again tomorrow and will assemble in the joint meeting Thursday.

No Nat Trading Talent, Says Griffith at Confab

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Trading among baseball men gathered at New York for the annual meetings of the two major leagues, holds no charm for Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Club.

The gray fox of the Nationals will be an innocent bystander on the sidelines of the baseball mart, he said today.

"We have no players to sell, and none to trade," he announced. "We might give a few to some of our friends, but we will not sell or trade any."

This position was in sharp contrast to that of some of the other magnates. Bill McKechnie, Manager of the Boston Braves, was going around saying, "What have you?" as the conclave started.

Stanley Harris, manager of the Detroit Tigers, would like to make a trade or two, but "I do not think we will be able to do any business," he said.

St. Stephen's Grid Champs to Be Feted

Members of the St. Stephen's A. C. Football Club, which won the Capital City League senior title, will be banqueted tonight by friends at St. Stephen's Hall, Twenty-eighth and K streets northwest, at 8 o'clock.

The team will be awarded The Washington Post championship trophy and each member of the team will receive a gold football. Bill Fiester, president of the league, will make the awards. Other speakers will offer congratulations to the team which brought the first amateur sport title to the Foggy Bottom section in more than a decade.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT R. COLLYER.

RAGUS, $23.40. That was the juicy one slipped over the pan for Uncle Bertarm's followers Monday. Just a sample of the info doled out to our gang daily. And I have an idea that today will be no exception. As a matter of fact, I have word, direct from the fodder trough, that they are going to pull an unheard-of one out of the brine this aft. It is FLEDA SETH, which goes in the first. Works nave been good and I know everything is ready for a melon cutting. Just get in line and sing the song.

The day's safest proposition is ESSIE, which can run in any kind of going and which is booked to contest in the fifth race, open to fillies and mares at a mile and seventy yards. ESSIE was third her last out and seems ripe for the picking. LOUISVILLE LOU, scratched yesterday, and CARIN, which would be better on a fast track, for what is left.

Boy Walter, who is nosing around down in Crawfishtown shoots me LINDA ARCHER as one of those things in the nightcap. Simply can't miss and is likely to pay the grand stand, he warbles, and I am passing it right along to you gratis.

SCOTLAND, a reliable trick that has been the medium of many coups during the summer just past, makes his first start at Jeff Park in the fourth. They have handed him 116 pounds and he has some tough ones to beat—not the least of which are FLEETING FIRE and CHARM—but I don't look for it to be a contest. FIRST MISSION is the likely favorite, but he seems well raced out.

In the third, I am stringing along with HARASS. His last at six furlongs would indicate he can successfully go on and the mile and one-sixteenth should not be too far. HAYMAKER is the choice of the form students in this spot and SPORT DRESS may be as close as third. Just had word that Knight will be up on HARASS.

16 Devitt Gridmen Receive Monograms

Paul Tangora, crack tackle of the Devitt Prep Eleven, was chosen president of the Monogram Club of that school yesterday. Milton Ambramson, quarter back, was elected to the office of vice president, Bernard Bralone was made secretary-treasurer, and Francis Bernard installed as sergeant-at-arms. A captain of Devitt's 1930 Football Team will be elected tomorrow night at a banquet to be tendered the squad by Harry Viner, father of Melvin Viner, a guard on the team, but as Charley Rose, center, will be the only regular to return, the leadership probably will fall on his shoulders.

The following players received the monogram: James McAlear, Glenn Suddarth, Ted Soens, Paul Tangora, Charles Rose, Willard White, Norman Viner, Kasper Beazley, Milton Abramson, Francis Knott, Tom Keefe, Francis Bernard, Bits Schriver, "Red" Hennigan, George Jackson and Manager Dick Talley.

Gold footballs will be awarded the players.

COURT SQUAD ENLARGED AT MD.

8 Players From Disbanded Football Team Report.

EIGHT basketers from the foot ball squad, which disbanded after last Saturday's game, have joined the University of Maryland varsity basket ball aggregation which is preparing for its game with William and Mary at College Park, Friday night.

They are Capt. Bill Evans, forward; Julie Radice, guard; George Madigan, forward or center, all letter men, and John Fitzer, guard, all from last year's Varsity aggregation, and George Chalmers and Pat Rooney, forwards; Louis Berger, center, and Charlie May, guard, from last season's Cubs. Al Heagy, veteran guard, and Al Pease and Jack Norris, centers, from last year's freshmen, will not join the squad until after the holidays.

Heagy will play in the charity game between

14 BASKET BALL GAMES ON VIRGINIA SCHEDULE

Court Drills Off During Holidays

4 Varsity Lettermen to Be Available This Season.

Maryland Only Five of Local Group to Get Dates.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Dec. 10. Basket ball practice at the University of Virginia has been suspended during the period of the first-term examinations and the Christmas recess which will follow. Workouts will be resumed on Friday, January 3.

Roy Randall is coaching the varsity court squad. He has been varsity back field gridiron coach and freshman baseball coach for two seasons. Last winter he served as basket ball coach at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Randall played basket ball at Brown University, where he was also captain of football

Capt. Hartwell Harrison, Andy Merle, Jack Roberts and Dave Stoddard are varsity lettermen who will be back in uniform the coming season. Harrison will probably be in the center position, held formerly by Bob Millen, last year's leader. Merle will play forward and Roberts and Stoddard guards.

Entire First-Year Squad Available.

The entire regular line-up of the 1929 first-year team will be available. These men are Lem Mayo and Herbert Bryant, forwards; Bill Thomas and Bob Manley, guards, and Jim Delafield, center. This combination lost only one game and that by a single point.

In addition, there are several strong contenders from the 1929 varsity squad, as well as some of the first-year substitutes last season.

The 1930 basket ball schedule follows:

January 9, St. John's at home; 14, Maryland, at home; 16, William and Mary, at home; 21, Richmond, at home; 24, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, at home; 25, Washington and Lee, at home; 28, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, in Blacksburg; 29, Virginia Military Institute, in Lexington; 31, North Carolina State, at home.

February 7—North Carolina, at home; 8, Navy, in Annapolis; 11, Washington and Lee, in Lexington; 15, Maryland, in College Park; 19, Virginia Military Institute, at home.

Brentwood Hawk Five On Winning Rampage

The Brentwood Hawk Five, which Monday night took the lead in the Prince Georges County Basketball League by defeating Company F, 17 to 10, continued its winning streak at Laurel last night in opening its campaign in the Tri-County League by turning back Ellicott City, 44 to 26. Bailey scored 18 points for the victors, who were minus the services of their star, Johnny Wanley, who retired on personals in the first period.

The Hawk victory over the Company F Team was marked by the sterling defensive play of the victors in the second half. The first half ended, 10 to 10. The Hawks scored 7 points in the third quarter and no scoring resulted for either team in the final quarter.

Bucknell Front Line Ripped by Graduation

Lewisburg, Pa., Dec. 10.—Coach Carl Snavely, of Bucknell, will have to give many thoughts to his line for next year, as every man considered a regular starter from end to end this season, except Stonebraker, is listed with the senior class for June graduation.

Much of the success of the present grid machine at Bucknell, however, is due to the capable reserve men on hand. No sophomore tackle in Bucknell annals has performed more ably than Cy Marter, and the Haddonfield (N. J.) lad was in more than enough games this year to earn a letter. Steve Trudnak, the Mocanaqua athlete, convinced the coaches that he will be one of their best prospects next year. The giant tackle and guard played first-rate football most of this season, although he was ill through many weeks, and in the end had to undergo an operation for appendicitis in New York the day of the Fordham game.

Lou Mutzel, varsity boxer, earned a letter as a guard this fall, and is expected to be a regular lineman at all times again next season. Clyde Miller, of Catawissa, and Ken Hoak, of Harrisburg, showed well both at guard and tackle, and likely will be in most of the opening kickoffs next year. Charles Goodwin, former Keystone Academy lad, and Tom Cummings are both varsity caliber centers, with the former good enough to alternate with Kostos in every game this fall.

Allegany High Girls' Court Hopes Are High

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 10.—Allegany High girls expect to have a strong team in the Western Maryland Interscholastic Basket Ball League this season because five of the regulars are back. At present Coach Kate Grimm has 28 candidates, but hopes to cut this number down to about 15 by the time the opening game is played with the Business Girls of Central Y. W. C. A. Friday, December 20. This game will be preliminary to the contest between the Allegany High boys and the Hagerstown DeMolay Five.

The five holdovers from last season's squad are Nellie Rupert and Leah Willison, forwards; Madeline Blonskey, center; Naomi Shaffer, side center, and Cleo "Bobbie" Miller, guard. Ruth Malamphy, who, along with Miss Miller, was chosen as full back on the Western Maryland Interscholastic all-star team, is the leading candidate for the guard berth left open by the graduation of Elizabeth Monroe.

HAVERFORD BOOKS ARMY.

Special to The Washington Post.

Haverford, Pa., Dec. 10.—One of the stiffest schedules ever drawn up for a Haverford College baseball team is now being arranged for next season. Opponents already booked include Army, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Temple, Swarthmore and Lehigh. Haverford's traditional rival, Swarthmore, first played in 1870, will be met twice.

Coach McNichol to Quit Penn Basket Ball Post

Philadelphia, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Eddie McNichol, head coach of the University of Pennsylvania basket ball team, today confirmed a report that he would not be a candidate for reappointment at the end of the present season. "This is my last year as basket ball coach at Penn," he said. He would give no reason.

McNichol was a member of the varsity team from 1914 to 1917, and was captain two years. The team of 1916-17 won the Intercollegiate championship.

68 TARHEELS VOTED GRID INSIGNIAS

33 Varsity, 35 Yearling Players Given Football Awards.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 10.—Following one of the most successful football seasons in history, the University of North Carolina Athletic Council today announced the awarding of 33 monograms to members of the State championship varsity team and 35 numerals, "1933" to members of the freshman squad.

The Tarheel varsity, besides bringing a second consecutive State title to Chapel Hill, led the South and East in scoring, won more Southern Conference games than any other team, finished third in conference standings, placed second among the Nation's scorers, and set a new Tarheel scoring average of 34.6 points per game

Special Awards to Snyder And Spaulding.

Special awards were made to Leon Spaulding and Marshall Snyder. Spaulding, star full back, narrowly missed winning a monogram last year due to injuries. For meritorious service this year he was given two monograms and service stripes. Snyder, a star on the 1926 freshman team, and a great varsity prospect, underwent an operation to make him a better football player and became crippled. This was to have been his final year. He was awarded a full varsity monogram.

Those receiving honor awards were:

I., there; 22, Kentucky, there; 25, V. P. I., here; 28, Southern Conference tournament, Atlanta.

Virginia Poly Tossers Schedule 19 Contests

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Virginia Polytechnic Institute will play thirteen conference and six non-conference basket ball games this season, it was announced by C. P. Miles, director of athletics.

Two games each will be played with Roanoke College, North Carolina State, Virginia, Maryland, V. M. I., University of North Carolina and Washington and Lee. A dozen of the games are scheduled for the home court and seven for the road.

The complete schedule:

January 11, Roanoke at Salem; 15, Roanoke at Blacksburg; 17, North Carolina State at Blacksburg; 21, Emory and Henry at Blacksburg; 24, Virginia at Charlottesville; 25, Maryland at College Park; 28, Virginia at Blacksburg; 30, Elons College at Blacksburg.

February 1, V. M. I. at Blacksburg; 5, University of North Carolina at Blacksburg; 6, University of the South at Blacksburg; 7, Davidson at Blacksburg; 10, William and Mary at Blacksburg; 11, Maryland at Blacksburg; 15, V. Rare Feats Featured Davidson Grid Season

Special to The Washington Post.

Davidson, N. C., Dec. 10.—What the Davidsonian, weekly publication of Davidson College students, described as a grid rarity is the following pertinent statement: A 71-yard punt and a run of 102 yards by the same man in the same game. This was referring to Capt. Brock in the game with Duke University Thanksgiving, which Davidson won, 13 to 12. It might have been added as another rarity: Man carries ball three times during lifetime and gains a total of 139 yards, or an average of 46 1-3 yards each time he ran. The paper would still be talking about Capt. Brock, for that is what he did this season.

And, it could also have been added as still another rarity, about this same football player, Thad Brock, by name that: This player is an end, and not a half back. Continuing still further: This same end kicked ten out of fourteen tries for extra points, winning two football games, 7 to 6, and 13 to 12; that he outpunted and outkicked his opponents in ten games this season; that he did most of Davidson's passing, and that he played the greatest game at end of any man in North Carolina. Ad infinitum.

KENDALLS CHALLENGE.

The Kendalls would like to arrange a game with some fast 135-pound team, to be played in their gym. Call Manager Roy Parks, Lincoln 9527.

JONES GRID CAPTAIN.

Hickory, N. C., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Lester Jones, Georgetown, Ill., full back, today was elected captain of the Lenoir-Rhyne football team for 1930.

RING BERTHS SOUGHT BY 30 AT VA.

Varsity, Frosh Prospects Bright; Six Meets Listed.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 10. Boxing practice at the University of Virginia has been suspended until after the first term examinations and the Christmas recess. But before the training was suspended Coach Johnny La Rowe was able to get a line on most of his men in the annual exhibition bouts, which attracted a large crowd in Memorial Gymnasium.

Thirty men have been trying for places on the varsity ring team during the fall. And an even larger number have been out for the first year mitt squad. Coach La Rowe expects both squads to be considerably increased in size when practice is resumed January 3.

A good many promising ring men have been working all fall with the varsity and first-year football teams. Of these, only a few reported for boxing practice after turning in their moleskins, but more will be out after the Christmas holidays.

Of the men who have been working out all fall, Mackie T. Wright, of Calle Colima, Mexico, has been showing the most skill in the bantamweight class. Jack Fishburne, son of Judge John W. Fishburne, this city, and who was bantamweight regular last winter, has moved up into the featherweight division.

Rainey and Bryan to Fight As Lightweights.

Robert M. Rainey, jr., of Oklahoma City, Okla., captain of the Cavalier ring team, and Ham Bryan, of Richmond, Va., who was captain the previous year, are both in the lightweight class. There are also two veterans who are working as welterweights, Carter H. Myers, jr., of Petersburg, Va., and L. K. Kesser, of Norfolk, Va.

Three football men look like the most promising candidates in the middle and light-heavy classes. Bill Ivey, of Lynchburg, Va., will probably work as a middleweight, with John Peyton, of Staunton, Va., and Fenton Gentry, of St. Petersburg, Fla., as light-heavies. Gerald B. Webb, of Colorado Springs, Colo., will probably box as heavyweight, for it does not seem that Hunter Motley, of Madison, Va., can get in shape for this season.

Virginia's boxing schedule includes meets with Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg January 18, Virginia Military Institute at home January 25, Florida at home February 3, North Carolina at home February 8, Duke in Durham February 15 and Pennsylvania at home February 22.

Two Michigan Teams In Action This Week

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 9.—This week will find two Michigan athletic teams in action, the varsity swimmers and Coach George Veenker's basket ball five, which copped the Big Ten bunting last winter.

The Wolverine cagers will sally forth on a one-game invasion of the East, taking on Pennsylvania Saturday night at Philadelphia. This will be the third court battle between the two schools, the Wolverines and Quakers meeting in each of the last two years.

Matt Mann's swimming team will supply the home entertainment for Michigan sport fans, competing in the Michigan A. A. U. championships in the intramural building tank.

The Wolverine swimmers, Big Ten champs for the past three years, hope to set a new record by taking a fourth straight title. The team is shaping up well for so early in the year, but sees a mighty tough obstacle this year in Coach Tom Robinson's crack Northwestern outfit.

Co-eds Gasp as Star Is Thrown For Pants Loss

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants).

"I've seen a lot of peculiar plays in football," says Jimmy Stahlman, "but I only saw one man who made the supreme sacrifice and really gave his pants to his dear old Alma Mater.

"Vanderbilt was playing University of Virginia, I believe," says Jimmy, "when 'Peck' Owens, a famous Vanderbilt player, got away with an open field ahead of him and only one of the enemy in pursuit.

"As they neared the goal line the tackler made a last despairing dive at 'Peck' and just succeeded in getting a hold on the waistband of Owens' football pants. As 'Peck' wouldn't stop and the pants did he crawled over the line for a touchdown minus those very necessary articles of adornment.

"Freshmen and Sophs wept and hundreds of co-eds were thrown into wild hysteria at Peck's embarrassment and magnificent gesture of self-sacrifice.

"To this day at Vanderbilt University they date football history from that fateful day. That Peck Owens gave his pants for dear old Vanderbilt."

W.-L. High to Play Stone Gap Saturday

The Washington-Lee High School Football Team, of Ballston, Va., will leave tomorrow with a squad of 20, for Stone Gap, Va., where it will meet the Stone Gap Eleven for the championship of teams in its class in the State on Saturday. The Washington-Lee team established its right to play for the title by defeating the Suffolk team last Saturday, which gave it the championship of the eastern half of Virginia, while Stone Gap was capturing the title of the western portion.

Washington-Lee's team has made a clean sweep of its season in games with Class B teams in Virginia, defeating Alexandria, Charlottesville, George Mason and Fredericksburg, while taking a forfeit from the Leesburg eleven. Coach Carter Diffy, Fletcher Kemp, county school superintendent, and Principal S. P. Vanderslice will accompany the team on its quest for the title.

W. & M. FIVE OPENS TRIP HERE

Plays Maryland on Friday in First of 4-Game Jaunt.

Special to The Washington Post.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Dec. 10.—William and Mary College sends its Green, Gold and Silver basket ball quintet to meet three of the best basket ball teams in the East, when it leaves Williamsburg Friday to invade the courts of the University of Maryland, Navy, the University of Delaware, and Princeton, on a northern trip before the Christmas holidays.

Maryland is to be met at College Park on Friday, Navy at the Academy on Saturday, Delaware at Newark on Monday, December 16, and Princeton on the Tiger's court on Tuesday.

The Indian quintet is expected to have its hands full in every game, as it would be difficult to pick three stronger teams than those of the Old Liners, the Midshipmen and the Tigers. However, with a squad of ten, bolstered by the addition of five men from an undefeated Freshman team of last year, the tricolor five appears capable of offering strong opposition to its opponents on this trip.

Silverman High Scorer in Virginia Last Year.

The ten men who will make up the squad include Silverman and Sauerbrun, forwards—the former, high point scorer in Virginia in 1928—... Menamin and Schaffer, centers—the former, an Alexandria High and St. Mary Celtic player, and the latter an all-State center in Maryland in 1... Light, Sundin and Capt. M. How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

COOKING FATS.

ASIDE from the protection given, there is no important reason for cooking fats, assuming that a taste for raw fat could be cultivated. The danger from eating raw fat is not great in comparison. Few bacteria capable of producing disease either exist in fats or multiply there. There are records of tuberculosis and typhoid fever caused by eating butter and cream, but that almost completes the record. This danger can be guarded against by making butter from only pasteurized milk and cream. There is no particular danger in eating uncooked butter and uncooked cream cheeses made from such milks.

From the standpoint of digestibility, raw fat is preferable. The cooking of fats is liable to convert some of the neutral oils into fatty acids, and these are not readily digestible. Heat will produce in a few minutes some products similar to those which we recognize as causing rancidity and which result from age and exposure. The Esquimo eats raw blubber or fat, enjoys it, digests it, and is not harmed by it. We would be just as well off, or maybe a little more so, if we, too, learned the art of eating fats raw.

There is some advantage in letting cooked fat become cold before eating it. The human palate seems to have a definite preference that way, and this points to a physiological advantage of some sort. Men prefer chilled cod liver oil, cold cream, solid butter and cold fat meat, and they digest more easily. They "sit better on the stomach." This is about all there is to say of the comparative advantage of eating cooked rather than raw fat. As to fats as foods, the factors of age and weather present some points that should be known. People beyond middle life do not need much fat unless they are exposed to extreme cold. Most of them would get on better if they ate less of it. On the other hand, children and young adults generally need more fats than they get unless it be in hot weather.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE AND BABIES.

Z. P. writes: Can one who has kidney trouble safely bear healthy children?

REPLY.

If a woman has Bright's disease she should follow the advice of her physician as to child bearing. We had an article on this subject recently. Some women with Bright's disease bear children with safety to themselves and to the children. Women in other groups can not.

WALT, DO YOU THINK THERE'S ANY CHANCE OF SKEEZIX GETTING CODA'S MONEY BY CHRISTMAS?
I'D SAY THERE WASN'T A CHANCE IN THE WORLD, PHYLLIS. WHY?
I DID SC WANT TO GET YOU A WONDERFUL PRESENT, WALT DEAR. AND IT WAS GOING TO COST QUITE A LOT OF MONEY.
GEE WHIZ, PHYLLIS! I DON'T NEED ANYTHING LIKE THAT, SO I WON'T BE DISAPPOINTED.
BESIDES I DO SO NEED SOME CLOTHES FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

U.S. BONDS ADVANCE AS SALES FALL OFF

Time Money Rates Raised; South American Loans Turn Heavy.

RAILS IN GENERAL RISE

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Bond prices made small changes in today's market, the dullest in three weeks. An advance to 5 per cent flat in the time money quotation, reflecting seasonal demands, tended to restrict inquiry from large buyers and the list was again irregular, although there was a mild revival of interest in the late trading.

Declines outnumbered advances in the early hours, but some of these small losses were recovered as the session drew to its close and final prices proved to be about the best of the day. The change in sentiment was especially noticeable in the United States Government group, where large turnovers were recorded in the last hour, with closing prices irregularly higher.

Adjustment income bonds found a rising market in the rail division. St. Paul 5s, Great Northern 6s and Seaboard Air Line 5s advanced 1 to ½ points, the first-named showing a volume that was exceeded only by the American Telephone convertible 4½s. Speculative mortgage and debenture rails, which had been marked up a point or two in recent sessions, met with profit-taking.

Norfolk & Southern refunding 5s lost a point, equaling their 1929 low, on the announcement that the semi-annual dividend on the optional stock had been passed. First-grade rails were mixed, showing unimportant gains and losses. Soo Line 4s and New Haven debenture 4s made new highs for the year.

The irregularity of stocks imparted a similar trend to the convertibles. The American Telephone debenture rose 2½ points net, while International Telephone 4½s and Missouri Pacific 5½s gained less than a point. There were small net declines in American I. G. Chemical 5½s, American International 5½s, Commercial Investment Trust 5¼s, and New Haven 6s.

Activity in South American Loans was a feature of the foreign division. Brazilian issues, with the exception of the firm 8s, turned heavy. Argentines were irregular. British 5½s, among the European government obligations, declined nearly a point to within ½ of their 1929 low.

New bond financing scheduled for offering tomorrow includes a new issue of Peoples Light & Power Corporation one-year 5½ per cent notes at 99½. Proceeds will be used for retirement of unfunded debt, payment for improvements and other corporate purposes.

POTOMAC SAVINGS DIRECTORS CHOSEN

Bank's Stockholders Pass 40 Per Cent Dividend Declaration.

CAPITAL TRACTION IS UP

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Stockholders of the Potomac Savings Bank, oldest savings bank in Washington, at their annual meeting in Alexandria, Va., yesterday, approved subject to approval by the Virginia State Corporation Commission, a 40 per cent stock dividend declaration.

All the bank's directors were re-elected as follows:

William P. Ames, William W. Anderson, Alphonse M. Baer, Emory H. Bogley, B. Agee Bowles, William H. Clarke, Davenport B. Elgin, James C. Hoyle, Dr. Malcolm W. Morgan, George W. Offutt, M. Willson Offutt, Henry W. Offutt, Dr. Anthony M. Ray, C. Wendel Shoemaker, J. William Stohlman, Henry A. Storm and J. Clinton Tribby. The annual election of officers is held today.

D. P. Gaillard and Henry P. Erwin were elected to the board of directors of the Federal Storage Co. at the regular December meeting held yesterday. The regular quarterly dividend of $2 per share on the preferred stock of the company was declared payable January 15, to stockholders of record on December 31. Other directors are E. K. Morris, Robert B. Hall, James M. Johnston, Harold N. Marsh, Charles P. Stone, Homer L. Kitt and R. Randolph Barbee.

Gaillard was formerly a partner in the investment firm of John L. Edwards & Co. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, class of 1911, and is a member of the Chevy Chase, Army and Navy, Riding and Hunt and Metropolitan Clubs.

Member of Many Clubs.

Erwin is a director of Riggs National Bank and a member of the Washington Stock Exchange. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan in the class of 1904 and was formerly a partner in Erwin & Co., of Chicago, and John L. Edwards & Co., of this city. He is a member of the Chevy Chase, Racquet, Metropolitan, University, Rock Creek Hunt, Congressional Country and Riding and Hunt Clubs, of Washington, the Union Interalliee of Paris and the Quadrangle Club, of Chicago.

He is also a trustee of the Archaeological Society of Washington, a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and the American Institute of Mechanical Engineers. He now holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Ordinance Officers Reserve Corps, and has contributed many articles to Army Ordinance, journal of the Army Ordinance Association.

The addition to the plant of the Federal Storage Co., at 1707 Florida avenue, is rapidly nearing completion and is expected to be available for use early in the spring. The enlarged facilities of the company will then cover 22,500 square feet of land and constitute in excess of 106,000 square feet of floor area. The building contains complete equipment for handling household goods, including private rooms of the latest type for furniture, silver vault, cold storage vaults for furs, rugs, clothing, tapestries, etc., piano and art section, fumigation chamber, rug cleaning plant and packing department.

Housing Accommodations Planned.

Loans amounting to $125,000, which will provide housing accommodations for 16 families in Washington and its suburbs, were authorized at the last meeting of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s real estate committee, and were placed through Weaver Bros., Inc., of this city.

Loans on bond and mortgage amounting to $5,359,426 were authorized in the country at large at the same meeting. Of this amount $4,362,176 were city and $997,250, farm loans. Nine loans on business buildings were included in the city loans. The housing loans will provide accommodations for 898 families. These loans were scattered in 95 cities and towns throughout the United States.

Potomac Electric 6 per cent preferred led the market yesterday on the Washington Stock Exchange, 105 shares selling at fractional recessions from 108¾. Forty-four shares of Mergenthaler Linotype moved at two and three point advances from 104½ and 100 of National Mortgage & Investment preferred at 37½, last sale price. The bond market improved; a sales volume of $7,500 presenting an advance of $6,300. Most sales were in Capital Traction 5s, $5,000 transferring at 92, fractional gain.

Emerson Dividend Declared.

Emerson's Bromo Seltzer, Inc., has declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on Class A and Class B common stock, and a dividend of $1.00 a share on the preferred stock. These dividends are payable January 2, 1930, to stockholders of record December 14, 1929, at 12 o'clock noon. The books of the corporation will close at noon, December 14, 1929, and will be reopened on January 2, 1930, at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Emerson's Bromo Seltzer, Inc., was recently organized for the purpose of taking over the Emerson Drug Co. and the Maryland Glass Corporation; and the Class A stock was put on the market by the Century Trust Co. of Baltimore and Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., of this city.

The annual meeting of the Riggs Bank Club, social organization of Riggs National Bank, held yesterday, resulted in the election of the following officers for the new administrative year: George H. Morris, president; William E. Brooks, first vice-president; E. E. Fisher, second vice president; Miss Jane Kennedy, secretary. George M. Irelan was reelected treasurer.

The executive committee will consist off Mrs. Elsie W. Boteler, Mrs. Mildred F. Hoeke, Kenneth N. Alvey, Emory G. Shanks and Danzil E. Wisecarver. Branch representatives are Robert Mellefont, Dupont Circle; Joseph A. Keene, Park Road; Miss Eva Ricker, Farmers & Mechanics and Friendship Heights; Mrs. Myrtle Wolfe, Seventh and I streets; Louis Quintzer, Northwest.

Directors Are Selected.

Melvin C. Hazen, Thomas P. Bones and L. Perry West, directors in the Columbia Permanent Building Association of the District of Columbia, whose terms expire, were reelected last night at a meting of stockholders for terms of three year, beginning January 1.

Other directors in the association are Floyd E. Davis, Albert H. Taylor, Alpheus E. Riddle, William P. Richards, Howard R. Norton and Fred A. Smith.

James A. Soper, Lincoln National Bank, past president of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, and T. Hunton Leith, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, national executive councilman of the institute, will attend a forum meeting of Philadelphia Chapter tonight.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

BUSINESS MEN PLAN TO AID SCHOOL NEED

Arlingtonians to Advertise as Help to Conditions of Overcrowding.

CITIZENS APPROVE IDEA

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

Recognizing the needs for increased revenue to meet the rapid development of Arlington County to provide for more schools, the development of parks and to aid in financing the water department, it was learned yesterday that the business interests of Rosslyn have started a campaign to bring into the county more business.

To bring to the attention of the thousands of persons crossing the Key Bridge daily a huge sign 15 by 100 feet was construcoted yesterday on the shore of the Potomac River on the Virginia side overlooking the Capital and on it is being painted these words, "More Business at Rosslyn Will Help Pay for Water, Schools and Parks."

Discussing the problems facing the county today, John E. Fowler, president and owner of the Cherry Smash Co. located at Rosslyn declared more attention must be given to the establishment within the county of business to aid in providing revenue in the way of taxes to meet the growing needs. Nothing short of a bond issue for schools will meet the situation with which the county school board is confronted and the grave question is, will the taxpayers support such a bond issue.

Indorsement of the movement started by the business interests at Rosslyn yesterday to carry on an organized effort to invite industry into Rosslyn and other sections of Arlington County was given at a meeting of the Clarendon Citizens Association held last night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

The special committee to study plans for the erection of a community hall in Clarendon, of which Arthur J. Porter is the chairman, was instructed to continue its study and to confer with the committee from the Lyon Village Citizens Association.

The special committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, of which Harry A. Fellows is chairman, studying the questions propounded by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, relative to the needs of Arlington County for waterfront development, will meet tonight in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

Pleading guiltty to an indictment charging him with attempted housebreaking, Sylvester Laconey was yesterday sentenced to serve twelve months in the Arlington County Jail by Circuit Court Judge Howard W. Smith.

Norbert Milnick was elected noble grand of Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., at the meeting held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon last night. Other officers are C. J. Ives, vice grand; Frank Davis, recording secretary; C. P. Heins, financial secretary, and W. B. Huffman, treasurer. The newly elected officers will be installed at the January meeting.

The town council of Falls Church, meeting last night, considered plans being advanced for the continuing of the water main from the corporate limits on the Lee Highway through the town along Washington avenue.

As the plan now stands, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier is prepared to continue the main but to have it reduced to 6 inches.

It is pointed out by members of the town council that the 6-inch main will be inadequate to meet the growing needs of the town and that there should be an 8-inch main laid.

According to Engineer Kinnier, the 6-inch main will cost approximately $3,500, while the 8-inch main will mean an increase of $1,500.

Maj. L. P. Daniel, president of the Northwest Civic Association, presented a resolution adopted by the association's executive committee, asking that no main be laid less than an 8-inch one along Washington avenue and that any expenditure of town funds for water purposes be made contingent upon an agreement signed by the Arlington County Board of Supervisors that said board will, if authorized by the Secretary of War, supply water to any section of Falls Church upon application in due form.

It was brought out by Chief E. M. Ward that a 6-inch main would be inadequate to meet the needs of the fire department in case of a large fire.

Harry A. Fellows, former mayor, advocated the council borrowing funds if necessary to lay the 8-inch main. He felt that the town should authorize to Arlington County water board to lay the extra size main, and the additional cost be borne out of the town's general fund.

A motion by Councilman Charles Gage to the effect that the water committee take steps to discuss the situation with the Arlington County authorities and to secure a written agreement which would insure the laying of the 8-inch main and make possible extension of service to the entire town was adopted.

Engineer Kinnier, of Arlington County, stated last night that as soon as the additional money is provided, he is prepared to lay the 8-inch main.

The honor roll for the month from the Patrick Henry School as given out yesterday from the office of the Arlington County school superintendent includes the following pupils by grades: Grade, 1—Marrin Flaherty, Carroll Gardner, Stewart Jennings, Samuel Keller, Robert Payne, George Poos, Barbara Field, Evelyn Woodruff and Gloria Dansberger; Grade, 2—Norma Ward, Doris Pearson, Marguerita Planyher, Elizabeth Davis, Robert Thee, Marjorie Preston, Robert Williams, Edmond Simonton and Gloria Rochett; Grade, 4—Shirley Smith; Grade, 5—Louise Owens and Evelyn Blandford; Grade 6.— Elizabeth Fuller and Elizabeth Smith.

Friday night, the men of St. George's Episcopal Church, will meet in the Parish Hall at 8 o'clock for the purpose of completing plans for an organization of men of the church.

Lieut. Comdr. W. Eldredge Goodhue, U. S. N., is announced as the principal speaker of the evening. He will speak on "Twenty Years in the Navy." Commander Goodhue was in command of a division of patroling craft doing convoy duty during the World War.

The officers of Arlington Chapter, No. 39, Order of the Eastern Star, will entertain members of Sharon Chapter, of McLean, at the meeting of Sharon Lodge Monday night.

Election of officers of Cherrydale Council, No. 11, Daughters of America, will be the principal business at the meeting to be held Friday night at the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon.

The Friendship Circle of Arlington Chapter, No. 39, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emma Topley.

Arlington Rotary Club meets tomorrow at the Washington Golf and Country Club at 12:30 o'clock.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will elect officers at the meeting to be held tomorrow at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse at 12 o'clock.

Harry K. Green, county commissioner of revenue, will attend the annual meeting of commissioners of revenue called by the State tax department for the purpose of studying taxation to be held at Richmond Friday and Saturday of this week.

Richard L. Eacho, vice president of the Back to the District Association, spoke at the meeting of the civic committee of the League of Republican Women of Arlington County held in Clarendon Monday night.

Eacho stressed the many advantages to be derived by Arlington County again becoming a part of the District of Columbia, among which he cited being reduced gas and electric light rates and reduction in automobile license taxes.

William Henry Evans, of Halls Hill, and William Ferguson, both colored, of Ballston, apprehended by Washington police and turned over to Arlington County authorities yesterday, are being held in the county jail. Evans is held on a charge of housebreaking in that he is alleged to have entered chicken houses of M. B. Kershenbaum. He will be given a hearing today before Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. Ferguson, who was said to have been with Evans, is being held for investigation.

Fellowship Council, No. 48, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will celebrate its second anniversary at a meeting to be held tomorrow night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon.

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Lyon Park School will be held tomorrow night in the schoolhouse at 8 o'clock.

1928 DEATH RATE LOW IN VIRGINIA

State Compares Favorably With National Area in This Regard.

SUICIDE FIGURES DOWN

Richmond, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Virginia's death rate in 1928 was lower than that for the national registration area, composed of 44 States, the District of Columbia, and 10 cities in nonregistration States, a report on the principal causes of death released here today by the United States Department of Commerce shows.

The State rate was 1,173.2 and the national rate 1,204.1, both higher than 1927 rates.

Although deaths due to several preventable diseases were in lower proportion to population in Virginia than deaths from the same causes in the national registration area last year, the Old Dominion continued to show higher rates than the Nation for typhoid, pellagra, tuberculosis and puerperal causes other than puerperal septicemia.

Rates Are Contrasted.

Virginia's rate, 6.1 per 100,000, from typhoid, contrasts with 4.9 in the United States; from pellagra the Virginia rate was 7.5 and the Nation's 6.1; from tuberculosis the State rate was 96.9 and the national rate 79.2; from puerperal causes other than puerperal septicemia, the Virginia rate was 11 and the national rate 8.7.

Superior or equal records to the Nation's were shown by Virginia in deaths from malaria, smallpox, diphtheria, infantile paralysis and influenza among others. There were only five deaths in Virginia in 1928 from malaria for every 1,000,000 population and one death per million from smallpox.

State health officials in commenting on the Government report said that several of the death rates in Virginia, including that from tuberculosis, were made higher by the State's large Negro population.

Violent Deaths Lower.

In the violent death field, Virginia generally presented a lower rate than the national registration area, homicides, deaths from burns, and accidental shootings being exceptions.

Although Virginia has many mines and there are some States in which no mines are located, the Virginia death rate from mine accidents was 2 per 100,000 and the Nation's 2.3 per 100,000.

The suicide rate for Virginia was much better than that for the whole area. Virginia's rates from automobile accidents, crossing accidents and machinery accidents were all superior to the national rate. Five out of every million persons in the United States were killed in street car-auto collisions in 1928, but only one per million was killed in that way in Virginia.

Annapolis Drops Fight on W.,B. & A.

Electric Cars Will Continue to Make Left Turns, City Decides.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 10.—Accepting the opinion of City Counselor George B. Woelfel that it would be a useless expenditure and a long litigation in the courts, Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt and members of the city council of Annapolis, finally have decided to drop the fight to compel the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railways to abandon operating its cars by way of a left turn at West street and Church Circle, from the standpoint of hazard to other traffic and in violation of municipal ordinances.

The controversy has covered nearly two years, having had its inception at the time the municipality repaved Main street, and at the request of authorities, the railway consented to remove its tracks from that thoroughfare and abandoned operation around the south side of Church Circle. This enabled the trolleys to make a loop of the city.

After the change was made, the city "stood pat" on a verbal agreement made by the late James J. Doyle, president of the railway, that the company, by January 1 of this year, would divert traffic over the Washington-Baltimore branch around the outskirts of the city, entering by way of the Bladen street terminal and thereby abandon the West street terminal. Subsequently, however, the company refused to do this, finding it impracticable as well as a too great expense, especially since its 25-year franchise expires in 1932.

JURY FOR DEPUTIES CHOSEN WITH SPEED

Last Six Members Selected in Two Hours as Trial Opens in Carolina.

COURTROOM IS JAMMED

Burnsville, N. C., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Proceeding with unexpected rapidity, State and defense late today agreed upon twelve men who will sit as a jury in the trial of eight McDowell County deputy sheriffs accused of the murder of six cotton mill strikers during a riot at Marion, on October 2.

It took almost all day to select six Yancey County farmers and loggers, who form part of the jury. It took only about two hours to select the other six jurors.

The case, brought to this little mountain village to get it away from the atmosphere of the industrial sections of the State, attracted much attention and the courtroom was crowded to overflowing. An unusual feature was the fact that the bar was so crowded with court attaches, attorneys and newspapermen that the eight defendants—W. A. Fender, Dave Jarrett, B. L. Robbins, Jim Owens, Charles Tate, Taylor Greene, William Twiggs and Robert Ward—were seated outside the railing on the first row of seats provided for spectators. It is customary in North Carolina courtrooms to have a row of seats just inside the railing for defendants.

Up to the time of selection of the last six jurors the State had used five of its sixteen peremptory challenges. The others were excused by the court because of relationship to W. A. Fender, one of the defendants, whose family once lived in this county, or because of formed or expressed opinions concerning the guilt or innocence of Fender and the other defendants.

Only general mention of the early morning battle in Marion on October 2, in which a score of persons were struck by gunfire and a dozen others injured by other weapons, was made in the examination of the veniremen.

The seven indictments against the deputy sheriffs were consolidated. Six of them charged all of the deputies with second-degree murder on each of the deceased—Tilden Carver, Luther Bryson, George Jonas, Randolph Hall, Samuel Vickers and James Roberts. The seventh indictment charged all of the deputies with all of the deaths. Second-degree murder conviction carries a sentence of 2 to 30 years.

Piedmont Area Doctors To Meet in Culpeper

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Dec. 10.—Dr. Kenneth F. Maxey, of the University of Virginia Hospital, will present a paper on tularemia at the semiannual meeting of the Piedmont Medical Society, to be held here tomorrow. Epidemic encephalitis will be discussed by Dr. David C. Wilson, also of the University Hospital.

About 25 doctors from ten counties in the territory east of the Blue Ridge are expected to attend this meeting. Local practitioners have arranged for a dinner to be served after the meeting.

TOWN STREET CARS YIELD TO BUS LINES

Last Cumberland Trolley Route to Be Discarded, Company Says.

LIGHT-RATE CUT NEARS

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 10.—The Potomac Edison Co. today, through P. Paul Smith, Hagerstown, vice president, announced after a conference with Mayor Thomas W. Koon and representative citizens that all street cars are to be eliminated in the city and motor buses substituted next year. Lowering of lighting rates to an extent yet to be determined was also announced.

The company had already abandoned the entire railway system with the exception of the Center street line and the elimination of that line will go far toward adjusting severe traffic conditions on that street.

Mr. Smith said: "The changes have presented a number of serious and difficult problems for consideration—it involves the discarding and writing off the books of more than a million dollars worth of bond and stock holders' property in the form of tracks, cars, overhead construction, equipment, car barns and other valuable property, practically all of which will be lost to the company and the purchasing of equipment and property adapted to the substitute operation and the development of new and unserved territory."

Approximately a dozen additional buses will be placed in the service.

Regarding light rate reductions, Smith said action was slowed up because of the discarding of over a million dollars worth of the railway property and the expenditure of several million dollars of additional capital in the providing of new power lines and substation facilities now in the course of construction, which will bring unlimited power from the west and will be available in Cumberland within the next month or two. Despite these unusual conditions, Smith declared, the company's 1930 program included a readjustment of lighting rates favorable to the people of Cumberland.

Holm to Address Richmond Meeting

Federal Expert Will Speak to Farmers on Dairy Products.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—"Virginia and Dairy Products" will be the subject of an address to be delivered here December 13 by Dr. George E. Holm, senior biological chemist of the bureau of dairy industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. Two hundred and fifty dairy farmers from this section of Virginia have been invited to the address, which was arranged by the Virginia section of the American Chemical Society.

The address is one of an "industrial expansion" series, fostered by the Chemical Society and, according to Edwin Cox, chairman of the Virginia section, dairying was selected as a subject because of its recent growth in the State.

Since 1921, Cox said, the value of creamery butter produced in the State has doubled and the production of cheese has increased from 87,000 pounds to 507,000 pounds in 1928. Canned milk production, he stated, has risen from 1,422,000 pounds in 1925 to 4,500,000 in 1928. In 1928, the value of all Virginia dairy products was $29,291,000, he said.

COUNTY BOND ISSUE IS BOUGHT AT 104.39

Prince Georges Securities Draw Four Bids, All Above Par.

PRICE CHEERS OFFICERS

Four bids, all above par, were received yesterday by the Prince Georges County Board of Education on the issue of $207,000 in school bonds advertised for sale. The issue was awarded to Stein Bros. & Boyce and the Mercantile Trust Co., both of Baltimore, joint bidders, who offered $104.39.

County officials were jubilant when they learned of the exceptionally high price obtained for the bonds. The issue had been held up since the session of the State Legislature in January to await a better market. The high bids of all four of the bidders were construed as a mark of confidence in the future prosperity of the county.

The other bids were: First National Bank of Southern Maryland, $104.273; Alex Brown & Sons, of Baltimore, $103.112; Robert Garrett & Sons, of Baltimore, $102.57. The bids also offer accrued interest, but this factor is not expected to count highly, as it is believed that the bonds will be ready for delivery January 1, 1930, when they are to be dated. The interest rate is 4¾ per cent.

The bonds are of serial maturity and are to finance a program of school building and repair. They were authorized by the last session of the Legislature.

The board of education accepted the resignations of five teachers at its meeting yesterday. They were: Johnnie B. Coe and Mabel L. Corcoran, both of Riverdale School; Catherine H. Finocchiaro, Brentwood; Mamie J. Proctor, Cedarwood Colored School, and Willa Garner, Westwood Colored School. Miss Margaret Workman was appointed to one of the Riverdale vacancies.

The resignation of Mrs. Olive Bonner as trustee of the Fort Washington School because of ill health was accepted and J. G. C. Salyers appointed trustee.

The board refused four requests for transportation of small groups of children and also declined to furnish transportation of children from the Fort Foote district, asked by the principal of Oxon Hill Consolidated School, on the ground that it had no funds available for such transportation.

The tuition scholarship to the Maryland Institute of Art and Design was awarded to Miss Emily L. Blake of Laurel, subject to the approval of State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer.

The county commissioners yesterday disapproved two applications for rezoning and granted a third request.

The application of John Kieley for reclassification from residential "A" to Commercial "D" of a tract of land at Paint Branch on the Baltimore boulevard and bordering the University of Maryland grounds, was disapproved following protests by university officials. The application of E. N. Lightbown for rezoning of a tract on the east side of the new Rhode Island avenue extension was disapproved.

The board granted a plea for reclassification of lots 1 to 5, block 13, Brentwood, on the west side of the Rhode Island avenue extension, asked by J. Moses Edlavitch.

A delegation from Bowie headed by V. M. Nichols appeared before the board yesterday to ask that the road starting at the overhead bridge at Lanham and proceeding by way of Seabrook to Bowie be made a lateral road. It is at present gravel.

The board granted a petition by the Pennsylvania Railroad that its assessment be not increased because of approximately 40 acres of ground which it has purchased in connection with a ditching project along its right of way from Bowie to Landover, a distance of 9 miles, inasmuch as the railroad is assessed $30,000 a mile under its present classification. The ditches were dug to carry off rain water.

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Dec. 10.—D. W. Peters, of the State Department of Education, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Orange County Teachers Association held today in the Orange High School.

Miss Eleanor Decker, president of the association, introduced also Dr. E. L. Kramer, professor of education, State Teachers College, Fredericksburg; Prof. D. N. Davidson, superintendent of Orange County schools; Mrs. S. D. Bray, rural supervisor; Miss Leth Duncanson, Miss Mary McIntosh, Miss Ruby Baugher, Miss Alice Pollard and Mrs. Alfred Allen.

COUNTY CHIEFS GET CEMETERY PETITION

Montgomery Officials Also Are Asked to Permit Boxing Bouts.

BOND PREMIUMS CITED

Petitions to establish a new cemetery on Brookeville road and to permit boxing twice a month were filed at the meeting of the Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday. The cemetery petition was referred to the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the boxing permit hearing set for December 16 at the Silver Spring County Building.

The cemetery petition was filed in behalf of the New Mount Olivet Cemetery Co. by Attorney W. C. Sullivan, of Washington. The petition is signed by Edward L. Buckey, president, and Eugene C. Connelly, secretary. The commissioners are asked to grant a permit to establish and maintain a cemetery on a tract of 100 acres, part of "Garter Lost," the southwest corner of which is a stone on the east side of the old Washington-Brookeville turnpike, opposite its junction with the county road to Vier's mill. The cemetery tract has a frontage of 1,652.51 feet on the turnpike.

The petition states that the cemetery company believes that the tract of land agrees with the specifications laid down by the county ordinance regulating the establishment of cemeteries, although the company declines to admit the legality of the ordinance.

The petition for a hearing on the question of permitting boxing twice a month in the Silver Spring National Guard Armory was presented by Lieut. Ward Caddington, morale officer of the Service Company, First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, on behalf of its athletic association.

The petition points out that the State Athletic Commission has no power to regulate or license boxing bouts held in State armories under the auspices of a National Guard Armory and that the power of the county commissioners is coincident with that of the boxing commisson but that the guardsmen feel that it is desirable to offer the people of the Silver Spring section an opportunity to object inasmuch as the armory is public property and it is not desirable to hold exhibitions therein objectionable to taxpayers.

Any exhibition permitted or held in the armory will be under the supervision of the State Athletic Commission, the petition states, and efforts will be made to have the matches scheduled between local guardsmen or from neighboring National Guard organizations or the Regular Army. No professional promoters will be permitted to control such matches and funds received from the bouts after necessary expenses have been deducted will be placed in the company fund to increase the facilities of the armory as a military station and as a community center and for providing additional recreation features and comforts for the men while at camp or in the armory.

The county commissioners authorized issuance of bonds for improvement of the Poolesville road to be assessed against the taxpayers of the road district.

William Johnson, of Westmore, Md., last night had a narrow escape from serious injury when the automobile he was driving turned over after a collision with another car driven by E. D. Hawkins, of Gaithersburg. Johnson was pinned under the car when it turned over on its top but managed to crawl out. He was uninjured.

Johnson was turning into the Gaithersburg road at the Gude lane near Rockville when the rear end of his car was struck by Hawkins' car, police say. Both men were charged with reckless driving by County Policeman Windsor Poole and will be arraigned in county police court Saturday.

Purchase of the section of land adjacent to the Gaithersburg School upon which the board has held an option since 1926, was authorized yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education at its meeting in the Rockville High School. The land has been used as a playground and the community has expended approximately $1,000 in grading the property. The land is to be purchased in accordance with the option at a price of $2,500.

The board accepted a bid offered by the Kolb Electrical Co., to install the electrical work in the Takoma-Silver Spring High School, now under construction, at a cost of $820.50. W. B. Walters was appointed a trustee of the Fairland High School to fill an existing vacancy.

The county schools will close Friday, December 20, for the Christmas holidays and will reopen January 2, the board announced. The teachers will receive their checks for the term which ends December 27 on or before December 20, according to an authorization by the board given to Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broome.

The Montgomery County courthouse building committee will meet this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the courthouse at Rockville to discuss the method of disposal of buildings on the block west of the present courthouse which has been acquired by the county in connection with the construction of a modern courthouse and jail. It also is expected that the committee will decide upon the time which will be allowed the occupants to move from the properties.

Montgomery County bonds issued under authority of acts of the General Assembly of 1927 and 1927 brought premiums amounting to $73,119.99 it was developed yesterday when Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, reported that he had delivered and received payment on bonds sold recently.

Clark pointed out that the issues authorized by the 1927 session brought $1,752,000 and the 1929 issues $2,313,000, aggregating $4,065,000, with premiums of $73,119.99. The bond issues were for roads, schools and local district improvements.

Nathaniel Snowden, colored, of Bethesda, was sentenced to serve three months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in circuit court at Rockville. Snowden was convicted of charges of possession of liquor with intent to sell. The judge ordered his automobile sold and the proceeds turned over to the county.

Judge Peter said that he had made the sentence much lighter than apparently the case deserved because Snowden had served 2 months and 27 days in the county jail while awaiting trial.

Thomas Snowden, of Brookeville, not related to the other Snowden, was acquitted on charges of possession with intent to sell. He was arrested at a baseball game near his home last summer. He was represented by Attorney Stedman Prescott and Thomas L. Dawson.

Proposed College Sites At Lynchburg Viewed

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 10.—Judge Don P. Halsey, Miss Helen Ruth Henderson, Dr. B. D. Tucker, Richard H. Wright and Edwin B. Jones, of the State legislative commission, named to make a report as to the desirability of a State College of Liberal Arts for Women, met here today and inspected a number of sites proffered for the proposed college.

The commission met in the office of Judge Halsey, its chairman, before making the trip. The trip ended at the house of the Boonsboro Corporation, in Bedford County, where the visitors were guests at a luncheon given by members of a chamber of commerce committee.

DANIELS WELCOMES MISSIONS SESSIONS

Missionary Conference of Methodists Convenes in Raleigh.

BISHOP CANNON ATTENDS

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—With Josephus Daniels, Raleigh editor, as the welcoming speaker, the fourth annual general missionary conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, opened its three-day meeting here tonight.

Dr. W. G. Cram, secretary of the board of missions and president of the missionary council, presided and conducted devotionals.

Several hundred prominent Methodist laymen, clergy and publication editors from throughout the South filled the Edenton Street Methodist Church for the opening session. Several bishops were present, including Bishop James Cannon, Jr., who left after tonight's session for New York.

"The lion in the path of Christian missionaries today," Daniels, Secretary of the Navy under Woodrow Wilson, said in welcoming the conference to Raleigh, "is the un-Christian life of the American people. The place to begin the new day of missions is in the pulpits and pews of America. If zeal and devotion here at home bore true relation to the dedication of those on the foreign field, the small results would be replaced by enlargement and widespread acceptance of the Christian religion."

Business sessions will begin tomorrow.

COTTON GROUP ACTS FOR CENTRAL BOARD

Marketing Agency, Similar to That of Grain Men, Mapped at Parley.

FEDERAL CONTROL ASKED

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Preliminary steps for establishment of a centralized cotton marketing agency, Government controlled, were taken here today at a cotton congress attended by three members of the Federal Farm Board and 150 leading representatives of the cotton industry.

The sessions were executive and the only official word concerning the deliberations was the announcement by Alexander Legge, chairman of the Farm Board, that "it seems our program will go through right away. Little or no opposition has been manifested so far."

Sixteen cotton cooperative associations were represented. They spent most of the morning discussing the present marketing ills of the cotton industry and were in a receptive mood to hear the board's outline of the plan to revolutionize the cotton business.

The proposed organization, patterned after the grain marketing agency, would embrace all local and state cooperatives and would be controlled by the Government. The Government would be expected to furnish money for establishment of the agency, estimated at amounts varying from $10,000,000 to $40,000,000. The agency, it was indicated, eventually would be sold to the cotton growers in form of Government stock. Its policies would be directed by the Farm Board.

Besides Legge, Carl Williams, cotton's representative on the board, and James C. Stone, vice chairman of the board, were present. The sessions will be continued tomorrow.

Williams said he had not yet received a telegram sent him from Washington by five senators asking that loans on cotton be extended from 16 to 20 cents.
